A petition is now being circulated to add one and one-tenth miles to Rural Route No. 2 from Concord. It is desired to have it changed at Mass on Goodman's west to L. O. Seaford's, thence southwest to the present route.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples Thursday by Register of Deeds Elliott, both couples living in Kannapolis: Mack S. Hubbard and Miss Myrtle St. Claire, and Carl Williams and Miss Geneva B. Huffman.

The Children's Society, The Light Brigade of Calvary Lutheran Church, will give a pageant, "The Fruit of the Thanksgiving Tree" Saturday evening, November 8th, at 7 o'clock, to which service the general public is cordially invited.

Vital statistics which have been reported at the County Health Offices here for the month of October are as follows: No. 3 township, 1 death; No. 6 township, 4 births and 2 deaths; No. 7 township, 4 births and 4 deaths. No other reports have been received.

There are many indications now that Concord is all set for another wet week-end. A slow, steady drizzle began falling here during the night and has continued most of the day, with heavy clouds overhead. Weather reports indicate the rain is general throughout this section of the state.

A Tom Thumb Wedding is to be staged at the Graded School No. 2 tonight at 7 o'clock, at which time, a number of the small children are to take part in the bridal ceremony. After the wedding, a fashion show will be put on by a number of the merchants of the city.

Football fans in Concord will go to Charlotte tomorrow for their closest game. Davidson and Hamden-Sydney play at Wearn field in the only game in this part of the state. Carolina plays V. M. I. and State V. P. I. while Duke and Wake Forest meet in Durham.

Three cases are on docket for trial in recorder's court this afternoon, police officers stated. One prisoner is charged with speeding, another is charged with selling liquor and another with an assault. Business with the officers has been rather quiet during the week.

It is known that a number of persons plan to spend Tuesday night here en route to Charlotte for the auto races Wednesday. Charlotte hotels already have engaged most of their rooms, it is said, and a number of persons have engaged rooms here for the night before the races.

Tomorrow will be a big day at Duke University because of the Duke-Wake Forest football game, but the memorial service to James B. Duke will not be held until Wednesday, November 25th, according to information received here by trustees of the university. It was first planned to hold the memorial services tomorrow.

Men who have not returned their cards to Mr. Blanks indicating that they will attend the Sunday Morning Prayer Breakfast are asked to do so at once in order that he may know how large a number for which to prepare. Dr. J. C. Rowan will preside at the breakfast which is to be served in the Y. M. C. A.

It is considered likely that Miss Delma Hersperger, who is teaching expression in the city, will have a class in Kannapolis as soon as she returns from New York. Inquiries have been received here from prominent people in Kannapolis which indicate that they would like to have their children take this work if possible.

An effort is being made by Mr. Blanks to impress on the public of Concord that everyone is invited to attend the Vesper Service at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. This is being held under the auspices of the Y for prayer week. Rev. R. M. Courtney, pastor of Central Methodist Church, will preach.

There is nothing to reports here that a recent fight occurred in the jail between prisoners. "It is nothing unusual for prisoners to have verbal tiffs, but there has been, no fight," one jail attendant stated. "You see some times the men wake up feeling bad, and this fact, together with the fact that they are in jail, makes them prone to argue."

George T. Moore, of St. Louis, says that the average city dweller would gain from 25 to 35 pounds a year if the body retained all the snot and dust breathed in.

PREACHING THE SIMPLE FAITH

Winston-Salem Sentinel.
There was an interesting bit of staff correspondence in the Raleigh News and Observer of Sunday by Ben Dixon McNeill with reference to a sermon delivered by Dr. George W. Truett, great Baptist preacher of Dallas, Texas, at Chapel Hill Sunday.

It is particularly interesting because of the fact that Dr. Truett will preach for a week at the First Baptist Church here, beginning next Thursday evening.

Some extracts from the news article about Dr. Truett's sermon follow:

"The preacher might have done two things. He might have invited the interest and approval of the young agnostic by straining toward what the modern call liberalism. Or he might have taken up the cause of the natural intolerance of the young believers and intrenched against the natural inability of the other group to accept the meticulous faith of the fundamentalist."

"He did neither. He ignored them both, he preached to them, he preached to all men the simple faith that he himself has lived, that neither questions nor is intolerant or critical or hostile toward any man. And from the moment he opened the book and began to speak there was a hush upon the audience that endured until he was done, and they were passed out into the pale October sunshine and were gone."

"Perhaps they both went away ashamed, those who have it, at the littleness of their faith, and those who had it not ashamed at their own doubting."

"The sermon itself was starkly simple. Its language was a language that anybody could understand. The manner of its delivery was without a single gesture or tone that could be called spectacular. The preacher scarcely raised his voice, save in one magnificent moment when he quoted two stanzas of the Recessional toward the conclusion. But somehow it struck home with all the power that thousands came to know when Truett preached in Raleigh, and more. Today it seemed somehow to be more virile."

"God wants, not your life, not what you have, but you," was the theme of it. For a text he had a verse from the story of Heczekiah. "When the burnt offering began the song of the Lord began." His appeal was to students to give themselves to God, all of themselves, without reservation. This, he declared, is the true destiny of man, and without it life in the end can be nothing but emptiness.

"Not in the whole of 45 minutes of the sermon was there a single sentence that could be seized upon, quoted, and held up with. This was what Dr. Truett said, unless it was when he declared that where life is offered, any cause must triumph, and that the tragedy of Christian life is its heartlessness, the consent of the professing Christian to live tepidly."

"Of problems with which believers and unbelievers fret themselves he said nothing. To him nothing matters but that a man shall give himself wholly to God as the first preparation for life, and with that done all problems, all doubts, all fears, all things that best and becloud life are past."

There is something in the example given by Dr. Truett in that Sunday sermon that some other ministers and students of religious matters might well consider.

He was so busy preaching the simple faith to those students that he had no time to discuss dogmas, no inclination for a dissertation upon theological points. He was so interested in giving those students something they could live by that grumbling and controversy, and theological hair-splitting, had no place whatever in his discourse.

Dr. Truett is one of the greatest preachers in the world today.

He is so great that he does not have to resort to the expedient of

WELL KNOWN PAINTER ENDORSES HERB JUICE

Mr. B. B. Hatch Says He Thinks Every One Should Know About This Great Remedy For Stomach Trouble.

Every day in the week hundreds of Concord and Kannapolis people call at Gibson Drug Co. to see the HERB JUICE man and thank him for the wonderful relief his medicine has given them. Mr. B. B. Hatch, well known Concord citizen, who resides at Concord, N. C., R. F. D. 6, was among those to call a few days ago and to show his appreciation for the relief HERB JUICE has given him.

He requested that the following statement be published, in order that his friends and others might know about this famous medicine. Mr. Hatch said it was through an aunt of mine that I learned about HERB JUICE. She advised me to use it for stomach trouble, with which I had been bothered for some time. My food did not digest, but instead, just lay in the stomach and fermented; gas would form, which kept me bloated all the time, could not sleep or rest well at night, and was always badly constipated. But as bad as my condition was, your HERB JUICE seemed to help me from the start, and now, after using it for some time, I feel like a new man. As for stomach trouble—say my stomach could not be in any better shape. I eat anything I want and never have had any bad after-effects from gas or indigestion pains, sleep fine at night and feel rested when I get up in the morning. HERB JUICE is truly a wonderful regulator and through its natural action on the bowels has completely relieved me of constipation.

My friends have used this medicine and say they have found it satisfactory in every way. HERB JUICE is sold and guaranteed to give satisfaction in Concord by Gibson Drug Co.

creating interest in what he says by being spectacular and sensational, as some preachers of less ability and distinction sometimes seem to feel that they have to do.

The Written Law For Once.

Winston-Salem Journal.
The jury at Hendersonville did not have to rely on the unwritten law for an excuse to turn their backs upon the written laws of North Carolina.

In Hendersonville, Brooks killed Bryson to save his own life. It was proved that Bryson shot first. Both men were armed. But Brooks had more reason for carrying a gun than did Bryson. The ex-Mayor had ruined the barber's home. That was admitted. The ex-Mayor had agreed to leave town and stay away for a given period. He did not keep his agreement, but returned armed for the fray. When he fired, what was there left for the barber to do?

The Henderson county jury's task was a comparatively easy one. In view of the great ease with which the juries in Rockingham and Durham arrived at their verdict, it is surprising that this sturdy mountain jury should have required two ballots to find their prisoner not guilty of murder under the written laws of this Commonwealth.
