IN AND ABOUT THE CITY

LACK OF WATER BEING FELT IN THIS COUNTY NOW

Farmers Find It Practically Impossible to Make Progress With Farm Duties.

Rain is the one thing needed most in Cabarrus county at present, said farmers who were here Saturday. The ground is about as dry now as it was last summer, some of the farm people were heard to say, and their work is being seriously handicapped by lack of moisture.

"When we plow about two feet deep the ground there shows no moisture," one farmer said. "Conditions are like they were last summer in that respect." As a matter of fact, this farmer said he thought the ground had never become moist since last summer's drought.

Another man who helps to dig graves in various parts of the county stated that the dryness of the earth had been noticed by him and his helpers. "Usually, when we get down two feet we find the going easier," he said, "but this is not true now. The ground at that depth is about as hard as it is on top."

The entire western half of the state needs rain, it is said by persons who have been on a swing through the mountains. One Concord man who spent some time last week in and around Black Mountain said one important stream there was entirely dry and it wasn't dry at all last summer during the drought.

An insistent sort of rain is the thing needed. A rain that will fall without interruption and without too great force for several days.

CABARRUS COUNTY COTTON GROWERS

Regular Annual Convention to be Held May 11th.

The regular annual county convention of members of the North Carolina Cotton Growers' Association in Cabarrus county will be held at the Court House, Tuesday, May 11th at 2 p. m.

The main purpose of this convention is to select the county's quota of two delegates to represent the county in the Ninth District Convention in this city on May 18th and to transact any other business which may come before the convention.

The delegates to the District Convention referred to will select from members residing in the district two nominees to be voted upon for director for the ensuing year.

The Ninth district is composed of the counties of Anson, Cabarrus, Davidson, Davie, Forsyth, Mecklenburg, Rowan, Stanley and Union. At the present time the district is represented by L. D. Robinson, of Wadesboro, N. C.

The selection of a nominee to be voted upon for director to represent the district is very important event for members of the Association because the formation of policies which have to do with the handling and the sale of their cotton will be in the hands of these directors for the next delivery season.

NEW TRAFFIC SIGNS OPERATING HERE NOW

Sings Do Not Halt Traffic But Serve as Reminder to Motorists at Dangerous Corners.

New traffic signs, erected at strategic points, are in operation in Concord now.

The signs have been erected at the following street intersections, regarded as dangerous points in traffic:

Corbin and Spring streets, Corbin and Powder streets, Kerr street and Franklin Avenue, Depot and Spring streets and Franklin Avenue and Spring street.

The signs are different from the first ones erected here in that they do not halt traffic. Instead of the usual "Go" and "Stop" warning, the new signs read "Stop and Look" and "Caution, Safety First."

Similar signs have been used to good effect in other cities. It is stated, and Concord officials hope they will prevent accidents and break up congestion at the various points where they are in operation. Each of the intersections given a sign is considered a very dangerous one and should the new signs prove effective it is probable that similar ones will be purchased for other corners where wrecks occur often and where traffic is wont to become congested.

DR. KAUPP HEARD IN POULTRY SPEECH HERE

Says People Should Eat More Eggs From Pure-bred Stock—Yeager Also Speaks.

Several hundred persons gathered at the court house here Saturday to hear Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at State College, and W. G. Yeager, farm agent for Rowan county, discuss poultry raising in North Carolina.

The program was arranged as Cabarrus county's celebration of "National Egg Day" which was generally observed throughout the United States on Saturday. R. D. Goodman, county farm agent, presided.

Mr. Yeager talked briefly on the growth of the poultry business in the state, pointing out that within the past eleven years the industry has climbed from a place near the bottom to fifth place among major crops in North Carolina.

Dr. Kaupp touched on various phases of the poultry industry in his talk, mentioning the care of poultry, the kind of stock to be used, diseases, proper hatching seasons and mating, giving along in his talk statistics showing how the industry has grown.

It is of greatest importance, Dr. Kaupp said, that pure-bred poultry should be kept. He stated that within the past several years at State College, the breed has been increased so satisfactorily that now they get an average of about 150 eggs a year from their hens, whereas when the tests were started the hens average 60 eggs a year. Eggs must be sold for from 50 to 60 cents a dozen to keep the 60-egg hen, whereas eggs can be sold for 25 cents from the 150-egg hen.

Dr. Kaupp also advised his hearers to breed their chickens for production rather than for exhibition, declaring he had stressed this fact ever since he visited Denmark, where some of the finest and most profitable poultry farms in the world are located. The average poultry raiser will lose money, he said, if he breeds for exhibition stock only.

The public now consumes on an average only half an egg a day per person, Dr. Kaupp said. This total should be two eggs a day, he said. Eggs and milk form the finest diet, with eggs, due to their iron, having advantage of milk.

There are two reasons, Dr. Kaupp explained, why baby chicks prove a problem to the average man. The first is the eggs get too hot in incubation and the second is that the chicks get too cold between midnight and morning. Baby chicks, he said, cannot live if they get chilled.

The work being done at State College in regard to poultry diseases was discussed by Dr. Kaupp, who said he was trying to get the college officials to employ a whole-time poultry disease expert. He said that last month 200 chickens were examined at the schools, these being diseased birds sent there for observation and treatment.

He said that he could not give all of his time to the matter due to the fact that he is engaged in research work on white diarrhea for the federal government.

Few poultry raisers, Dr. Kaupp said, realize the importance of water. Sixty-five per cent of an egg, he said, is water. During a test made at the college, it was pointed out, hens were seen to drink water twelve times within an hour. A chicken on an average, consumes about two ounces of water each day.

Dr. Kaupp said Cabarrus should have a community hatchery and if this is not possible the poultrymen of the county should make arrangements to hatch their chicks as early as possible. The early hatch makes the best breeders, he said. He also said that the early hatched chicks should be separated into three groups: one that mature early, those that mature gradually and those that mature late. Their egg production will run in proportion to the manner in which they matured, he said.

After his talk Dr. Kaupp invited those present to ask any questions they might want answered, saying he would be glad to give such information as he could. The invitation was accepted by several.

NATIONAL BABY WEEK

MAY 3rd TO 8th

National Baby Week this year will be observed in Parks-Belk Company's beginning today—May 3rd, through Saturday May 8th.

Basic principles of service underlie our plans for this great and important even and each co-worker in our Children's Department appreciates the fact that the observance of this week involves the development in practice of these principles. The fundamentals of our service plans are as follows:

- (1) Weighing babies who are brought into the department during the week
- (2) Co-operation with mothers in the distribution of literature relating to motherhood babyhood and childhood. Literature prepared by the American Child Health Association, written by doctors of the best authority, will be given without cost to all who come in during the week. This literature will be found interesting and instructive by all mothers.
- (3) The supplying of proper merchandise for mothers who come into the department.

We have the lines of garments for babies recommended by physicians of the most noted authority and these will be demonstrated during the entire week.

Vanta Baby Garments

The pinless, buttonless garment so highly recommended by doctors—the garments you have seen advertised in the Ladies' Home Journal and other leading periodicals.

There are five reasons why Vanta Garments are best for the little ones:

- (1) They enable mothers to dress baby without a pin or a button.
- (2) They enable mothers to dress baby without once turning him over—experienced mothers realize the importance of this.
- (3) All garments can be slipped on over the feet with least possible annoyance to baby.
- (4) Vanta Baby Garments tend to keep baby square shouldered, owing to the point of suspension which makes the center back muscles carry weight of clothing, instead of dragging down the undeveloped shoulders.
- (5) Vanta Baby Garments are guaranteed non-shrinkable.
