HUNDRED YEAR OLD PAPER EXHIBITED HERE
Georgia Journal of Milledgeville Interesting Document—Doctors and Lawyers Advertisers.
A newspaper of much interest, chiefly on account of its great age has recently been brought to the Times-Tribune office. The publication is the Georgia Journal, dated June 14, 1825, printed in Milledgeville, Ga.
Milledgeville was at that time the capital of Georgia and the paper is full of official documents. The editor in explaining says: "We are again pressed for room. Our paper is filled with documents. The people will read them, we have no doubt, with attention."
Most of the documents have to do with a recent disturbance in that state between the white people and the Creek Indians. It seems that a Gen. McIntosh and other friendly chiefs of the Creek nation were murdered and that a state of armed hostility existed at the time of the publication of the Journal.
Outside of the advertisements, there is little else in the paper. The ads., however, are more interesting than the long and tedious documents.
Doctors should take note of the following notice which would be unethical today: "Dr. T. Gildersleeve respectfully informs the inhabitants of Clinton and its vicinity, that having lately established himself in the former place, he now offers his services as a physician and surgeon, and he hopes that by unremitting attention to his business he may merit a share of public patronage. A general assortment of well selected drugs and medicines will constantly be kept on hand."
Here is the way the lawyers advertised: "The subscriber having resumed the practice of the law and settled himself in the county of Walton, he will practice in the counties of DeKalb, Gwinnett, Clark, Walton, Morgan, Jasper, Jones, Laurens, Twiggs and Pulaski."
(Signed) THOMAS W. HARRIS.
The only store which advertises is a small notice from a firm which declares that it has recently removed from its old store and "is now opening a very general and handsome assortment of goods, suitable for the spring and summer season, which will be sold very low for cash." Rather behind times, talking about springs goods in the middle of June.
Lotteries were also very prominent at that time. One is giving away a grand total of $180,000 the first prize of which is $30,000 the second prize is $20,000 and four prizes are given of $10,000 each. Tickets are purchased at $10 each.
An odd ad. is the one headed: "Milledgeville Baths." It states that "this establishment is now under the management of the subscriber, who hopes by his attention to the business to deserve the confidence and the patronage of the public. Prices as heretofore, viz: single baths, 25 cents. Season tickets, $5."
(Signed) "HENRY DARNELL."

LIKE PAGE FROM AN ALGERIEN NOVEL
Kannapolis Boy Attains Success in Florida.—Admits Desire to Enter into Wedlock.—Central Figure Around Kannapolis.
(KY JAZZY MOORE)
Kannapolis, Dec. 30.—Georgia has its Stirling; Illinois has its Grant; Kannapolis and North Carolina have their Clyburn! All concerned are sensational money-making lads of today.
But the one that extremely interests Kannapolis people is the last named, Arthur "Bubbles" Clyburn. Like a page from the famous Horatio Alger novels reads his rapid rise to success. Six months, just one half of a year ago, he was a penniless boy. Now meet Professor "Bub" as he is known in the land of sunshine. He is head designer of the Florida Safety Service System, covering the entire State of Florida. In 1924 he was attending school here and working afternoons painting show card signs. His initiative and energy attracted attention and in early '25 the card writing ace was made business manager of the newly established Moose-Clyburn-Sechler Printing Shop. Then hard luck came the concern went its way of all bankrupted stocks. He lost all his money that he had invested. And here's the real punch in this story. When disaster met him, when the invading crimes of suffering and failure marched their troops through his soul, he met the enemy smiling, he went down without whining.
On borrowed money Clyburn made his way to Georgia, and thence to Florida. He finally succeeded in securing work as a help hand for a local Safety Service System. Gradually he sped by the experienced eighteen to twenty years' men in his desire to reach the top perch. Just six months later his ambition was realized. Today thousands would pay a fortune to be in Professor Bub's shoes.
Clyburn is single, according to his own admission, wants to get married and is attempting to reconcile matrimony with card writing.
Designedly or otherwise, the net result is that the Professor Bub is kept very much before the public's eye.
Mr. Clyburn is spending a few of the Christmas holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Clyburn on Church street. He will return to Orlando, his headquarters, about the first of next week.

He Was the Biggest Turtle
Fale-University's new Peabody Museum displays this skeleton of a prehistoric turtle—the largest turtle that ever lived. A member of the museum staff is shown beside it. One of the turtle's feet is gone. The evidence, scientists say, is that this foot was chewed off by a giant lizard some time before the turtle's death.

COMPANY "E" MEMBERS TO HAVE BIG DINNER
"Feed" Will Be Served at Carolina Cafe Tomorrow Night.—City Officials Invited.
The annual dinner for members of Company E, Concord's national guard unit, will be held tomorrow night at 8:30 at the Carolina Cafe. Several years ago officers of the company started the practice of feeding the members of the company on the last day of the year and it was decided to have a turkey dinner this year in place of the usual barbecue.
There will be turkey in great quantities, officers of the company state, and in addition all the other things necessary for a real turkey dinner will be supplied in abundance. Arrangements have been made for "seconds" and those present will not want for food.
Mayor C. H. Barrier and other city officials have been invited to attend as guests of the company, but due to the fact that the firemen of the city will stage their banquet at the same time, all of the officials will not be able to attend both events. However, it is planned for some of the officials to be present at each banquet.

CHILD OF DR. DORTON HURT IN EXPLOSION
Kitchen Range in Home of Dr. Shelby Dorton in Shelby Exploded Tuesday Afternoon.
Relatives here have been advised that the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Shelby Dorton, of Shelby, was carried to a hospital Tuesday afternoon for treatment of burns received when a kitchen range in the Dorton home exploded Tuesday afternoon.
Water pipes in the Dorton home froze during the cold spell, according to reports here, and when a fire was made in the stove Tuesday the water in the pipes expanded and caused the boiler on the range to explode. Dr. and Mrs. Dorton and daughter were in the kitchen at the time and while all were burned, the child's injuries are the more serious.
Scalding water and parts of the boiler were scattered over the room, relatives here were advised, and the child was severely burned in several places on her body.

Grand-daughter of Gene Stratton-Porter Is Born Artist.
When a snub-nosed, brown-limbed youngster of eleven years can step out and "steal" a production right under the nose of a brilliant cast of seasoned players it is worthy of comment. And when this child happens to be the grand-daughter of a very famous novelist, not to mention the fact that she is the real life model from which was drawn the fiction character she represents, then it is particularly important. That is the history of little Gene Stratton Monroe, who enacts the part of the "Little Scout" in her grandmother's latest novel, "The Keeper of the Bees," which reaches the screen through F. B. O.'s delightful production under the direction of J. Leo Meehan. Miss Monroe was the "Little Scout" of the original story as it appeared recently in McCall's Magazine, and it is particularly appreciated that she should have been selected to play the part in the picture which she actually lived. "The Keeper of the Bees," which is destined to eclipse "The Girl of the Limberlost" in popularity, will be seen here for the first time today when it appears at the Pastime Theatre for a two day run. True to his traditions and his intimate knowledge of the late novelist's ideas about motion pictures, Mr. Meehan has transposed the story with taste and discrimination, changing it from the book in no important detail.

"Bobs" Run Hair Net Industry.
Bobs and shingles have so ruined the hairnet industry in Indo-China that the workers have all gone back to their lace-making. That is the complaint of the Indo-China Monitor, which is wondering what the exporters of Shantung and Tchehou are going to do with tons of hair nets now in storage.

Minneapolis, Dec. 29.—Flour prices passed the $10 a barrel figure today as quotations continued to advance in sympathy with the rising wheat market. Flour prices have gained a dollar in the past week.

WINTER MEETING OF TWILIGHT ANNOUNCED
Local Baseball League to Hold Gathering January 14th.—Over Seventy People Expected.
(KY JAZZY MOORE)
Kannapolis, Dec. 29.—The winter meeting of the Twilight League, a local amateur baseball loop, has been set for January 14th. John S. Carpenter, president of the league, announced here tonight.
Seventy-three members and several prominent baseball men are expected to attend.

First Baptist Church Activities.
There will be no prayer meeting at the First Baptist Church Wednesday night, but a "big meeting is being planned for Thursday night. This meeting will last from 7:30 P. M. to midnight, and the program will contain some unique, interesting and profitable features.
The program will be divided into four parts, as follows: 7:30 P. M. devotional, conducted by the pastor; 8 P. M. business meeting, including the election of officers for the church and Bible school for the ensuing year. At this time reports from the various church organizations will be heard, and recommendations and suggestions for a challenging 1926 program will be offered. The third period of the evening's exercises, following the business meeting, will be in the nature of a social, a "get acquainted and get-together" feature. At this time the good ladies of our "live aid society" will serve refreshments. Following the social period, and beginning at 11 P. M., the services of the evening will be concluded with a "watch-night" meeting. The pastor, Mr. Trueblood, promises to introduce at this meeting some unique and impressive features. Every member and friend of the church is urged to meet with us Thursday night and enjoy this feast of good things. Anyone will be welcome at these services, and the public in general is invited particularly to worship with us at 11 P. M. watch meeting. Fires will be started early in the church with the hope of having a warm building.

George Franklin Bullbaugh Dead at Home Here.
George Franklin Bullbaugh, 62, died at his home on West Corbin street Tuesday morning at 11:15 o'clock after an illness of five weeks, death resulting from heart trouble.
Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home and burial was made in Oakwood cemetery. Clergymen at the funeral were Blackwelder, Sells and Varner.

Dog's Beauty Parlors Are Opened in London.
London, Dec. 30.—Fashionable Bond Street has added to the eccentricities of London's smart world. Now it is beauty shops and rest rooms for dogs. Leading shops advertise they will curl and perfume dogs while mistresses are shopping.
Experts are provided to care for the pets and see they are properly fed if their mistresses want to leave them all day. Special diet kitchens have been set up to prepare any sort of special food the owners may specify.

Ever-Laying Breed of Hens Refuse to Be Overworked.
New Haven, Conn., Dec. 30.—There's limit in all things, even in the number of eggs a champion hen will lay. H. D. Goodale, of Williamstown, Mass., reported to the American society of zoologists here the failure of a hopeful experiment. He wanted to learn whether he could get increased number of eggs from two of his prize egg-laying strains of chickens, so he crossed his White Leghorns with Rhode Island Reds from the Massachusetts Agricultural college. But disappointment was his only result; the hybrids laid well, but no better than their ancestors.

Everybody would favor the world court if they would let Uncle Sam be the judge.
