Overman Told Statesville Daily

The refusal of the Senate to make public the vote on the confirmation of Woodcock, appointed inter-state commerce commissioner, caused much criticism. The nomination had been held up a long time and unfavorably reported. Senators had attacked Woodcock as unfit for the important position. Then when the President announced that he would recognize Pennsylvania, the South and Southwest, in the next appointments on that court; there was a sudden change and Woodcock was confirmed by an overwhelming majority. Accusations that senators were bought by promise of patronage is about the mildest thing some of the newspapers have said.

CANNON DECLINES HONOR GIVEN BY REPUBLICANS

Business Duties Will Prevent His Making Race For United States Senate. Charles A. Cannon, nominated last Thursday by State Republicans as their candidate for the United States Senate, cannot make the race. His position was made clear in Washington Sunday when he was questioned by H. E. C. Bryant, Washington correspondent for The Charlotte Observer.

Mr. Cannon stopped in Washington en route home from New York City, where he was spending several days on business when he was nominated by the Republicans. Mr. Bryant asked the Concord mill owner if he would accept the nomination and answer Mr. Cannon as replying in the negative. Business reasons make it impossible for him to accept, Mr. Cannon pointed out.

In answering the newspaper man's query Mr. Cannon is quoted as saying: "I am deeply appreciative of this mark of confidence on the part of the republican party of North Carolina, and I regret exceedingly that my present me to accept the nomination."

"I earnestly hope that some well known and available candidate may be selected by the committee."

"North Carolina is undergoing one of the greatest industrial and business revolutions ever known to any community, and this is due in no small part to the confidence and financial stability inspired by the Coolidge administration."

"Every one of our numerous and varied industries demands the protective tariff policy, and the confidence and encouragement which a republican administration always inspires. A good candidate, standing on sound business and economical principles, ought to make a great showing in the state this year."

After remaining on strike for nearly a year the workers in the slate quarries of pawlet, Va. have won their demand for a wage increase of five cents an hour.

The young woman told the jury she went through the house as her parents went around it, and while passing through picked up the pistol from under the pillow on her brother's bed, fearing her father might try to do bodily harm to her and her mother.

In addition to Mrs. Hayes and her daughter, Miss Jessie Burkett, of Kannapolis, testified before the jury. Her testimony corroborated that of the other women, it is said.

The daughter fired only one shot at her father, the bullet striking him just above the forehead. He died almost instantly.

Bond was quickly secured for the young woman, who works in the Cannon Manufacturing company's mill.

Hayes was 54 years old and had been employed as locksmith in Kannapolis for the past 18 months. Police said that he went there after completing a two-year term in a South Carolina prison for a shooting episode in that state, when he is said to have fired a pistol into an automobile.

The girl said that her father had threatened the lives of the family about three weeks ago and that she had become frightened when he ran from the home in pursuit of Mrs. Hayes.
