With all the confusion, misunderstanding and general lack of information on the subject of tire buying, one might think Abraham Lincoln coined his famous phrase after an experience in tire buying.

The truth of what he said as applied to tires is best summed up today in this statement of fact:

MORE PEOPLE RIDE ON GOODYEAR TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND. Of course there is a real reason.

LOCAL MENTION

Fred Young Brown, who is confined to his home on Church street on account of illness.

Mrs. J. C. Fink, who has been seriously ill at the Concord Hospital, is reported as being slightly improved.

The weekly meeting of the Concord Rotary Club was held at the Y. M. C. A. at noon today. The program proved very interesting as a starter for the New Year.

The High-Y clubs held regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. In addition to the programs, business matters of importance were discussed.

Mrs. S. J. Ervin left Saturday for Asheville to be with her mother, Mrs. Martha Stockton, who is ill. The condition of Mrs. Stockton is reported as unfavorable although she is not seriously ill.

The City Epworth League Union will meet in regular monthly meeting Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Kerr Street Methodist Church. This is the first meeting of the New Year and renewed interest is expected, it is said.

The last few rows of brick were being laid this morning at the hotel, which marked the completion of the exterior of the building with the exception of a coping of lime-stone at the top of the structure. Work in the interior is being rushed as rapidly as possible.

Wilmington is not the only place in the state where late watermelons are served. The story from that place about a man having melons for Christmas dinner has been bettered in Cabarrus county, where Irene Boat, of Route 4, cut watermelons for a New Year's dinner. According to reports, the melons were fine.

The aldermen are said to be all set for their meeting at the city hall tomorrow night. Routine matters will be presented and in addition the board must choose a city recorder to serve during the next two years. This promises to be the most important matter at the meeting which is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Five defendants are to be tried in recorder's court this afternoon, it was reported this morning. Two defendants are charged with intoxication, one with operating a car while intoxicated, one with passing a worthless check and another with vagrancy and immoral conduct. No session of the court has been held since Friday.

The rain seems to be over for the present, the sun having broken through the clouds during the early morning. The rain was badly needed in parts of the county, it is reported, as wells and springs have not returned to normalcy following the summer drought. Water still has to be carried to homes in some parts of the county, it is said.

Stockholders of the Cabarrus Fair Association have been called to meet in annual session on the night of January 18th. Officers of the association will make their report at the meeting and other such business as properly comes before the meeting will be transacted. One matter will be the election of the Vice President to succeed the late Major W. A. Foil.

Kinston Free Press, 4th: Simon P. Hartsell, 69, died Sunday at 3:20 a. m., at his residence on East King Street. He was well known. He was a native of Cabarrus county, N. C. Surviving relatives include a widow and others. The funeral was held at 10:30 a. m. today, Lieutenant Stanley, of the Salvation Army post at New Bern, officiating. Mr. Hartsell was a familiar figure on local streets for many years. He was a Salvation Army worker.

RUNS THROUGH SMALL FORTUNE IN 3 MONTHS

Jack De Young Gans, of Little Rock, is Arrested in New York For Giving Bad Check. New York, Jan. 5.—After three months of Broadway night life during which he ran through a small fortune, Jack De Young Gans, 25, of Little Rock, Ark., was arrested tonight on charges of grand larceny and illegal possession of fire arms. Complaint was made by a brokerage firm that he had purchased stock through them, presenting a worthless $10,000 check.

The police said Gans told them he knew at the time he presented the check that he had only $75 in the bank, the last of $40,000 bequeathed him by a relative. Gans said he expected his brother-in-law, J. G. Blas, vice-president of the Bankers Trust company of Little Rock, on which the check was drawn, to make it good, as he had done on former occasions.

The brokers said they had lost $8,200 because of the bad check due to a sudden decline in the stock purchased for Gans. The police found a loaded revolver in Gans' room at the Hotel Biltmore when they arrested him.

COOLIDGE ACCEPTS ARMS PARLEY BID

Special Message to Congress Asks for $50,000 for Preliminary Conference. Special Dispatch to New York World Washington, Jan. 5.—President Coolidge, in a message to Congress suggesting the appropriation of $50,000, today formally signified his acceptance of the invitation of the council of the League of Nations to appoint representatives on the preparatory commission of disarmament, which is scheduled to meet in Geneva February 15th.

The President carefully avoided committing the government of the United States beyond participation in the work of the preparatory commission. At the same time he emphasized the importance of further limitation of armaments and the need for lifting the tax burdens which heavy armaments entail.

It is quite obvious from the language used by the presidential message that Mr. Coolidge is sticking closely to the agreement reached with Senator Borah and other leaders that any action taken by the United States government on the league invitation makes it clear that it relates solely to the preparatory work.

Mr. Coolidge outlines in a general way the scope of the work of the preparatory commission as embodied in the formal invitation and accompanying documents, but refrains from going into a detailed discussion.

Late Monday afternoon Rep. Temple, Republican of Pennsylvania, introduced a resolution providing for the appropriation of $50,000 for this purpose. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign affairs of the House.

Senator Shipstead introduced a resolution, which was read to the Senate from the clerk's desk, making it a condition of any treaty or treaties resulting from the proposed Geneva conference that the nations mutually agree to abolish military conscription.

TO FIGHT IMPORTING OF CUBAN WHISKEY

Federal Administrator Will Throw Reserves Into Charleston Section. Charlotte, Jan. 5.—Federal prohibition agents will make a mass attack in South Carolina.

Rum-runners have been particularly active in attempting to land Cuban whiskey near Charleston. Ben C. Sharpe, federal administrator, declined to state the points where agents are being massed, but it is understood that the movement of agents, which was begun last week, was continuing Monday. South Carolina has been short of agents, and it was learned that the policy of the administration is to transfer many of the approximately 112 field agents active in this division from place to place where "dampness" occurs.

The recent publication of the analysis of 100 samples of contraband, which showed that hooch was being made of poisons ranging from plain concentrated lye to sulphuric acid had a particularly deterrent effect on consumers in this division. Mr. Sharpe said, it was explained that this is part of the policy to keep the public informed that "it is dangerous to drink."

Courts of the district will be well filled at the coming terms, it was declared. Agents were active during the Christmas holidays and liquor was "hard to find" in most places where before it had been easy. The movement of agents southward confirms reports current here for some time that hooch was "plentiful" in that state.

CHARLOTTE VETERANS OFFICE BEING PROBED

Evidence Now Being Collected by Civil Service Men as to Charges of Improper Conduct. Charlotte, Jan. 5.—A mass of evidence relating to the charges of irregularity in connection with the North Carolina region office of the United States veterans bureau here has been collected by federal agents who arrived in the city from Washington four days ago, it was learned today. Reports said that two officials from the civil service commission are here making the inquiry.

In the four days since their arrival these officials have made progress in their investigation of the office here, it was said. It was impossible, however, to obtain details of the information these officials have collected, much of which, it was said, has been converted into affidavit form. The names of the agents were not made public. The investigation, it was pointed out, is being made with the greatest possible secrecy.

Charges being investigated by these officials were contained in documents said to have been sent to Washington the middle of the past week for consideration by the civil service commission.

No information could be gained here today as to whether the information collected by the investigators here tended to prove or disprove the alleged charges.

SAVES 100,000 OF "NOBODY'S CHILDREN"

Children Rescued From Poverty and Crime in London's Slums. London, Jan. 5.—One hundred thousand boys and girls rescued from the worst slums of London and firmly scarred on the road to honest, healthy, useful citizenship.

This is the marvelous story unfolded by the announcement that the 100,000th child entered Dr. Barnardo's homes Christmas Eve.

Some thirty years ago, when the full value of Dr. Barnardo's great work in behalf of the homeless children of London began to be appreciated, the late W. T. Stead wrote an article in the Review of Reviews in which he termed the work of the Barnardo homes the greatest practical philanthropy the world ever has known.

Since that time the work of the Barnardo homes has increased enormously. Today there are more than one hundred branches scattered over London and in numerous other large cities throughout the United Kingdom. Something like 8,000 destitute children are constantly being cared for in these institutions. To feed them costs more than one thousand dollars a day. Yet the entire scheme is supported by public subscriptions, which total between one and two million dollars a year.

The doors of the homes stand open night and day for all children really friendless and destitute. No one with these qualifications is ever turned away. In one year young people from Berlin, Rio de Janeiro, Paris, Chicago, New York, New Orleans, Cape Town, Mexico, Constantinople, Russia, New Zealand and Syria.

The children are taught useful trades in order that they may make their own way in the world. Hundreds of the boys have entered the British navy and the mercantile marine. Thousands have been sent as emigrants to Canada and to Australia, by special arrangement with the governments of those dominions. Many of these have risen to wealth and fluency in their new homes and it is a matter of record that at least one man now holding one of the highest public positions in western Canada landed in the Dominion as a "Barnardo boy."

The present year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the Barnardo homes. The way in which the philanthropy was started is interesting. The founder, Dr. Thomas J. Barnardo, an Irishman by birth, had at first no idea of becoming a philanthropist. But even while a struggling medical student in London his tendency for helping other people manifested itself, and the young embryo physician started a sort of evening class for boys and managed to join it. When the sessions were over one evening the ragged and most forlorn of the boys showed some reluctance about "going out into the night." He wanted to lie by the doctor's fire.

When asked where he lived and why he did not go home, the lad responded that he had no home. He told Dr. Barnardo, too, that there were many other boys and girls that he knew that "didn't live nowhere," and volunteered to show his friend where his unlucky little acquaintances spent their nights in alleys, hallways and similar places that offered shelter.

The "cry of the children" sounded so loudly in the ears of Dr. Barnardo that he immediately turned aside from the career of a medical man and threw his whole energy into the cause which
