IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

CLINIC FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO BE HELD

Dr. Myers Will Examine Cripples in Concord on December 19th.—The Health Department Reckoning Work. A clinic for the treatment of crippled children is to be held at the county health department, on Saturday, December 19th, at which time Dr. Alonzo Myers will come to the city from Charlotte for the purpose of conducting this clinic.

The orthopaedic clinic is being held at the request of the Cabarrus health department. All persons who have crippled children are asked by Dr. S. E. Buchanan to come for examination on that date. Persons who can be helped, will be given free treatment subsequent to the examination on December 19th.

Dr. Myers comes to Concord from Charlotte, where he has been conducting a clinic this month under the auspices of the Rotary Club of that city.

Although the clinic is primarily for children, adults will be examined and will be given treatment if necessary, it is said.

Tuberculosis Clinic For County in January.

Announcement has been made to the effect that a clinic for the purpose of examining people who may have tuberculosis will be held in Concord on January 11th, at the county health department.

Such a clinic is made possible, it is pointed out, by the sale of Red Cross Bonds. The salary of the doctor who holds the clinic is paid from the one-fourth of the proceeds which goes into the State Red Cross treasury. The remainder of the money is used for helping in work done in the county.

THREE NEW AUTOMATIC SIGNALS INSTALLED

Traffic Devices Erected at Cost of Over $500 Each.—Left Turns Will Be Permitted.

The city of Concord is now all dressed up.

Three new automatic stop-and-go signal lights have been installed at as many corners, giving to the old town an appearance even more civilized than it formerly had.

At the corner of Union and Corbin, at the corner of Church and Depot and at the corner of Grove and Spring streets, the new lights direct and govern traffic in orderly fashion. The new signals are practically identical with the one which has been on the "square" for a number of months. The same length of time, forty-five seconds, elapses between the ringing of the bells, the same pagoda-like light box and the same box on the light pole at each corner gives a familiar aspect.

The only difference is that the top signal, the safety first sign, has been split and is now half red and half green, making it easier to see that one is to proceed with caution.

Another difference is that the Church street light is controlled from the box at the "square."

The lights, according to city officials, were procured at a cost of over $500 each. The motors, which constitute all the working parts in the boxes on the side of the street, were purchased at a cost of $312.81 each. There were only three of these purchased for the four lights at the square and the Church street lights are both run on one motor.

The lights themselves cost $204.00 which brings the total of light and motor to $516.81. In addition to this, it is said, there will be a few dollars extra for incidentals in putting them up. G. K. McCarthy Co., of Raleigh, sold them to the city.

Left turns, as formerly, will be permitted at the corners where the lights have recently been installed. This, of course, does not apply to the "square" where the no-left-turn rule will continue.

The heavy concrete go-to-the-right sign, which has obstructed the street at the Lutheran church corner, has been removed and in its place, white lines for the direction of traffic will be painted. Similar signs are to be painted at other corners.

JOHN CRUMP DIES IN CHARLOTTE HOSPITAL

Walter Hayes, Charged With Shooting Him Must Now Face Charge of Murder.

John Crump, negro, who was shot Sunday night near the home of his niece in a negro settlement in Concord, died in a Charlotte hospital Tuesday afternoon and officers have redoubled their efforts to locate Walter Hayes, negro, charged with the shooting.

Anna Brewer, sister of Crump and mother of the girl with whom Hayes is said to have been living, also was wounded in the shooting and her condition is so serious now that little hope is held out for her recovery. She is in the Charlotte hospital.

Crump received a full load of No. 12 shots in his right leg and the woman was shot between the shoulder blades. Complications brought about as a result of his wounds caused Crump's death.

It was reported to the officers Tuesday that Hayes had been seen near Kannapolis that day, but a search there Tuesday night failed to disclose his hiding place, if any. It was also reported to the officers that Hayes had been seen near the Roberta Mill Monday afternoon. An inquiry there convinced the officers that the negro was not still in that community.

According to reports received by officers, the Brewer woman and Crump went to the home of former's daughter who told that Hayes and the daughter were quarreling. Hayes passed them on the way between the two homes, went to the Crump home where he secured a double-barreled shotgun and returned to the daughter's home just as the pair was leaving the house. Without warning, it is said, he opened fire, giving each a full load of shot.

Hayes, the officers have learned, engaged a jitney to take him to Charlotte, but it has been reported that he has been back in the county this week.

My dear fellow, it is always best to begin at the bottom of the ladder.

Nonsense. How about when you are escaping from a fire?

KANNAPOLIS WINS FROM LOCAL VOLLEY BALL MEN

Concord Unable to Handle Spiking of Gilliam—Locals Win First Game Out Drop Four.

Kannapolis All-Star volley ball six defeated the Concord volley team on Tuesday night in the Concord Y. M. C. A. in four out of five matches, the victors taking four straight games after dropping the first to the locals.

In the first game, Concord took the lead at once and the home back of the visitors was not sufficient to overcome the lead, the game going 16-14 to Concord. The second game was also a close one. Kannapolis winning by a 14-10 count.

In the last three games, the visitors had an easy time, allowing the locals only six points in each match.

The work of Gilliam for Kannapolis was outstanding, his accurate spiking accounting for a number of points. The speed with which he hit the ball was such that the locals were unable to handle it. Dr. Flowe's uncanny placement of the ball in "setting-up" was a big factor in his team's success. Easley and Alfred played best for Concord.

The teams were: Kannapolis—Allison, Gilliam, Lackman, Flowe, Whitehouse, Lindsay, and Brown; Concord—Easley, Alfred, Rankin, Wolf, Coltrane, Bollinger, Faggart and Ritchie.

Something New in Elephant Thrills

In the elephant sequence of his Nature picture, "Wonders of the Wilds" which he will personally show at the Concord Theatre Friday and Saturday Barr Nickle, the explorer, promises new kinds of thrills. The elephant of Borneo, as he points out, is a real "Covered Wagon."

Through the jungles of the pachyderm replaces horse, ox or auto. The huge circular-roofed contraption shown on his back is exactly like the prairie schooners (save the wheels) in which the sturdy American pioneers adventured the Wild West.

Nickle rode one of these "wagons" for weeks. The elephant's ponderous legs crashed through the bush while he complacently bore on top or more of provisions and kit and the human cargo perched in the "wagon."

When they came to a deep river, the man and pack had to be rafted across. The elephant was his own ferry, accommodating the driver on his head. In swimming, the entire body is submerged except the round plateau of his skull and also the trunk which is stuck out and upwards for aim.

Remember the scene of the swimming cattle in "North of 36" and "Covered Wagon"? This is even more thrilling, with several of the enormous pachyderms taking the water, displacing four or five tons apiece at the dip, the vast bodies disappearing, the long trunk sticking up, the drivers apparently sitting on water and yet guiding something far beneath them. They swim rapidly with powerful strokes, and yet you wonder at the nerve of the drivers and how in the world they keep their seats glued to the slippery, pates.

Besides these "submarines" of elephants and oxen, Mr. Nickle will also show the strange "sea elephants" of the west coast of Mexico, which Nature has equipped with enormously elongated proboscis or trunk. They are rapidly becoming extinct. The explorer was so fortunate as to film the last herd of them in existence.

"I think the new doctor's a duck," she remarked, coyly.

"Well, I wouldn't go as far as that," said her husband, "but I will say I've noticed a bit of the quack about him."
