Flattering

woman who is beginning to realize her years will find this type of hair extremely flattering and flat. It stands up so as partially conceal the very portion of her neck where the wrinkles begin their active work, and ends in graceful curves. No one would suspect its mission.

Miss Mary Lentz, of Greensboro, spent yesterday here with her sister, Miss Lucy Richmond Lentz. She came to Concord with Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Correll, who went on to Charlotte for the auto races.

Mrs. Harvey E. Cline and sons, John W. Cline and W. A. Cline, are visiting at the home of Mrs. John W. Cline on East Depot street.

Mrs. Cameron MacRae, Miss Elizabeth Gibson, Mrs. G. B. Lewis, Mrs. Ada Rogers Gorman and Mrs. C. R. Duval are attending the annual meeting of the Episcopal Church Auxiliary today in Charlotte.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones Yorke, Mrs. A. R. Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Grimes, of Salisbury, have gone to Asheville to visit relatives.

Mrs. Hartzell Entertainers Club Members.

Members of the Virginia Dare Club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. J. L. Hartzell at her home on North Spring street.

Papers were read at the meeting by Mrs. R. E. Ridenhour, Jr., and Mrs. W. D. Pemberton, the papers relating to "music" which was the meeting subject.

In addition to the club members Mrs. Hartzell had as her guests Mrs. Tripplett, of Chester, guest in Concord, of Mrs. W. S. Bingham, Mrs. C. A. Cannon and Mrs. R. A. Brown.

After the business session refreshments were served.

ROSETIME WILL BE A FEATURE PRODUCTION

Home Talent Play Presented Here Friday Evening Is One of Best Things Put on in Years.

As "Rosetime," the musical play which is being given tomorrow evening at the High School, develops under the direction of Miss Hester Ann McColgin, it seems more and more certain that it will be one of the most delightful performances given here in recent years.

The chorus is, in the words of some of the ladies who have seen it, perfectly precious. And, it is well known that in a musical comedy, the chorus can make or break a show. The dances are not only attractive but they are executed with a finish that is seldom seen in amateur productions.

While the chorus is far above par, the cast also is "quite the stuff," every member of its personnel quickly grasping the character to be represented. The movie troop, especially, calls for laugh after laugh as the clever lines are brought out. The story of Rose and her lover is fascinating in extreme.

The cast is as follows:

Miss Rose—R. E. Ridenhour, Jr.
Pa Perkins—Hinton McLeod.
Rose Perkins—Miss Lois Crowell.
Ma Perkins—Mrs. Gales Pickard.
Squint Smith—W. A. McAuley.
J. Dillingham Jones—Ben White.
Babe Burnette—Miss Ruth Dry.
Mlle. Jacqueline Deauville—Miss Margaret Virginia Ervin.
Props O'Rielly—Dick Richards.
Percyville Peabody—Miss Wolff.
Mabel—Miss Marie Barrier.
Tom—Mac Howard.
Harry—Archie Cannon.
French Maid—Miss Betty Davis.

The chorus is as follows: Marie Barrier, Elizabeth MacFadyen, Margaret Ritchie, Ashina Jey, Julia Rowan, Louise Webb, Margaret Corzine, Annie Guffy Dayvault, Sarah Crowell, Bessie Webb, Nola Barrier, Mary Lee Peck, Zula Petrea, Evelyn Goodman, Mary Orchard Boger, Virginia Reed and Betty Davis.

Chorus boys are Archie Cannon, Joe Barrier, Hal Jarratt, Mac Howard, Jack White, David Crowell, Preston Mabrey, John McInnis, Earl Benfield and Robert Dick.

LOCAL FOOTBALLISTS DISLIKE LOSS OF GAME

State-Carolina Deadlock Viewed With Disfavor by Followers of Sport Who Want the Contest.

The deadlock between the athletic authorities at Carolina and State is looked upon with disfavor by local followers of the grid sport, who believe that the two schools should get together somehow and play the game.

For many, especially those who work in the stores and find it impossible to leave town on Saturdays, the cancellation of the fair week game will mean that they will be unable to see a game before Thanksgiving. Practically every other game of any importance is played on Saturday.

It is felt that the two State schools, supported by public taxation, owe it to the people in the state to give them the benefit of a football contest. Some persons have declared that the alumni of the two institutions will hardly stand for such a step as that of cancelling the game entirely.

However, despite this talk, there seems to be no way of facing the committees into action. Both sides have made their position clear and neither seems to be willing to take any other position.

Carolina avers that she is willing to continue the fair week game or will even move the date back a week so as to give State the additional practice which she seems to deem necessary.

These proposals, however, are not acceptable to State. The Raleigh institution feels that its team is placed at an unfair position by holding the important clash so early in the season. Some date in November only will be received with favor.

So there you are. And, while the athletic committees remain deadlocked the alumni and other fans of football stand a good chance of losing a perfectly good football match.

The potato forms one-quarter of all the food of Americans and Europeans.

AN OCCASIONAL COLUMN

By MILES WOLFF

I have a surprise for Occasional Column readers. Allow me to present Sylvia Norman, who has written the column for today.

Mrs. Norman, whose home is in Chicago, has been a contributor to the columns of the Chicago papers for a number of years. Her productions have made her well known in the metropolis. She has written for several magazines and has even edited a magazine.

Her contribution today is by far the cleverest thing I have read along this line in recent years. She really deserves a Pulitzer Prize. However, I shall let you read it and see if you don't think so.

"FIRECRACKERS."

We are convinced that Carl Van Vechten's latest book, "Firecrackers," true to its name, has exploded his style. It is the final burst of his famous sophisticated griffling manner. Another book of the same caliber and he would become a stylist. Not to be taken too seriously "Firecrackers" is merriment with a kick to it. After the solidity of "Barren Ground" and "The Professor's House" it is indispensable froth.

"THE WOMAN LAUGHED."

"Oh, Love is dead," the cynic cried. "And Scorn shall be my bride."
He looked into her eyes.
And sighed—
And then the woman laughed—
"O, Life is vain!" the cynic cried. Fair was she by his side
So fair that mind
And passion waned
And then the woman laughed.
"I love you so!" the woman cried. Who knows—perhaps she lied?
But at their kiss
The cynic died—
And then the woman laughed.

PROGRESS OF HIGHER EDUCATION IN THE SUBURBS.

Being detained, forcibly by wind and rain and the luxurious succulence of a mud-filled ditch, we availed ourselves of the invitation of a nearby farmer's wife to "come in and warm yourselves." We found a typically "poor white" cabin, a girl approaching womanhood with a smile of such radiant sweetness as to light the dingy hovel with a celestial glow.

Asked from where we came, and replying, "Up North, Chicago," we were greeted with an enthusiastic exclamation from the young girl, "Oh, did you ever know Miss Abby Abernathy? She went up there."

"Where, up there," we persisted patiently.

And at length, a geography being brought, a chubby forefinger indicated the place—Maine.

Congratulations to the Intellectual Dispensers of Knowledge to our By-way Youth!

COUNTRY JOY.

We'll leave the clang of street cars
And the whirl of many motors
For the stillness under quiet stars
And calm from many docters.

We found a haven of sheer rest
In a Sunny Southern town,
And in a love-lined home nest
To peace we settled down.

A round white moon stood in the sky,
At night the chickens cawed,
And as the dawn crept up the sky
Five cows moored down the road.

At six A. M. the breakfast bell
Dispelled all thoughts of sleep.
At noon we bade the folks "Farewell"
For the calm of our city street.

DOES MATERIALISM SUPPORT THE SOUL?

What a strange shock impinged itself upon our consciousness when the Director of Sunday Thoughts admitted:
"I can not think. Too far from breakfast, too close to dinner, I guess."

What! Is the Purveyor of the Spiritual dependent upon the stomach for his Inspired Utterances?

RAIN.

Rain. Rain... Rain...
Sharp dank fingers
Of the rain—
Sogden clouds of mud,
Red Mud.
Until my soul, an aching cloud
Torn by the prying fingers of the rain
Grovels in mud.

O, God!
The pain
Of rain!

The Death of Young Gillon.
Salisbury Post.

The death of Young Gillon early Sunday morning following an accident on the football field in High Point Saturday afternoon casts a pall over the younger life of the state. This community feels the loss very keenly for the family of this excellent young man had but recently come here to make their home.

The fatalities of the gridiron have decreased wonderfully during the past decade until now it is a rare thing to hear of a fatal accident to a player. Young Gillon was not only a bright and shining star on the athletic field, but he was a young man of fine parts and his friends and associates believed he was heading in for a very useful career.

Scotch Highlanders Here Tonight and Tomorrow.

The Scotch Highlanders, who played Wednesday at the races in Charlotte, will be heard in Concord tonight and tomorrow. Their program was broadcast from Charlotte and was listened to by a number of local radio fans.

PAVLEY BALLETT WILL APPEAR IN EUROPE

Dance Organization of San Carlo Opera Company Leaves America For the First Time.

Although Andreas Pavley and Serge Oukrainsky, the organizers and premier danseurs of the ballet which bears their name, have both performed individually and as a team in the capitals of Europe, this winter will mark the first appearance of the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet Russe in the Eastern hemisphere.

The occasion will be the featured presentation of this organization in a big classical revue, sponsored by the French Impresario, Mme. B. Rasimi, to be produced about the middle of December in Paris, either at the Mogador Theatre, or at The Catelet.

The Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet Russe, which is now a nightly feature of the San Carlo Opera Company, now playing a four weeks' engagement at the Century Theatre, was organized in this country ten years ago, and between seasons with the Chicago and the San Carlo Grand Opera companies, have made extensive tours in North and South America.

The Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet Russe is comprised of twenty-five American girls, all of whom have been personally trained by Mr. Pavley and Mr. Oukrainsky during the past six years. The four premiere danseuses are also American—Edris Miller, classical; Josephine Bennett, oriental; Angel Campana, character; and Vera Elisius, creolian and interpretive. This will be the first time that American girls will appear in a classical ballet in Paris.

Mme. Rasimi saw the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet in Mexico City last year, where they were appearing simultaneously with a musical revue which Mme. Rasimi had been managing on a world tour, and immediately signed them up for the Paris production, which is expected to run in Paris throughout the winter and up to spring. The ballet organization will leave for Paris December 1st, after fulfilling their contracts with Fortune Gallo for the San Carlo Opera on tour and will return in time to dance with the San Carlo company in New York next fall.

Miss Wilkinson Honored at Shower.

Miss Virginia Wilkinson was again honored, Tuesday evening when Mrs. R. M. Cook entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Barrow street. The home was beautifully arranged with yellow and white chrysanthemums. After enjoying games and contests, a delicious salad course was served. Then Mrs. Cook presented Pride with gift and card was tied to gift telling her to come into the dining room that there was something for her.

This room was in white. On the table sat little Louise Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cook, dressed up like a bride. The bride received many beautiful gifts. Miss Wilkinson was beautiful in a gown of ermine satin.

Mrs. C. K. Brooks and Mrs. F. M. Cook assisted Mrs. Cook in entertaining.

The invited guests were: Misses Mary Prapst, Mary McKinley, Margie Troutman, Margaret Miller, Adelaide Pohl, Helen Misenheimer, Annie Grace Suppenfield, Lechia Snyder, Cora Lee Buchanan, Lois Crowell, Margie McEachern, Virginia Moser, Zula Petrea, Margaret Corzine, Madames Joe Hendrix, Gilbert Hendrix, Bessie McConnell, H. B. Wilkin, R. C. Corzine, C. K. Brooks, F. M. Cook, Mary Y. Crowell Johnson, J. L. Crowell.

Miss Wilkinson will wed Mr. Stow Green, of Gastonia, November 18th.

Out of 125 football games played throughout the United States on October 24, thirteen of the games resulted in deadlocks, and in eight of them no points were scored on either side. In seventy of the games the defeated teams were whitewashed.

"I'LL TELL THE WORLD THIS KARNAK IS THERE"

"It Just Built Up My Whole System, Drove Out All My Rheumatism And Made My Stomach Like New," Declares Charlotte Man.

Nobody can doubt that Karnak does just what is claimed for it when they have such statements as that of W. G. Pendleton, of 304 Smith St., Charlotte.

"I'll tell the world this Karnak is there. It sure has been a wonder in my case," says Mr. Pendleton. "Why, the way it got to the roots of my troubles and drove them out, has simply been the surprise of my life."

"I suffered from indigestion and dyspepsia for a number of years and didn't know what it was to eat a meal without bloating up with gas afterwards until I would belch and feel so miserable I didn't know what to do."

"This must have brought on a bad case of rheumatism from which I suffered terribly. The joints in my fingers, knees and feet were so stiff and sore I could hardly use them. Why, my feet would be so sore and my shoes would hurt them so bad that at times I could hardly walk."

"Well, sir, I started in on Karnak and the Karnak Pills, and to my great surprise, I have not only gotten relief from the indigestion and dyspepsia, but the rheumatic pains have left me entirely also."

"Yes, sir, this Karnak has just built up my whole system to where I'm eating and sleeping the finest kind. I eat just anything I want and digest it perfectly. And I am in the best physical condition I've been in years. I tell you, it's a pleasure to recommend Karnak when I know it will do so much for anybody."

Karnak is sold in Concord exclusively by the Pearl Drug Co.; in Kannapolis by the F. L. Smith Drug Co.; in Mt. Pleasant by the A. W. Moore Drug Co.; and by the leading druggist in every town.
