BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE LAWYER'S QUESTION: Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

REMEMBER THE UNDERNOURISHED CHILD.

Plans have been perfected for the present by which milk can be secured for undernourished children at Central school.

The practice of providing milk for certain of the students in the school was started several years ago and proved so beneficial that it has been continued.

Persons familiar with school conditions are best able to judge the value of the milk diet.

Of course it is not planned to give the milk without cost to those children whose parents can afford to buy it.

We have not been asked to bring this matter to the attention of the public and we may be premature with the suggestion.

It does not cost a great deal of money to provide the half a pint of milk each day for the children who need it most.

ANOTHER SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Another session of Congress is with us and all political eyes at least, are centered on Washington.

no opportunity to get down to real work and their values to the country could not be gauged.

What is accomplished, or rather what is not accomplished, will be strictly up to the Republicans.

If President Coolidge fails to get enacted into law the measures that he favors he can blame no one but his party members and himself.

Prohibition, taxes, the World Court, the air service and tariff are questions expected to attract unusual attention.

And while it is certain that the questions named above will receive attention it is just as certain that much valuable time will be wasted.

STRAIGHTEN THE CROOKS.

Lexington Dispatch. The Charlotte Observer says that Chairman Frank Page is going to move that the routing of Federal road No. 21 be changed to go direct to Charlotte from Statesville.

But if Chairman Page is interested in straightening the crooks in the Federal routing let him focus his attention on a still longer diversion that affects this section.

There is a new situation arising in the above last mentioned section that may prove more awkward than that now existing.

Consequently if the routing of No. 21 is to be corrected on motion of Mr. Page, why should he not move to direct No. 311 from Winston-Salem to Lexington and thence to Salisbury and Charlotte?

'Bobbed Hair' A DAZZLING MYSTERY STORY BY TWENTY FAMOUS AUTHORS

Copyright 1924-25, P. F. Collier & Son Co. and G. P. Putnam's Sons 'BOBBED HAIR' with Marie Prevost is a pictorialization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS Connemara Moore, disguised as a nun, had slipped out of Aunt Celimena's house in Connecticut, hailed David Lacy as he was driving past, and strangers though they were, climbed in the car with him.

CHAPTER V—Continued

Until tonight he had considered these as adventures. Now he realized that they were not adventures but incidents—unicellular episodes after which one was assured of a warm bath and clean clothes.

Here, however, was a situation which began nowhere and ended in approximately the same position.

Another difference between this and any previous experience was that heretofore he had always played the principal role. Tonight his function appeared to be merely that of stage manager.

A blanket of silence fell over the front seat. The lights of Bayville were pricked out of the blackness ahead.

'Why th' mask? I hardly knowed 'em at foist.'

Not know yet how many persons here were in the cast. The thought pleased him. He would carry on, and, if the cast grew too large, he would abandon the Isotta and hire a sightseeing bus somewhere.

A voice in his ear returned him to the Greenwich ferry. 'Didje come right up from the works?'

'As fast as I could get here. 'Y' had us guessin'. We thought you might come on the other ferry. Some o' Swede's gang is up there vatchin' of 'y. If they missed you they was to beat it on back to the boat an' have her ready ter us, so t's all right either way.'

Connemara started. Since Pooch's appearance she had been groping blindly, frantically for some logical explanation to illogical events.

Now for the first time a little level of doubt hopped over the hood of the car and sat grinning at her through the windshield.

There was a movement in the back seat, and Mr. Pooch's phosphorescent countenance glowed between them like a Chinese lantern.

Left Waiting at the Church. It was not J. Lincoln Laffan's fault, and it was no lambskin matter.

In Laffan's car a note was found which read: 'You will never marry the girl I love—(signed) Unknown Lover.'
