GOD RULES WITHIN—I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and you shall keep my judgments, and do them

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE Greensboro, Nov. 26.—On Return From Carolina-Virginia Game.—Persons familiar with the red hills of Orange county must have joined me in silent prayers of thanks tonight as we motored over modern highways that have replaced the almost inaccessible roads of the past.

That section of North Carolina from Greensboro to Durham, and especially from Burlington to Durham, has not grown up as have sections between Greensboro and Concord.

tions. These buildings are commodious, modern in appearance and appointments

Two minor and one major accidents occurred on the highway I traversed tonight. The wonder is not that these accidents occurred but rather that the total was not twenty times three.

Full eighteen thousand persons saw the football game at Chapel Hill this afternoon, most of them having motored from their homes.

I saw persons at the game who had apparently inbibed too freely of contraband. The system under which such people operate has always been a mystery to me.

It is nothing but natural to expect "drunks" among such a gathering. Take any city with a population of eighteen thousand and you will find liquor drinkers.

I could get little thrill from the game. Take Diffy away and the affair would have been about as tame as could be staged between football teams.

Two years from now I shall not bother to get a ticket in advance. This year I did this and I found that the general admission fan had it all over me.

Only once a year do we celebrate. Anniversary Sales do not come oftener. Because they are so seldom and infrequent, do we stress them.

There are evidences of prosperity even at that, however, along certain parts of the highway. Notably are the new schoolhouses and churches.

The management made a serious mistake by allowing these persons to interfere so seriously with the pleasure of those persons who played safe and secured a ticket.

The government's effort to have the supreme court invalidate the sale of German dye patents seized during the war directs attention to the breaking up of the once great German dyestuff monopoly.

The tariff commission reports that America now produces dyes of a fastness never before attained. Last year 60 new dyes were home produced.

The government is seeking to set aside the purchase of 4,800 seized dye patents by the Chemical Foundation on the ground that they were gobbled up by friends of those having a say in their sale.

Jacob Schaefer, Jr., who is to defend his title of world's professional billiard champion in a match with Edouard Horemans beginning in Chicago November 30, too part in his first championship tournament in New York in 1913, and at that time failed to make a very favorable impression.

In his career of almost twenty years of active golfing competitions, Jim Barnes has won more than thirty important tournaments. Among the events he has won, some of them several times over, are the British open championship, United States open, Southern open, Western open, California open, Connecticut open, Pennsylvania open, Missouri open, and the North and South championship.

Steve Donoghue, the premier English jockey, is to become an actor in the films. He has signed a contract to appear in a series of pictures of racing life and romance.

The American Bowling Congress held its first annual tournament in Chicago in 1901.

Recent studies of soft pork by J. O. Halverson and Earl Hostetter indicate that to harden a peanut-fed hog the pig must eat two to three times as much starch as oil.

CANNED FRUIT KEPT FRESH HALF YEAR BY NEW DEVICE Elimination of Oxygen From Metal Case Employed in California.

That fresh fruits and vegetables at Christmas and other times out of season will be common is predicted by reason of a special preserving method developed in California.

The method is based on elimination of oxygen from contact with the fruit, thus averting decomposition. The process is simple. The product is graded as to size, then each article is steeped in a solution of other small fruits, is wrapped in tissue paper, just as in packing in the ordinary shipping container, but a metal case holding twenty-four to forty-eight pounds is used instead of a wooden box.

The gas treatment is also applied to flowers, and is said to have the same beneficial effects, causing them to retain their color, fragrance and freshness, although shipped long distances.

The "Smallest" Bible. Mrs. Henry Kern, of Waukegan, Ill., believes she owns the smallest Bible in the world. It is printed on the thinnest of India paper, and is scarcely one-fourth of an inch thick.

Then she added as an afterthought: "They call me Con Amore."

"How long have you known that?" she asked.

"For quite a time back. But I didn't know how to address you. I don't yet. I practiced saying: 'Where are you going, Sister?' But it somehow sounded rowdy. And I don't feel rowdy. You see, I don't know much about nuns. Don't you all have Latin names? Like Sister Benedictine, or something like that?"

"Yes, something like that," she agreed, smiling. Then she added as an afterthought: "They call me Con Amore."

"Excuse me," he murmured, in vague apology for a dozen unspoken thoughts, and helped her without more ado into the seat beside his

They had been driving steadily for twenty minutes and were slackening their speed in a small sharp of traffic in the outskirts of Greenwich when they looked at each other and smiled.

"You are running away, aren't you?" he ventured.

"How long have you known that?" she asked.

"I am glad," he said, "if that's what we are doing. To think that I drove past Trouble and never saw it in the darkness. I suppose I might have known?"
