DAVIDSON STUDENT IS KILLED IN CAR WRECK

Frank Hudson, of Chatham, killed in a head-on collision with a car on the highway last night when it was overturned on its side. Hudson, a member of the Davidson football team, was killed when the car overturned on its side on the highway last night when it was overturned on its side.

Every precaution was taken this morning to keep news of young Hudson's death from members of the football team. The news of the death of Frank Hudson, Davidson senior, who lost his life in an automobile accident on the Durham-Hillsboro highway last night while he and five fraternity brothers were on their way here for the game today.

The dead student is a roommate and fraternity brother of "Brassy" Baker, star tackle of the Davidson team, and fraternity brother of Charlie Ritchie, another member of the team.

Hudson was very popular at Davidson. He was head of the Glee club and president of the board of students.

He and five other Davidson students were on their way here last night, traveling in a Ford touring car when they ran into a blind curve. In attempting to get back into the main highway the car overturned and young Hudson's neck was broken. The body is being accompanied back to his home in Chatham, Tenn., by two Davidson students as an escort.

The doctor told Miss Jones not to stay out late nights.

"You think the night air is bad for me, Doc?"
"No," said the physician, "it isn't that. It's the excitement of getting home that hurts you."

SCHOOL "FRATS" A BAD THING

The Pathfinder. In a number of high schools throughout the country some of the pupils belong to secret societies, commonly known as fraternities or "frats" and after the "fresh-letter" so-called in our colleges. From time to time the school authorities in various cities in our colleges. From time to time the school authorities in various cities in our colleges.

The District of Columbia school board several years ago, after receiving many complaints and making an impartial investigation, laid down a strict rule forbidding secret fraternities and secret societies as being detrimental to the welfare of our schools. Pupils were required to sign pledge cards declaring that they were not members of any such secret order and would not join any.

In spite of this regulation it later developed that there were a number of the societies which continued to flourish. On investigation it was found that many of the students had had the dishonesty to sign the pledges while still being members of the black-listed organizations.

The school authorities, on finding their action defied, laid down certain penalties for pupils who refused to respect the rules. They were denied all class honors, such as competing on the athletic teams, being officers of the cadet corps, taking part in school plays, etc. The "frats" then sought to force the school board to surrender by appealing to the courts. The judge held that since the complaining "frat" members had violated their pledge they did not come into court with clean hands and hence had no case.

Now an arrangement has been made under which any society may exist in the public schools provided its purposes and activities are open and above board. In order to make sure that this is the case one of the teachers is to be a member of each society and supervise its operation. This is

HUSBAND AND WIFE CLUBS

The Pathfinder. The latest thing is Huawi clubs. This Indian sounding title is the abbreviation of the words "husband and wife" for the club is joined in pairs, and attended in the same way.

For every new evil there always appears a new remedy. Fear has been felt that the American home has been almost clubbed to death. Too many prefer clubs to homes. The men began it, of course, and when a woman is married to a real joiner she might as well be a widow. Better, perhaps, for then she would be free to make other arrangements. Men have always liked to gang together, on occasion, under some decent pretext for reasons of their own. And those who can afford it like to take a trip once a year, with other men, to an annual convention in some distant city. But the women have made a fine start at getting even with them. In many cases they got far ahead of them. The husband of a clubwoman does not know what it is to have a home. What with card clubs, reading clubs, uplift clubs and missionary and educational societies the poor husband often comes home from his hard day's work to find a deserted house. Some of them don't even get to dine with their clubbing wives except once in a while.

Since women entered politics the number of political organizations they have formed is the second most astonishing thing in the world. The first is the enthusiasm and delight they take in holding conventions. Last spring in Washington women's conventions followed each other so fast that one trod on the heels of another. And a woman's convention is never a dull affair. Women delegates never sit quietly with a dreamy and distracted air, as if thinking of the dear lonely husband at home—not much!

The new cure is to have clubs for both. The huawi club can be joined only by husbands and wives together. Neither can attend the club without the other. The thing was started in Brooklyn, but it has worked so well, they say, that it is being extended. Possibly, in time, it will have its clubhouse in every city and hamlet. Possibly the movement will grow to the point where there will be national conventions every year.

Possibly—but very unlikely. If the husband and wife are so fond of each other as to wish to spend all their evenings together what better place is here for it than the home?

Old Boxley considered himself an ad-kicker, though the ladies seemed unaware of it. He was walking with a friend when they passed a pretty girl. At once he turned to his companion with a superior smile. "Did you see that charming young lady smile at me?" "Oh, that's nothing to worry about, replied his friend, consolingly out loud."

They Find That HERB JUICE Is the Only Satisfactory Medicine For Constipation and Sluggish Liver.

"While I have never given out a statement of this kind before, your HERB JUICE has done my husband and I so much good that I feel it is my duty to make a public statement in order that our friends and everyone may know more about this wonderful remedy." Mrs. Katie Leller, 52 Robinson St., Concord, N. C., told the HERB JUICE demonstrator in a recent interview. Speaking of his condition before he used HERB JUICE, he added: "My trouble started with constipation, which soon became chronic, while I did not pay much attention to it at first, thinking I would be all right in a short time, the result was instead of getting better, I grew worse all the time until I was in a very weak and run-down condition, and my entire system was out of order. The purgatives I took seemed to have very little effect, and I could not find a thing that would regulate my bowels and give me relief to a healthy action. Always had a drowsy, tired, worn-out feeling and never felt like doing a day's work; no energy or appetite. I was urged to try HERB JUICE, the great natural remedy, that so many people are talking about nowadays. This medicine proved to be by far the most effective medicine I had seen. It has been my pleasure to take it. If you really want relief and satisfactory results, not only to me, but my wife has been greatly benefited by its use. We have already used several bottles together and the results we have had from its use are really astonishing. Through its natural action the constipation was soon overcome, sluggish liver put in excellent working order, bowels regulated and we both have more energy and feel better in every way than we have in a long time. There is nothing too good that could be said for HERB JUICE, for we owe our improvement in health to this extraordinary medicine."

HERB JUICE is sold in Concord and guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Also by F. L. Smith Drug Store in Kannapolis.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART NEA Service Writer Washington, Nov. 14.—Not only the fundamentalists, but a good many evolutionists, too, are likely to be startled by some of Prof. William Jasper Spillman's theories. Prof. Spillman is a consulting scientist of the agriculture department, a prominent member of the National Academy of Sciences—a very big man in the scientific world. A long succession of races, as highly developed as ours, may have inhabited the earth before man was ever a tadpole, he says.

"A complete process of race evolution—from the lowest form of germ life to decadence and extinction—takes," continued the doctor, "no more than five billion years. The earth's age has not been exactly determined, but we know it must be many hundred billion years old. Thus, since its beginning, there has been time for almost any number of complete processes of evolution. We have no reason to believe they didn't take place."

"When the earth was first formed," Dr. Spillman went on, "of course it was entirely different from the earth we know now. It was much smaller and probably surrounded by a different kind of atmosphere. Its living conditions may have been unsuited to the evolution of a race like ours, but well suited to the evolution of a race with different physical characteristics, yet equal to ours in capability and intelligence."

"Picture," said the scientist, "the passage of a few billion years. The earth's character changes. It grows larger. Its atmosphere assumes a new quality. It becomes uninhabitable for the first race, which perishes and is buried far underneath the meteorites which are striking the earth constantly and increasing its size. But conditions now may be suitable for the evolution of a second race."

"A few more billions of years pass by," related the professor, "and the second race suffers the same fate as the first. Nobody can guess how many times this happened before conditions became suitable for the evolution of the human race." (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)
