IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

BALLET RUSSE OFFERS—SUMPTUOUS SPECTACLE
Pavley-Oukrainsky Company Brings Two Carloads of Scenery.—Own Orchestra Accompanies.
 From eastern cities who have already had the treat, come word that the performance of the Pavley-Oukrainsky Ballet Russe, which will be given at the High School auditorium on November 24th, will be one of the most vivid and sumptuous dancing spectacles ever staged anywhere. Two carloads of scenery, twenty trunks of rich and gorgeous costumes, and an extra car of stage and lighting effects are being carried by the Pavley-Oukrainsky ballet on tour. Andreas Pavley, and four of the premier danseuses who have appeared with the ballet in the Chicago Opera Company for the past four years—Miles, Ellision, Millar, Bennett and Campans—and a large company will present a program which is as interesting as it is varied and as colorful as it is all-embracing in its human expression, through the medium of the "poetry of motion." A symphony orchestra, under the conductorship of Adolf Schmidt, will be one of the features of the presentation. The program will consist of the one-act ballet "Trionon", inspired by the music of Mozart and Saint-Saens, telling the gay and charming story of a Marquess and his young Marchioness and their joyous friends in the enchanted garden of Trionon near Paris and of the pranks of Harlequin upon his four love-sick feminine admirers. Handel's beautiful and inspiring "Largo" will be another feature of the program. This ballet vision a group of allegorical figures, expressing life's lament, pain and grief. Saturated by despair, they are aroused by one of them who had not yet given up hope. She implores them to have faith, "to believe," and thus find relief from all suffering. Suddenly one hears a distant voice calling; she imparts this revelation to the others—they hear it—do believe, and in a last joyous outburst hope triumphs and transforms their grief into ecstasy. The more than a dozen divertissements which conclude the program, include Beethoven's "Holland Dance"; Mendelssohn's "Bird and Serpent"; Beethoven's "Danse de Printemps"; Tchaikovsky's "Russian Dance"; Borodine's "The Green Dance"; Leocoe's "Russian Peasant Girl and Her Doll"; Straus's "Blue Danube"; Friml's "Amor Coquette"; Schubert's "The Bee"; Ganne's "Victory Dance"; Chopin's Adagio Classique; Brahms' "Three Grecian Dance Studies"; Vogrich-Berger's "Oriental"; "Czar-

GOODS WITHOUT END LOCATED BY OFFICERS

In Searching For Liquor Officers Find Goods Alleged to Have Been Stolen.
 Julia Martin, aged colored woman who was arrested Monday after officers are alleged to have found liquor in her home Sunday night, may have to face charges of larceny as well as charges of violating the prohibition laws for in the search of her house officers found an attic full of goods, they say. It is charged that some of the goods were stolen from the Gibson Manufacturing Company where the woman worked for a number of years. It is impossible to describe the goods so numerous and varied are they. Old pieces of rags, good pieces of gingham, old pillows, bed spreads, sheets, and a thousand small pieces of cloth of all kind are stored in the woman's home. Workmen of the Gibson Manufacturing Co. went to the woman's home with a truck this morning to get the goods taken from the mill but they returned empty handed. The task confronting them is a big one for while many pieces of Gibson cloth could be easily identified in the house, there were thousands of other pieces secured at other places and the task of sorting the goods must be done before anything can be hauled off. When asked where she got all the stuff in her house Julia stated that she was about 59 years old and that she had been saving it all her life. That is easy to believe by a person who visited the attic at her home. About a dozen barrels were filled with goods and in addition there were no less than 75 sacks of all kinds and sizes. Julia said she bought some of the stuff at remnant sales, that she got some of while working "up north" some years ago, that her children had sent her some of it and that persons for whom she worked gave her the other. She would not say where she got the cloth identified as made at the Gibson Mill. It will take two men several days at steady work to sort the stuff and then a good sized truck will be needed to carry it off. Police officers have advised the manufacturing company officials to get what stuff they can identify and the remainder will be left in the house. Julia is "very stingy" one neighbor said in explaining why the rags are

CONCORD WOMAN HURT IN AUTO WRECK IN SALISBURY

Miss Ruth West, of Concord, is in the Salisbury hospital for treatment for injuries received when an automobile in which she and several other young people were riding turned over on the west end of Mitchell avenue, near the Lincoln road yesterday evening. The party was going west on Mitchell avenue when the car left the paved street, which was wet and slick, and turned over down a slight embankment, striking a telephone pole and breaking it off. The automobile was a Durham touring car and was slightly damaged. The young woman was taken to the hospital, but it was found that her injuries were of a real serious nature and she will probably be able to leave in a day or two. None of the other occupants of the machine were hurt. Wife—Dear, would you like to have mother for dinner? Husband—Say, what do you think I am, a cannibal?

When the Floods Swept China

Teacher—Correct this sentence. "The liquor what the man bought was soon drunk."
 Bright Pupil—The man what bought the liquor was soon drunk.

Teacher—Johnny, how many days in each month?
 Johnny—Thirty days has September. All the rest I can't remember. The calendar's upon the wall—
 Why bother me with this at all?

I just paid the doctor another ten dollars on his bill.
 Oh, goody, two more payments and the baby's ours.

Tramp—I've asked for money, begged for money, and cried for money.
 Lady—Have you tried working for money?
 Tramp—No, lady, I'm doing the alphabet, and I haven't got to "w" yet.

"What did you put in this prescription?" asked Mr. Jones.
 "That I can only tell the doctor," said the druggist.
 "The doctor wants to know," said Mr. Jones excitedly. "Scous I gave you a Chinese laundry ticket."

When the Yellow River flooded its banks in China it meant only a small news item in this country; but in China it means hundreds of tragedies and a tremendous amount of suffering. This exclusive photo shows four destitute Chinese watching over the bodies of their children, drowned when a dam gave way.
