Jade and Pearls

We may not hear so much about earrings lately as we did a few years ago, but that is because they have become a staple in the wardrobe. Every woman wears them, and we now take them for granted. This pair shows a fascinating combination of jade and pearls, and goes to great length to be lovely.

MISS HUDGINS TO WED

JUDGE JOHN M. OGLESBY

Wedding Will Be in Early Winter and Will Be Event of Statewide Interest. Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Hudgins, of Marion, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara Josephine, to Judge John Montgomery Oglesby, of Concord.

Miss Hudgins was educated at Randolph-Macon Institute, Duke University and Converse College and is a graduate of the latter institution. While at college she was active in sorority and club circles in addition to attaining high scholastic rank. She is a young lady of unusual beauty and charm and is a decided favorite in social circles of the Carolinas. She is particularly well known in western Carolina, where her family has been prominent for many years.

Judge Oglesby is a son of the late Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Oglesby, and is a nephew of the late Judge W. J. Montgomery, of Concord, and the late Judge N. P. Oglesby, of Virginia. He was formerly one of the leaders of the Concord bar and was active in various phases of the community's life, being an officer of the Rotary Club, State Vice Commander of the American Legion and president of the Cabarrus Country Club. He is the youngest member of the Superior Court bench and has made an enviable reputation since his appointment.

The wedding will be in early winter and will be an event of statewide interest.

Props O'Reilly—Dick Richards, Percyville Peabody—Miles Wolf. This cast is supported by sixteen pretty chorus girls and eight chorus boys. Rosetime is under the direction of Miss Hester Anne McColgin, a professional coach. It promises to be one of the best home talent productions that has ever been seen in Concord.

CONCORD HIGHS FINALLY WIN A FOOTBALL GAME

Score Lone Touchdown in Last Few Moments of Play—Fumbles Featured Concord's Wk.

Fumbles featured the game in which the Concord Highs, after a long losing streak, finally won a game, beating Albemarle Friday afternoon by a score of 7-0. The locals seemed to be bent on losing the game, despite the great weakness of the Albemarle eleven. Time after time they would make brilliant runs of twenty and thirty yards, only to drop the ball when tackled. Recoveries of these fumbles were almost invariably made by Albemarle men.

Hoover, Duke and Morgan featured in the feature of fumbling for Concord, although all of them played stellar ball with this exception.

The touchdown for Concord came in the last few minutes of the quarter when Hoover finally carried the pigskin across the goal for a marker. The marked superiority of the Concord team was shown, it is declared, in the fact that Albemarle made only two first downs in the entire game. Concord made the remarkable record of having to punt only once during the evening.

Albemarle last to the locals in th first game of the season by a score of 16-0.

North Carolina Day Observed at Central Grammar School

North Carolina Day was observed Friday at Central Grammar School in a brief but fitting program at the chapel exercises. It was on this occasion that a beautiful North Carolina state flag was presented to the school by the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. After the usual morning salute to the national anthem, the North Carolina Day program was begun with the well known toast, "Here's to the Land of the Long Leaf Pine," recited in concert by all the children, followed by the singing of "The Old North State."

Next, a selection of Scripture was read and prayer offered by Superintendent Webb, after which pupils of the seventh grade read short biographical sketches of famous North Carolinians who have rendered signal service to their native state. Charles B. Aycock, to whom the school children of the state owe so great a debt of gratitude was the subject of a brief essay by John Hugh Williams. In a creditable manner, Alice Arnsfield told of the services rendered to our state by its great war governor, Thomas W. Bickett. Mary Virginia Simpson told the touching story of Lester Blackwell, the gallant young North Carolinian who made the supreme sacrifice on the very day the armistice was signed, in order to carry a message so important that the lives of many of his comrades hung upon its successful delivery.

Several visitors, members of the organization presenting the flag, were present. On behalf of this organization, Mrs. J. C. Gibson, in a brief address characterized by the gentle dignity of the Old South, presented the flag to the school. She spoke feelingly and lovingly of the part North Carolina has played in the history of the nation. In closing, she urged the children not to think of the War Between the States as a civil war, but as a war between sovereign nations. She clearly explained the state's position in the conflict regarding the question of state's rights. In accepting the flag for the school, Mr. Webb said that the flag should occupy a place beside the flag of the nation, and expressed the hope that no child in the room would ever dishonor it or do an act that would cause his state to be ashamed of him. The singing of another state song, "Ho For Carolina," brought the program to a close.
