York, after spending three works of relief from bronchial trouble.

Mr. Irwin had expected to return home at the end of the first week because of the illness of his son, but a message stating that the latter had successfully undergone a surgical operation and was improving made it possible for him to extend his visit sufficiently longer to recover his health.

Mr. Irwin is now launching a new novel, "Mated," which has already been run as a magazine serial. This story deals with the modern marriage and divorce poblem, it is understood, and promulgates some very modern ideas, regarding the problem.

Captain M. C. Patterson-of Hornell, N. Y., has the strangest cane in the country. For a quarter of a century he was employed at Auburn prison, where it was his task to strap condemned criminals into the electric chair. A "lifer" made him a black wainut cane, into which he carved the name of each man Captain Patterson had helped execute, with the date—forty two names in all. Included is the name of Czolgosz, who killed President McKinley.

DUKE UNIVERSITY—A BEAUTY THINKS DISMAL SWAMP SPOT. CANAL PURCHASE NEAR

The architects' sketches of the new Duke University have arrived in Durham and are described as being markelodsly beautiful. With almost unlimited funds at his command, the designer has active to incorporate in pe plans of the new bulkings and use molscaping of the campus his noblest ream of beauty. It is a great thing 7 or North Carolina that this has hapened, for the truth is the state has een so implicable in its emnity gainst toolish ofstentation and fripery that it has tended to run to the ther extreme and assume that there some sort of virtue in ugliness, cedles uguliness of course is just as, anch to be condemned as needless or-immentation, and a great deal of its xists in North Carolina in connection with the educational system. Our schools have had to be housed in plain buildings, and we have no need to apologize for that. But while we have been compelled to build with an eye single to utility, we have not been compelled to leave our school houses standing in bleak and barrenields. With our soil and climate it is possible to create around practical-ple every school house in North Caroling grounds that are beautiful at a triffing cost in money. Such grounds
