

NORTH CAROLINA NOW FREE OF CATTLE TICK

Entire State Released From Restrictions by Department of Agriculture. Washington, Nov. 21.—The department of agriculture today issued an order, effective December 10th, lifting cattle tick quarantine in 601 counties in the South. The infested area in North Carolina was released from the quarantine, leaving this state entirely free from the restrictions which now make six states free from the disease, including California, Georgia, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee. Today's action, the department says, means that since the campaign against the tick was begun, 601 counties have been freed from the pest and 121 others partially freed. The department of agriculture began the campaign against the tick in 1902 when 984 counties in seven southern states were infested. The territory to be released in the present states includes North Carolina; Brunswick, Carters, Columbus, and Jones, Onslow and Pamlico counties.

Salisbury's Big Prize. Charlotte Observer. Salisbury drew its first great development card when the Southern Railway's train yards and shops were located there. The location was at first officially designated as Spencer, and Spencer, grown into a bustling city, humming with population and alive with industry, is only a second Salisbury. Now, Salisbury has drawn another big goose in the steam plant of the Southern Power Company, this to be located so that the difference between the mother town and the daughter will be "split," for it is equidistant from each. The plan is to develop 100,000 horsepower and that it is to be of extensive proportions is indicated in the fact that it wants, and has secured, a back yard of 317 acres. This is one of the stipulations, planned by Mr. Duke before his death and at a time when he was concerned about the dividing force of the hydro-electric plants because of the protracted drought. He conceived the idea that his company must expand its steam power facilities to a point which would guarantee a steady flow of current independently of drought of any character or duration, and the major plant was designed. There was some speculation as to which locality would draw the prize. Salisbury gets it, and Salisbury is to be congratulated. For one thing, over a payroll project for this steam-electric plant will give employment to a large number of people, and in addition will draw a net of small industries around it. Salisbury waked yesterday morning to find that another big day had dawned for it.

MAJ. WADE BOWMAN JAILED YADKIN RIVER TO BE WITHOUT BOND PRIVILEGE

True Bill For Capital Felony of Rape Found By Catawba Grand Jury. Newton, Nov. 21.—Wade V. Bowman, former National Guard officer, charged with capital attack on a 13-year-old girl of Hickory, is held in jail here without bond. Superior Court adjourned without bond being fixed by Judge Shaw, who has already left town. The case was continued from this term of Superior Court after the grand jury last Tuesday returned a true bill of indictment on the capital felony. Bowman was ordered in to the custody of the court. Sheriff George Host is holding Bowman in jail, and both Solicitor Huffman and Judge Shaw have left town. Bowman's attorneys are expected to start habeas corpus proceedings in an effort to arrange bond. The indictment on which Bowman is held does not permit of a bond ordinarily. Solicitor Huffman said today that Governor McLean might be asked to arrange for a special term in January to take care of a congested docket. Before his indictment for a capital offense, Bowman was a major in the North Carolina National Guard, but he was allowed to resign by Adjutant General J. Van B. Metts. Following Bowman's release on bond, he was taken into custody in an Illinois town while traveling in an automobile with his wife, but later released when it appeared that he was not trying to skip his bond.

Thought He Would Be Electrocuted. Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Death by electrocution is the punishment for invading the private office of the Governor of North Carolina in the hope of securing a migration subscription—so one small boy, at least, had figured it out. "Do you suppose he would have me electrocuted if I went in there?" The naive question was put in all seriousness by young W. T. Post, Jr., 12-year-old son of W. T. Post, Raleigh correspondent of the Greensboro Daily News. Mr. Post found his son outside the Governor's office at the capitol, hesitating not quite sure whether or not to turn the knob and enter the private office. The elder Post inquired of his son why he was there, and the answer was: "Well, I've heard the Governor was a great farmer, and I thought maybe he would subscribe to this farm magazine I am taking subscriptions for."

Dead Letter Menace. People thought it a good joke on the postoffice department when a postcard mailed 16 years ago just recently reached its destination. To add humor to the case the card advised that the sender had reached home safely on the night of August 15, 1910. The sender and addressee have since married. The truth of the matter is that the postal authorities should take credit for delivering the card at all. The card was incorrectly addressed and there was no return address to identify the sender. It was only by a trick of fate that it did not become a "dead" piece of mail. Nearly 30,000 pieces of mail go to the dead letter office each year because of the failure of senders to place a return address on them. This carelessness costs the taxpayers nearly $2,000,000 not to mention loss of property and inconvenience. If the public doesn't awake to its responsibilities in the manner, it is possible that congress will again be asked to charge one-cent for each letter requiring directory service. Postal employees now must take extra time and trouble to look up addresses not given or correct misdirected matter, this in spite of the assumption that every person knows his correspondent.

The Whole Church Is His Daddy

This four-month-old youngster has been adopted by the whole congregation of a United Brethren church at Toledo, O. He was found abandoned in an automobile in front of the church, and everybody wanted him. The church women have named him Arbins, after the founder of the church, and are taking turns in caring for him.

Tulane's Star Guard

One of the best guards in the south is "Irish" Levy of Tulane University. He never plays with a hedgegar and usually covorts with sleeves rolled up. In his three years of collegiate football he has not been taken out of the game once for injury. Down below the Mason and Dixon line they are certain Levy is of All-America caliber.

FARMER IS GORED TO DEATH BY BULL

Animal Had to Be Killed Before the Body Could Be Recovered. New Bern, Nov. 21.—John W. Smith, prosperous and well-thought-of farmer of the Silverdale section of Onslow county, was gored to death by an infuriated bull, his body being found Friday morning. The animal was standing at bay over the body of the man when it was found by member of the family and friends, and it was not possible to remove the body until the animal was shot to death. An account of the tragedy was brought here by D. P. Whitford, of the same neighborhood. Mr. Whitford said that Mr. Smith, a native of Onslow county, and a resident of the Craven section until about fifteen years ago, when he moved to Onslow county, had gone out hunting yesterday afternoon. When he failed to return late in the afternoon, two grown sons went in search of him. Not far from the house they were attacked by the bull and driven from the field. They returned with guns and neighbors, but the small shot were not sufficient to subdue the animal. Finally, after dark, the attack was abandoned, to be renewed this morning with reinforcements, including rifles. The bull was finally killed and the body of Mr. Smith, gored and mangled almost beyond recognition, was found. About fifty yards from the body was found Mr. Smith's gun, with which he had been hunting, and a squirrel was in his coat pocket. Mr. Smith is survived by four sons and three daughters. He was about 60 or 65 years of age.

Vigilantes

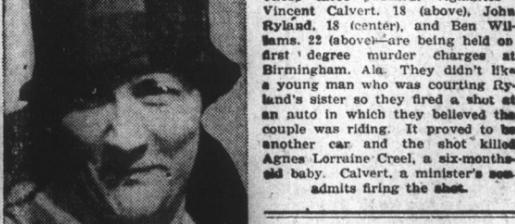

These three youthful vigilantes—Vincent Calvert, 18 (above), John Ryland, 18 (center), and Ben Williams, 22 (above)—are being held on first degree murder charges at Birmingham, Ala. They didn't like a young man who was courting Ryland's sister so they fired a shot at an auto in which they believed the couple was riding. It proved to be another car and the shot killed Agnes Lorraine Creel, a six-month-old baby. Calvert, a minister's son, admits firing the shot.

In 20 gridiron meetings since 1897 University of Minnesota has defeated University of Iowa 14 times. Up to 1916 Minnesota won every game, 12, holding the Iowa eleven scoreless six times in a row and running up prints to the peak of the 75 in one game. Since 1918, however, Iowa has captured five out of the seven games played.

In 31 football games between the University of Chicago and University of Illinois the Maroons have won 15 and tied two. In 1917 a scoreless tie was played and last year the count was 21 and 21.

Can't Use a Nightgown. Editor New York Mirror: It seems to me and many others that the Ku Klux Klan has been made a target for attacks ever since your paper came into being. Just a word to defend this 100 per cent. American organization, composed of Protestants of all denominations, with the Holy Bible and Constitution of these United States upon their altars to rule and guide them in practice through life. It further seems to me that the bigots do not like to see any banding of 100 per cent. American Protestants for fear of "in union there is strength."

Mrs. George W. Steele, wife of the commander of the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station, is in the center of public attention in Washington now. Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of the Shenandoah's commander, said it was Mrs. Steele who brought her the letter in which, she charges, Captain Foley sought to get her to change her testimony.
