PRESIDENT SURE FARM RELIEF WILL BE GIVEN

He is Leaving Details Up to Jardine but is Certain Action Will Be Taken.

Washington, April 9.—Confident that a satisfactory farm relief bill will be enacted at this session of Congress, President Coolidge intends to leave the work out of its provisions to Secretary Jardine and the house and senate agriculture committees.

At the White House, it was said today that the President feels certain that an acceptable program for dealing with the crop surplus problem will be drawn up, although he is without information as to exactly what the secretary of agriculture has in mind for a solution.

At the capitol, indications were given that something in the way of legislation could be expected soon. The senate agriculture committee decided to close hearings next Monday and go into executive session with the view of approving legislation before the week-end. The house agriculture committee has not yet determined when it will conclude testimony, but Chairman Haugen warned its members today that if they expected to accomplish anything they would have to hurry. He added that he hoped the committee would begin drafting a bill next week.

DEJECTED FATHER ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Milas Van Hoy, of Iredell, Was Deported Over Illness of Daughter.

Statesville, April 8.—Funeral services for Mr. Milas Van Hoy, of Union Grove township, were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Union Grove Methodist Church and the interment was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Van Hoy committed suicide early Tuesday morning by shooting himself through the head. His body was found about 12:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the yard of an unoccupied dwelling house, about one-fourth of a mile from his home. Mr. Van Hoy left home Tuesday morning between 3 and 4 o'clock, it is understood. Members of his family are said to have heard him leave the house, but attached no importance to the incident until he failed to return and it was discovered that he had taken his shotgun with him. Search was instituted and his body was found shortly after noon Tuesday.

The position of the body, near the porch of the house, indicated that Mr. Van Hoy was standing on the porch at the time he shot himself, his body apparently having fallen under the body. The load from the gun had entered the right side of his head, toward the back, and the top of his head was blown off.

SUNDAY GANG MEMBERS VISIT IN CHARLOTTE

More Than Two Hundred Persons in Party That Paid Visit to Big Ice Cream Plant.

Members of "Our Sunday Gang," Concord's unique organization for boys, paid a visit to the Southern Dairies in Charlotte Friday afternoon, more than 200 persons being in the caravan that left Concord at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Accompanied by members of the High School band, who furnished music for them, the youngsters made a triumphant trip through Tryon street in Charlotte. Traffic was halted for the motorcade as it moved through the business district of the Mecklenburg metropolis, hundreds of persons stopping their work and centering their interest and attention on the boys who were riding huge trucks and handsome automobiles.

The caravan left Concord promptly at 3 o'clock under the supervision of H. W. Blanks, secretary of the "Our Sunday Gang." It was assisted by J. W. Denny and Harry Lee Johnston, secretaries under him at the Y. Drivers of the trucks and autos also kept an eye on the youngsters to see that no one was hurt.

Representatives of the Southern Dairies, formerly the Chapin-Sacks corporation, met the party before it reached Charlotte and escorted it to their plant.

In the plant the boys were given permission to call for any kind of ice cream they wanted and there was no limit set on the amount they could eat. More than $100 worth of the cream was consumed by the youngsters who gloried in finding an unending stream of ice cream.

Every part of the plant was visited by the boys and the various processes of ice cream making explained to them. After the inspection tour a representative of the company complimented the boys on their gentlemanly behavior, declaring they had done nothing unbecoming a real man.

The swim planned for the boys at the Charlotte Y had to be called off. The water was ready but it was so late when the ice cream plant had been inspected that Mr. Blanks ordered the boys to return home.

The trucks and autos carrying the boys were screaming with banners and pennants. Some of the banners read: "Lookout Bootleggers, the Sunday Gang Is After You." "We Support Our Churches, Do You?" The dairy company also had provided several big banners, on which were inscribed the name of the organization to which the boys belong and its own name.

Members of the "gang" asked the writer to express their great appreciation to the ice cream manufacturer and to the individuals and companies which furnished means of transportation for what they described as "a whale of a trip." One kid said he was "desperately happy" on the whole trip and all have agreed that the afternoon was the kind to tickle the fancy of any boy.

"Why shouldn't we be happy?" one youngster put it, "when we got out of school at 2 o'clock, got a fine ride and then finished up with all the ice cream we could eat."

ZANE GREY STORY.

Richard Dix in Title Role of Paramount's "Vanishing American."

The first and only reproduction of the history making episode of the conquering of the Cliff-dwellers by the ravaging Indian nation of Navajos has been made in the filming by Paramount of "The Vanishing American."

A large portion of the 10,000 Indians who appear in the screen version of Zane Grey's great tribute to a fact disappearing race took part in the making of these scenes. They entailed the construction of huge settings in the almost inaccessible Sagu Canyon in Northern Arizona, and also the building of the largest individual setting erected on the great Lasky ranch in the San Fernando Valley, California, in years.

The Navajos obtained their first real civilization from the Cliff-dwellers, whom we now know as the Hopis, following the defeat of the latter. Just how they scaled the almost impregnable walls of the people who dwelt far up on the cliffs, how they waged a fierce, hand-to-hand battle for hours before the Navajos routed the defenders and tossed them to death on the rocks below, is shown in those scenes.

The cliff-dwellings reproduced on the Lasky ranch constitute a reproduction of the immense Betotakin and Kitsel cliff houses as they would appear if they were restored to their majestic grandeur of three thousand years ago. More than 100,000 feet of lumber and 65 tons of plaster went into their building. To have transported these materials over tortuous trails in Arizona would have constituted an engineering feat beyond the present skill of mankind.

This is just one of the hundreds of episodes that go to make up "The Vanishing American" opening on Monday and Tuesday at the Star Theatre. Richard Dix appears as the Indian hero of the story while Lois Wilson, Noah Beery and Malcolm McGregor complete the list of featured players. The adaptation of Zane Grey's story to the screen was made by Lucien Hubbard. Ethel Doherty wrote the continuity. George B. Seitz directed.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION OF Y. M. C. A.

(J. W. Denny, Director) What Would You Give For Five More Years of Life?

What would you give for five more years of life? Five more years to play the game—to see more dreams realized—to make good your promises—to reach the coveted goal—to fulfill your desires?

Five more years of life—the glory of the sun, tang of sea and wind, of work, of happiness, of joy, of laughter, of love!

What would you give for them? Money cannot buy them—nor lack of money keep them away!

Strong, vigorous, active, five more years of life promise much in the day of accomplishment. But what of your strength and vigor?

Are you burning the candle at both ends? Are you letting your health get away through lack of care? Are you robbing yourself of five—or more—years of life?

You can make them a present to yourself! Only you can do it. No one else can help you. Shoulders back, head erect, breathe re-born to Nature again—and snatch from the swiftly sifting sands of time a few more years of life—life as you want it to be—five more years of life.

Make the five more years of life yours! Do your share! Give Nature a chance to build your future with your hearty co-operation.

Take care what you eat—exercise carefully—sleep enough—use your Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and join in with the rest of the fellows in the stride for continued good health.

Your Y. M. C. A. conducts an up-to-the-minute physical department for your benefit, for the benefit of every one desiring to further interest in stronger bodies, keener minds, better spirit.

The busier you are these days the more chances old man Sickness has of visiting you with a snare between the eyes, unless you take a few minutes exercise each day.

Afternoon or evening, all through the summer. How about a cooling shower bath at the Y? When its 90 degrees in the shade, how about a cool shower bath, a delightful swim in the big pool, and the rest of the day feel like a king?

Youngsters should begin to think about getting in on the summer joys for "Y" boys.

Your silent partner commands you to stop and think why your energy, strength and ambition seem to be fading a little. Your silent partner is your health. Heed him now, take an interest in your health. A few minutes given over to careful exercise and proper recreation will put you back in your old-time form and keep you there.

Glorious Mithras, But Not Mute, So Paper Mutes 'Em. Editor and Publisher: Whether or not Concord, N. C., is particularly suited to composition of original poetry does not appear.

Neither has it been shown that residents of Concord are particularly desirous of having their poetical products given to the world.

What is quite evident is that the Concord Tribune does not solicit contributions of such poetry. In a front-page box, under the heading, "No More Original Poetry," the following recently appeared:

"The Tribune is nothing if not accommodating, but in future we shall be compelled to draw the line at original poetry. We always want items of news, but we cannot get the consent of our minds to inflict original poetry on our readers."
