WATER SITUATION
BETTER AT BADIN

Believed That Big Aluminum Plant Will Soon Be Running Full Time.
Albemarle, Nov. 19.—The recent rains have greatly relieved the industrial situation here and at Badin.

The big aluminum plant at Badin has practically been closed down for several months, due to lack of water. It is said that only one of the pot rooms has continued to run and that one with only six hour shifts. The water has risen in the lake now to the point that another pot room was started this morning on full time and the one which has been running all the while is starting on full time. The volume of water now daily pouring down the Yadkin into the big pond, indicates that it will only be a matter of a few days or weeks, until the entire plant at Badin will be running on full time.

A call at one of the textile plants disclosed the fact that the power is now sufficient to allow the mills to run on four full days a week, and word is expected daily that full time may be resumed.

These encouraging conditions are already having a wholesome effect on local business conditions, and with a cotton crop this year which exceeded the last year's crop in number of bales, and with a far better yield of corn and other crops than had been expected, there appears to be good grounds for high hopes of excellent business from now on during this fall and winter.

The comedy movie actor stopped a man he knew. "Look here," he began. "I understand you said last night that I have no sense of humor. A remark of that kind, made publicly, in the presence of other people, is very damaging to a man in my position and—"

"Hold on," interrupted the other. "I never said you had no sense of humor. What I said was that you had no sense of humor."

"Ah!" beamed the actor. "I thought there must be some mistake. I felt certain you would never run down a pal behind his back."

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

N. C. TEAMS LOOK GOOD FOR BEATINGS THIS WEEK

State, Wake Forest, and Duke All Have Prospects of Leading in the Games Friday and Saturday.

Prospects are not rosy for North Carolina football teams this weekend. The Tar Heels looks as though they have bitten off a little more than they can chew.

Contests which give this drab hue to the horizon are the State-Washington and Lee meet at Lexington, the Wake Forest-Furman tilt at Asheville, and the Duke-Wofford game at Spartanburg.

Fans would seem to be in a good way to get another attack of melancholia which was so prevalent in the days following the week when North Carolina teams lost with almost one accord, making it appear that Governor McLean's territory ranked 48th when it came to football.

As was the case on that memorable occasion in October, Lenoir-Rhyne saved the state from utter disgrace by trouncing Erskine College soundly.

Again, Lenoir-Rhyne looks good to lead the commonwealth out of the gloom. The Lutherans have a good chance to whip their opponents, the East Tennessee State Normal College.

Both Davidson and Carolina are resting, saving their strength for the important Thanksgiving contests. State College, despite the remarkable showing of the Technicians in defeating Wake Forest last week, will hardly be able to repeat in this week's contest.

The Washington and Lee squad, undefeated in the conference, will be found a much more doctry foe than was the "miracle man's" Baptists.

There is one thing, however, that can be counted on and that is that State will not be run over. Coach Tabell's charges have gained confidence which was lacking previously and will give the generals a tight game. State is still in the running when it comes to springing surprises.

With MacDowell doing good work again and with the fast and experienced Al Johnson at quarterback position, State is doing about 90 and 44-100 per cent better work.

Coach Garrity, hailed as the miracle man of North Carolina football, ceased his miracle after defeating Ferzer's team in the first clash of the season. His exploits since then have consisted mainly in whipping Lenoir-Rhyne and Guilford colleges.

If he is to redeem himself from the blot on his escutcheon as a result of last week's downfall at the hand of State, he must turn the trick of walloping Coach Lavall's "purple hurricane" from Furman. And, if he seems to us, he is going to have his hands full to overflowing.

Wake Forest is the result of too intensive training in the early part of the season with a schedule not sufficiently difficult to keep up this form. Her backs are not performing with their early season brilliancy and the line is decidedly weaker.

It appears that the North Carolina Baptists are scheduled for a fall when they hit the South Carolina Baptists, Wake Forest will lose but the game will be a good one with the score close—that is, if Garrity is not really a miracle man. Duke also has its hands full with a South Carolina eleven. Wofford, a sister Methodist institution from the sandhopper state, and the North Carolina institution of this denomination, have their annual scrap.

The odds are in favor of Wofford, which has better than the average strength. While Wofford is slated to win, yet it is by no means a cut and dried proposition, for Duke has shown better form in recent games and may even surpass expectations by coming out on top. It would hardly pay to be too optimistic.

Lenoir-Rhyne, playing for the first time since the death of Baxter Gillon, has a good chance to win from the East Tennessee State Normal which is not expected to show a great deal of strength. The Lutherans deserve congratulations on their courageous stand in voting to continue playing after the death of their captain.

In Virginia, the collegiate title is at stake when Roanoke College and William and Mary meet. Neither of these two schools have been defeated by any of the colleges in the state and a lively scrap is expected. William and Mary will endeavor to wipe out old scores by taking the game. Roanoke won two years ago for the small school championship, while last year the two institutions tied.

Roanoke looks like a winner. Y. M. I. having been the only school to cross her goal line this year. William and Mary has a powerful air attack which may win, however.

Other games are:

Florida vs. Mississippi A. & M.
Tulane vs. Louisiana State.
Megeer vs. Oglethorpe.
Hamden-Sydney vs. Randolph-Macon.
The Citadel vs. Erskine.
S. C. vs. Presbyterian (Friday).

Death of J. M. Thompson.
J. M. Thompson, age 68, died Thursday morning at his home in No. 11 township. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home and interment was made in Oakwood cemetery. One brother of Iredell county survives.

BISHOP E. A. PENICK PREACHES IN CONCORD

Says "Opinions of People Are Perilous if Unfavorable" in Plea For "Faithful Lives."

"Opinions of people are perilous things, if unfavorable," Bishop E. A. Penick said in a sermon in All Saints Episcopal Church here Thursday night. For his text Bishop Penick chose the 8th verse of the 19th chapter of the Gospel by St. Luke, showing in the course of his sermon that Jesus Christ, by kindness and a demonstration of faith in the man transformed Zaccheus from a despicable character to a man interested in his fellowmen, and his dealings with his fellowmen.

Men living in the same town with Zaccheus looked upon him as a traitor, Bishop Penick said, because he was the tax collector for a foreign nation and because he took money wrongfully in the collection of taxes. He was an extortioner, the Bishop continued, a publican, therefore the scum of the earth in the eyes of his fellowmen.

"When Jesus came to the town in which Zaccheus resided," Bishop Penick said, "He did not chide the tax collector. He did not preach to him about his sins. He adopted a policy of kindness. He made Zaccheus know He had faith in him. The result is shown in the text, for when the men reached the home, to which Christ had invited Himself, Zaccheus did the talking and the transformation is shown in the text: 'And Zaccheus stood, and said unto the Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold.'

"By His faith in Zaccheus and by his interest in humanity Christ revealed Himself to His host, and immediately Zaccheus responded. He wanted Christ to think that he too, was interested in humanity."

Bishop Penick warned his hearers that if they would have any influence on people they must appeal to the good within them. "This is fundamentally Christian," the Bishop said. "Christ denounced but one class of people—the hypocrites. In all others He saw good and He strived to bring out that good. Christ showed an interest in the sinful, the weak and the fallen. The woman of ill repute who was scorned by the multitude Christ addressed as 'daughter.' The crippled man, brought into the presence of Christ through a role in the proof, was addressed as 'son.' Christ preached no violent sermon against them although He knew their ailments were due to sinful lives.

"You can't drive people into the kingdom of God. They have to be led. They have to be shown the way by the personal touch. Their way must be lighted by kindness."

His hearers were told by Bishop Penick that they should assume every one wants to do right. "If you would help others," he said, "adopt Christ's way and see the good in them even if it is under a repulsive covering. Keep a personal touch. If you have no contact with other people you lose interest in them, you become powerless and lose your usefulness. Opportunities are bound by contact with one another."

Neighbors of Zaccheus despised him, Bishop Penick said, because they had never appealed to the good within. "Opinions of people are perilous if unfavorable," the Bishop continued. "When we form an opinion of a man we take part in the formation of that man's character, for what we think he eventually thinks also. People act as they are expected to, i. e. Give a man a bad name and soon he will try to live up to it. Trust people. That was Christ's way and it transformed characters."

Bishop Penick closed his sermon with a plea for a spirit of helpfulness and a warning against the practice of condemning a man because he may have sinned. "Exert your influence for the sake of Christ and His Kingdom," he said. "You don't have to preach to do this. You don't have to point out his sins to a sinner. Rather you should cultivate his good points and soon he will take pride in good doing as Zaccheus did when he talked with Jesus."

"It doesn't believe any of us to say men's about the rest. The majority want to do good and good is in the majority in the majority of us."

DATES FOR NEXT FAIR CHOSEN BY OFFICIALS

Fourth Annual Cabarrus County Fair Will Be Staged October 12-16 Inclusive.

Announcement is made by Dr. T. N. Spencer, secretary of the Cabarrus County Fair Association, that the fourth annual Cabarrus County Fair will be staged here October 12-16 inclusive.

The dates for the 1926 fair are about the same as for the 1925 fair, coming on the second week in October. The weather is generally fair and farm at that season of the year in this section of the state, officials of the fair point out, and they are unwilling to select a later date for fear it will be too cold at night at the fair grounds.

Dr. Spencer also announces that he is working now on the plans for the next fall. He is getting free acts lined up and hopes in the near future to have everything set. There have been many requests for a return engagement for the Duttons, who had charge of the free acts this year, but Dr. Spencer has not yet signed a contract with them.

Officials of the fair state also that many persons want the Bernard shows back for another year. Dr. Spencer has reasons to believe he can book the shows all right, but he has not yet decided to do so.

The Cabarrus Fair has grown in interest and attendance each year and officials look over their field carefully before booking any features. They expect to add many new features to program for next year.

FINDS POULTRY BRINGS DIVIDENDS DURING YEAR

Concord Woman Makes More Than $200 During Year With a Small Flock of Hens.

Poultry raising proved profitable last year for Mrs. W. H. Shelton, of this city, a report she has just made shows.

On November first, 1924, Mrs. Shelton had 70 White Leghorn hens and 12 Rhode Island Red Hens and during the year ended October 31st these hens laid 13,303 eggs. In addition to the eggs Mrs. Shelton's hens produced a number of young chickens which were sold.

In her report Mrs. Shelton states that for her chickens and eggs she received $552.81, with a feeding cost of $317.40. This left her a profit of $235.41.

ALASKA HAS FIRST SNOW

Rivers and Ocean Still Open in Belated Season.

Seward, Alaska, Nov. 18.—Snow, which has held off longer this season than since 1911, fell in Seward the first time this winter yesterday.

Nome, Alaska, Nov. 18.—About half an inch of snow, the first of the season, fell in Nome Monday. The rivers and ocean are still open.

Meeting of the Tuberculosis Fund Committee.

The time has come to raise the budget for the county tuberculosis work.

We come before the public feeling that the nurse has made good, and we are confident of the continued support of the people interested in the suppression of tuberculosis in this county.

Miss Ford has only been here ten months but she has done a remarkable amount of work in the town, the city and the county.

L. M. Richmond has taken the chairmanship of a committee to raise the nurse's salary and to pay the necessary expenses for her patients. He has invited a number of men and women to meet with him at the Merchants and Manufacturers Club immediately after the Hospital Mass meeting on Monday night. Whether you are able to give us a few hours' work or not it would be a great help and encouragement if all those asked will come to this meeting and show that much interest.

Coming to this meeting does not obligate any one in any way. A short pull, a hard pull and a pull altogether will put the fund over the top in a few hours.

Please remember we will meet immediately after the hospital mass meeting Monday night at the M. & M. Club.

(Signed) COMMITTEE OF TUBERCULOSIS FUND.

An Estimate of Blalock.

Charlotte Observer.
In conversation a few days ago with Mr. Harris, president of the New York Cotton Exchange, the Observer got incidental information of the standing of U. B. Blalock, in the financial and commercial circles of that city. Blalock is general manager of the recently organized North Carolina Cotton Growers Sales Corporation, and the inference is that he had conversation with the exchange president while in New York on promotion of that organization.

Mr. Harris stated that he was impressed with the direct business way which characterized Blalock's approach and presentation of his case, and that this North Carolina product, developed into a business man of large interests, afforded him an interesting study. Blalock, he declared, is a man of unusual business qualifications. And Blalock appears to be making good with the sales corporation project. He is working out a way in which the "buyer's call" requirement can be met. This is the only thing in the way of inaugurating a direct sales system with the mills. Up to this time the sales of the corporation have been running eight per cent. direct to the mills, 22 per cent. foreign and 70 per cent. to shippers and merchants. The "buyer's call" is now being worked out, and that done, the estimate placed upon the capability of Blalock by the president of the New York Cotton Exchange will have been more than justified.

Stanly's New Court House.

Aberrant Press.
In the register of deeds office may be seen a beautiful water color drawing of a design for Stanly county's new court house. It is shown in limestone finish, with lawn and shrubbery giving quiet tone to the setting. The question of building this structure has not been approached very definitely as yet; but in the meantime it is a matter of interest to look at the design now on exhibit in the register's office. It would be an ornament and become the pride of Stanly if the drawing could be created into a reality.

Due to the dryness of his climate the modern Greek bids farewell to his guest with the wish, "May you have a safe journey and find good water."

New Lamp Burns 94 Per Cent. Air

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe, burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (real oil).

The inventor, S. G. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.
