Wild Burros Eat Wash. Nevada has another problem to solve. The desert towns of that state are in the throes of a new type of plague, said to rival the grasshoppers of the middle western prairies. The new pest is the long-eared, stub-born little burro, the companion of man from the beginning of the conquest of the West. This pesky beast is now one of the most tantalizing enemies the people in that section have to contend with.

The burros have been driven from the mountains by snow and cold, and in large bands they boldly invade the streets and yards of the small towns and often sweep down on unexpected farms where they mingle with the horses and cattle in the pastures. They generally make their raids at night, eating everything they can reach, even the family laundry flying on the clothes line. It is said that they show no fear of man, fiercely resenting attempts to drive them away. They also bray noisily around homes and whirl on pursuers with flashing teeth and flying hoofs. All this because the light auto is said to have usurped the place of the burro, once the valued and often the loved companion of the prospector. Hundreds of them have been turned loose by prospectors and ranchers, and they have multiplied and grown increasingly bold.

IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

MARCH'S EXIT MARKED BY WINDS OF HIGH VOLUME

There was Nothing Lamb-Like in the Manner in Which Windy Month Surrendered to April. For once, at least, March played traitor to the time-worn adage that when it comes in with fierceness it goes out wearily.

High winds, low temperatures and snow marked the beginning of the month, and with the exception of snow, the going was much like the coming.

Winds of almost cyclonic proportions swept over Concord yesterday, driving off clouds which brought rain continuously Tuesday, and sending the mercury to a point near the freezing zone last night. There was plenty of sunshine during the day, however, and this section of the State escaped the South and Middle west.

Old residents of Concord remember winds as high as the ones which whipped over the city yesterday, but few report days during which the volume of the wind remained as high as it did as March was dying this year. There was no let-up in the fury of the gales for practically 12 hours and at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon they had the same snap and fury that they had earlier in the day.

The winds here were part of the storm which formed in the Southwest several days ago, moving eastward with a rush that left death and destruction in its wake. At least ten deaths were attributed to the storm and the property damage is expected to exceed a million dollars.

So far as can be learned the storm here caused no serious damage. Several electric signs in the city were sent hurtling to the ground and in the rural sections roofs of some houses were partially demolished, but no one was hurt and the damage will not run high.

Defeated Catawba College in Mt. Pleasant Wednesday Afternoon. Cadets Hit Hard.

The cadets from Mt. Pleasant Collegiate Institute won their fifth straight diamond victory yesterday when they swamped the Catawba College team 11 to 5.

The Catawba team fielded well despite the fact that the game was the first of the season for the players. The visitors were weak in hitting before the fine mound work of the cadets being held to five safeties. The Mt. Pleasant team did not have trouble with their willows, securing 11 hits, two being home run drives.

The box score follows:

ROTARY MEETING

Rev. Roy T. Houts and Prof. W. Furman Betts spoke at Club's Weekly Meeting.

Persons in Concord for evangelistic meetings were heard with interest by Concord Rotarians at their weekly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

After several business matters were disposed of the meeting was turned over to F. C. Niblock and A. R. Howard, who had charge of the program.

Mr. Niblock acted as chairman, presiding Rev. Roy T. Houts and Prof. W. Furman Betts.

Mr. Houts is conducting the series of meetings at the Forest Hill Methodist Church and Mr. Betts is leading the song services during the revival at the First Baptist Church.

In his talk Mr. Houts praised the work of the Rotary Clubs in all parts of the world, saying their greatness lies in the fact that they work for others.

Mr. Betts talked briefly to the club, expressed appreciation for the invitation to the meeting and then delighted his hearers with two vocal solos, with piano accompaniment by Prof. Price Doyle.

Rev. T. F. Higgins was the guest of W. R. Odell at the meeting and Rev. C. H. Trueblood was the guest of Mr. Niblock.

Baseball Game Here Tomorrow.

One of the most important baseball games of the season for the high school team will be played here tomorrow with Gastonia.

The game will be played at Webb Field beginning at 3:45. Concord plans to use the strongest possible combination as the Gastonia team comes with a fine reputation.

The locals have been practicing daily and have two victories to their credit within the past week.

WINDS OF CHANCE

Rex Beach's Novel of Alaskan Gold Rush Proves Screen Epic. By the Press Agent.

Presenting an accurate, virile and colorful romance of Alaska and its pioneer days, Frank Lloyd's "Winds of Chance" will be the feature attraction at Concord's leading theatre today and Friday.

The management of the Concord Theatre are proud to present "Winds of Chance," one of the few pictures with the power to sweep one virtually off his feet. Moving along at a startling pace, this latest First National epic combines the elements of scenic beauty and spirited action without slackening its pace, and there are so many celebrities in the cast that the reviewer feels that he has been entertained by a club composed of stars only.

More than any picture it has been our pleasure to see in several years, "Winds of Chance" deserves the distinction of being an all-star production. It is. And all of the stars in it share about as equally as it is possible for so real a drama to divide the honors. Anna Q. Nilsson, Viola Dana, Ren Lyon and Victor McLaglen are the principal quartet in the picture, but there is very little to choose between their parts and those of Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, Claude Gillingwater, Charles Crockett, Philo McCullough, Fred Kohler and John T. Murray, all of whom support to a degree the four principal characters, but also share individual moments of historic triumph which are vitally essential to the plot's success.

Dyea, Chilkoot, Summit, Sheep Camp, Lincrover, City, all of the famous points of interest along the old gold trail to the Klondike are graphically introduced, and Alaska is for the first time truthfully pictured on the screen.

"Winds of Chance" is justifiably one of the screen hits of the year and worth going a good way to see.

CONCORD HIGHS WIN AGAIN BY BASEBALL PROWESS

Win Close Game From Mooresville on Field That Was Swept by High Winds.

By ROSS KESTLER

The Concord highs defeated the Mooresville team at baseball here yesterday by a score of 6-5 in a game replete with thrills, errors and good and bad baseball.

Hall and Saunders with an unassisted double each, and Howard with a sensational catch of a hard fly, furnished the fielding features of the day. McNelis and Howard with two hits each, led in the hitting for Concord. Saunders hit a freak home run to left field, which hid in the corner of the fence. Gahan, Smith, and Cashion got two hits each for Mooresville. Both teams fielded loosely, four errors being chalked up against Concord and six against the visitors. Hagar pitched a good game for Mooresville, allowing only eight hits, walking one, and striking out nine. Brown, in his first start, pitched seven innings of good ball. He allowed seven hits, walked one, and struck out six.

McNelis pitched the last two innings, allowing two hits, walking one, and striking out one. Mooresville almost tied the score in a last inning rally. Sevinger runs on two hits, a walk and fielder's choice, they fell one run short of tying the score in the ninth.

Score by innings:

Table with 4 columns: Team, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, Total. Includes Concord and Mooresville.

Batteries: Concord, Brown, McNelis and Williams; Mooresville, Hagar and Jones. Umpire—MacAuley.

Noon-Day Services at Theatre.

Rev. H. R. Thomas, rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, presided at the noon-day services at the Concord Theatre today and an instructive talk was made by Rev. M. R. Gibson, pastor of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church.

At the service yesterday Rev. R. M. Courtney, of Central Methodist Church, was the speaker.

Prof. W. Furman Betts, of Raleigh, led the song services which have proved interesting features of the meeting during the week.

Harrisburg Community Club.

The Harrisburg Community Club will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the schoolhouse for the purpose of electing new officers. The nominating committee is composed of the following: Mrs. J. C. Higgins, Mrs. B. F. Teeter and Miss Frances Sims.

"Ah's from Alabama, boss," said Sambo, "and if Ah ever gets back there again Ah'll never be from there no mo', boss."

MRS. FELTON IS 90

Is Only Woman Who Has the Right to the Senate Floor.

Washington, March 29.—Mrs. Rebecca Latimer Felton of Cartersville, Ga., the first, and so far the only woman to become a Senator, exercised the privilege of former members of that body today by appearing on the floor, where she was greeted by many who saw her take the oath in December, 1923, when she became a Senator for a day.

She will be ninety-one June 10. She seemed in excellent health, and as sprightly in manner and conversation as the day she made her brief speech marking a new milestone for equal suffrage, for which she had battled during a great part of her life. She was dressed, as then, in black, her face almost hidden by a wide hat and heavy fur.

During part of the debate she occupied a chair on the Democratic side of the aisle, her small figure alert as he talked animatedly with Senators who came to greet her. Tomorrow she is to be one of the speakers at the unveiling of the statue of Dr. Crawford Long, the first to make an operation under ether and one of Georgia's two sons to be honored with representation in Statuary Hall. The other is Alexander H. Stephens, Vice President of the Confederacy.

Mrs. Felton appointed by Gov. Hardwick, of Georgia, to the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Thomas E. Watson, took her seat in the Senate through the courtesy of the present Senator George, who was elected to the vacancy in November 1922, but withheld his credentials long enough to permit her to achieve the distinction of being the first woman Senator. She then withdrew, and Senator George was sworn in.

Branded as Absurd.

Salisbury Post.

Speaking for the home folks the Lexington Dispatch declares that charges to effect that Hoyle Sink has accepted money while serving as state purdon commissioner is absurd. The Dispatch goes further and says that any one who would so charge "is an ordinary corn-field liar." Whatever sort of a liar that may be.

Sink may have his faults, his home town paper avers, but he is sincere, honest, conscientious and strict-ethical in the practice of his profession and the conduct of his duties as a state officer.

We do not know the man as does the home town newspaper, but we have never felt like it were possible that Sink had done the wrong thing as charged. In the first place we would give him credit with more sense than to try such a performance. If we get the thing right Sink and his associates in a case were paid a fee and when the case came up for parole the governor acted on his own initiative and says that Mr. Sink had nothing to do with it. It is proven that the parole commissioner was opposed to the position taken by the governor.

It was one thing for Mr. Sink to be paid an attorney's fee before he was named as commissioner of pardons and quite another to be in charge of a parole board after he was commissioner. So far the case looks all in favor of the commissioner.

Cheating Made It All Right.

A very amusing and somewhat instructive story is told on Mula Haffid, the former sultan of Morocco whose passion was gambling.

While sultan he was entertained one evening at Fez by the French guests. After the big dinner the guests began to woo the fickle goddess of chance. Mula was winning at baccarat from a British correspondent. The latter finally told him, by way of teasing, that he was violating the teachings of the Koran by taking money won in a game of chance.

This worried the conscientious sultan. After hesitating, fearing that his party was spoiled, he appealed to a French judge who was present, and the judge knew he was learned in the Moslem law. "I will," he said, "whatever it is forbidden by the Koran to take his money."

After considering the subject for a moment the judge said: "If your winning is the result of chance, of mere hazard, simply luck, the Koran forbids you to take it. But if, on the other hand, you did something to help chance, made some personal effort—like, well, for instance, cheating a little—then you will have earned the money by your skill and cleverness and it will be quite lawful for you to take it."

The sultan smiled a broad smile of relief. "Thou art a great and most learned judge," he exclaimed, as he pocketed the money.

What Are You Doing For Your Puny Child?

One Boy Gained 11 Pounds in 7 Weeks and is Now Strong and Healthy.

For weak, frail, under-developed children—and especially those that have rickets, and need a sure builder that promotes the growth of teeth and bones, cod liver oil is the one medicine supreme—nothing helps like it.

But it is nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date chemists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11 1/2 pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown strong and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at the Pearl Drug Company and all drug stores—but be sure and ask for McCoy's—the original and genuine.

Give them to the sickly, frail child for 30 days, and if they don't help—wonderfully, your druggist is authorized to hand you back the money you paid for them.

ABERNETHY-POOVEY ROW.

Tar Heel Solons Not to Take Part in Dry Law Scrap.

Jonathan Daniels in Raleigh News and Observer.

Washington, Mar. 30.—The North Carolina delegation in Congress is taking no sides in the controversy between two North Carolina ministers, which was made public on the floor of the House of Representatives yesterday when Representative Blanton, of Texas, read a letter from Rev. W. E. Poovey, of Marion, which described Rev. Arthur Talmadge Abernethy, of Rutherford College, as a "sot" and a bigamist.

The only comment made by any member of the delegation was by Representative Zebulon Weaver, who stated that Mr. Poovey was a "good man and, of course, a man of good character."

Some of the delegation expects to have any remarks to make on the floor of the House with regard to the letter, according to present indications.

Fierce Attack.

Brief quotations from the letter were carried in the news reports of the press services, but the whole letter is as fierce an attack as can well be imagined by one preacher on another.

Mr. Abernethy is now a candidate for the General Assembly on a wet platform from Burke county. He gained notoriety recently by recalling an old friendship with Governor McLean while, he said, they were both working on the Philadelphia Public Ledger. Governor McLean stated that his mind was a blank on the subject if he ever worked on the Philadelphia paper. It was stated here today that Abernethy was a member of a "brilliant and distinguished family."

Mr. Abernethy got in to the Congressional Record as the result of an article which he wrote for Collier's opposing prohibition. Representative Weller, of New York, a wet, brought him forward as a witness for modification of the Volstead Act, saying, "this clergyman, a teetotaler and preacher, sheds the efforts of the Volstead enforcement act detrimental to the morale of public life, breeding corruption in high places. After a thorough investigation, he finds that attempted enforcement defeats the very purpose of prohibition."

Poovey's Letter.

Mr. Blanton, a dry, offered the following letter from Mr. Poovey in rebuttal:

"In the interest of truth as well as in the interest of prohibition, I feel that the public ought to know something of Arthur Talmadge Abernethy's history.

"About the year 1907, while holding a license to preach from the Baptist church in Philadelphia, he had at least three living wives from whom he had not been divorced.

"In the year 1908, while I was teaching at Rutherford College and was pastor of the college church, this man had been on a drunken spree for several weeks with other local boys.

"He came into the college chapel one Sunday night and staggered forward, his breath heavy with alcoholic fumes, and was forced to hold on to the pew to steady himself.

"A few weeks later he mailed me his local preacher's license and requested of me admission. This I declined and I was sustained in my action both by my residing Elder, Rev. R. M. Hoyle, now of Belmont, N. C., and by the Bishop in charge, Rev. James Atkins.

"Abernethy afterwards made several unsuccessful attempts to get into the Methodist itinerancy, and finally took charge of a certain kind of a church, and a few years ago he became a lecturer for the Ku Klux Klan.

"I resent the claim that he is a minister, and especially the assertion that he is a lifetime teetotaler."
