WILSON'S LIMOUSINE WILL BE PRESERVED
To Be Placed on Display in Connection With Birthplace Memorial at Staunton, Va.
Staunton, Va., Nov. 24.—The private limousine in which Woodrow Wilson motored during the later years of his life is to be preserved here for inspection by future generations in connection with the birth place memorial to the World War President of the United States. Dr. A. M. Fraser, of this city, general chairman of the executive committee of the memorial project, has announced acceptance of the car, offered as a gift to the memorial association by Mrs. Edith Bolling Wilson, widow of the former chief executive.

Used on a number of historic rides, the machine bore President Wilson from the Union station, Washington, to the White House upon his return from the peace conference at Versailles. In it he also rode from the capitol to his home when he retired from the presidency. After his retirement, so long as he was able to enjoy motoring, he was frequently seen in this same car on the drive ways of and about Washington.

President Edwin A. Alderman, of the University of Virginia, chairman of the advisory committee of the Woodrow Wilson birthplace memorial, has been notified of the acceptance of the gift which will be brought to Staunton sometime in the near future.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

BUSINESS TO HALT IN THIS CITY TOMORROW
Thanksgiving Day Will Be Observed Quietly Here.—Union Service at A. R. P. Church.
Business will be halted in Concord tomorrow for Thanksgiving Day. Following a custom established many years ago business concerns in the city will be closed for the entire day, the drug stores and cafes to be the only exceptions in the business districts.

The drug stores will observe Sunday openings for the benefit of those persons who may want to secure medicines and other necessities. The library will also be closed for today, all legal holidays affecting the library.

Union services for a number of downtown churches will be held tomorrow morning in the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church. In addition several other churches in other parts of the city will hold services tomorrow morning. The usual Thanksgiving service will be held in St. James Lutheran Church tomorrow morning at 6:30 o'clock.

Cotton mills, which have lost so much time recently due to the curtailed power schedule brought on by the drought, will operate tomorrow. They will be closed on Friday and Saturday, however.

School work in the city was halted this afternoon for the remainder of the week so the students could have a three day holiday period. Regular work will be resumed Monday morning.

All of the county schools will be closed tomorrow and some will be closed Friday, also. Those closed Friday will make up the work at a later date as only one day is officially given as a holiday for Thanksgiving.

KANNAPOLIS-LANDIS GO WILL BE RED LETTER EVENT
Ex-Collegians Strut Their Stuff on Landis Athletic Field Thursday.—Replaces Annual High School Gridiron Clash.
BY JAZZY MOORE
Kannapolis, Nov. 25.—The culmen of the 1925 athletics will be reached Thursday when the Kannapolis Independents clash with the Landis All Stars on the latter's gridiron at 3:30 o'clock sharp.

The personnel of the Kannapolisians is composed of ex-collegians with several years' experience. Worth mentioning are: "Bozo" Boseman, late of Georgia Tech; Ray Roberts, former Vanderbilt star; "Bub" Sullivan, Concord High sensation; and Jimmy Flowe, lettered Oak Ridge flash. College veterans have also materially strengthened the Landis warriors and the biggest sectional athletic event of year year is on tap.

This affair replaces the annual high school battle, it being the policy of the two institutions to meet every Thanksgiving Day. Owing to the fact that football has been abolished at the local high school, these teams were substituted.

COTTON MILLS NOT TO CLOSE FOR THANKSGIVING
Employs in Textile Plants Will Have Friday and Saturday Morning For Holiday Period.
Due to the fact that the curtailed schedule of the Southern Power Company has halted their work during the past several months, local cotton mills will not close for Thanksgiving Day, it is reported here.

However, the mills have to stand from Thursday night until Saturday noon, so the employees will get a holiday then. The curtailed power schedule, brought about by the drought of the summer, has made it impossible for the mills to give their employees full time work for some time and for that reason it has been decided not to close for Thanksgiving.

With the Christmas season approaching the employees of the mills are said to be anxious to get in every possible working day, and the mills also are anxious to get filled as many orders as possible.

USE PENNY COLUMN—IT PAYS
On finding an empty freight headed south, the two boys crawled in an empty box car and concealed themselves under the paper floor covering, knowing that the train would probably be inspected before leaving. A brakeman did come round but failed to spy them under the paper. When the car was pulled-out they were able to come from under their covering.

Raleigh was reached without a mishap about 9 o'clock the next morning and the two boys paid the last of their money for carriage to get to State College where they had breakfast with friends. Later in the morning they hopped another freight which was headed for Durham.

Knowing that they were in friendly territory, White and his friend perched atop of one of the box cars and when a brakeman passed, they were not bothered. The brakeman seemed to know that they were college boys.

The last lap of their journey was made Sunday afternoon when they caught a truck from Durham and arrived in Chapel Hill, ready to begin their next week's work, none the worse for their hazardous travel.

DOG'S BARK SAVES LIVES OF TWO BOYS
Canine Gives Alarm When Coals From Open Grate Set Fire to Room at Danville.
Danville, Va., Nov. 24.—The barking of a sagacious dog last midnight probably saved the lives of John Lawson and Wycle Lawson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lawson, of South Boston. Coals from an open grate flew out to the floor and set the room afire while the boys were asleep.

Mrs. Lawson, in another part of the house, heard the bark of the dog, left the radio over which she was listening and went to the hall. She smelled smoke and aroused Mr. Lawson. Entering the boys' bedroom they found it alight and filled with smoke. Both boys were roused with difficulty, both being surprised by the smoke. The fire caused damage of about $200 and was controlled before the firemen arrived.

Three hours later two small dwellings occupied by John White and Annie Jones, negroes, were consumed by fire with most of their effects.

INTERESTING PERSONS WITH THE BALLET RUSSE

BY MILES H. WOLFF
The personnel of the Pavley-Oukrainky Ballet, which gave a performance in the city Tuesday evening, proved to be a very interesting group of people.

Members of the troupe arrived in the city at 3:55 Tuesday afternoon and at once made themselves at home. Part took taxis from the station uptown, part went at once to the High School to see what they were to perform in, and a few, including Pavley himself, walked from the station to the Y. M. C. A.

There was nothing for the members of the troupe to do until six o'clock, and during this interim, many of them strolled round the city, taking in the sights. Several of the girls, after visiting the Y and the High School, declared that they were going to do some shopping.

At six, a rehearsal was held, every performer being present to practice some new dances that were being learned and to perfect some new steps which were not letter perfect. Following this rehearsal, there was only a short breathing spell in which to rest before preparing for the evening's program.

Some of the women of the city, who had prepared to have the dancers as their guests, were disappointed when they failed to show up. It is not best, according to Mr. Pavley, to eat before the program and for that reason, it is customary to wait until afterward.

At the conclusion of the evening's entertainment, the majority of the dancers went to Mrs. J. Lindsay Ross's where they had a supper which Mrs. Ross had prepared for them. The remainder went until about midnight when they went to the station to wait for Train No. 30, on which they were going to Richmond.

Mr. Pavley and his dancers proved to be very delightful people, pleasant, courteous to each other, and well-educated. Mr. Pavley, who has only been in this country about ten years, speaks with a very decided accent. He noticed how appreciative the audience was and said that he had enjoyed giving the performance.

His only regret, he declared, was that the stage was so small, since it proved a handicap in the ensemble numbers. The stage scenery, which was brought here for the use in the different numbers, could not be accommodated to the size of the stage at the high school and the same scene had to be used throughout the entire performance.

Mr. Pavley remarked that the dressing rooms were "rather primitive" but added with a laugh that their best feature was that there was hot water.

Most of the members of the east were from Chicago, one was from Milwaukee and Mlle. Campana was from Boston. Mlle. Campana told a representative of The Tribune that her trip to South America last season was the most delightful experience she had ever had. The South American youths had a naive way, annoying at times, of following the girls from city to city and pressing attentions on them constantly.

At leaving Concord last night, the Pavley Ballet went to Richmond where they will perform tonight and after showing in Norfolk Thursday, they will go on to New York where they will make a week's stand before sailing for Paris.

At Paris, they expect to remain three months, this engagement having been scheduled with the manager of one of the large theatres there saw them playing in Mexico City. All the troupe was living in expectation of the trip abroad, referring to it from time to time during the evening.

They had come to Concord from Knoxville, Chattanooga and Roanoke. This was one of the smallest places in which they had ever given a show, they said.

While the troupe was eating at Mrs. Ross', they had a great deal of fun kidding Mr. Pavley along by telling him that one of the girls had started smoking a pipe. Mr. Pavley, in true European fashion, was taken in at first and expressed amazement. It was only later that he caught on to the joke. It was bad, he said, for dancers to smoke but some of them would anyway. He, himself, never smoked.

Many of the audience were anxious to know where Mr. Oukrainky was, since his name appeared at the heading of the program and he did not perform. An inquiry elicited the information that he heads another troupe which is now performing in Chicago with the San Carlo Grand Opera.
