

KANNAPOLIS CHILD DIES IN HOSPITAL HERE FROM RABIES

B. B. Daves, Jr., Three-Year-Old Boy, Succumbs to Malady Which Developed Several Days Ago.

FIRST DEATH OF KIND IN COUNTY

Records Fail to Show Another Death From Rabies in County—Funeral Services Sunday.

Burford B. Daves, Jr., 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Daves, of Kannapolis, died in the Concord Hospital here Friday night of a disease described by attending physicians as rabies. He had been ill since Tuesday.

So far as is known this is the first death from rabies in the history of Cabarrus county. The child first complained of feeling ill Tuesday night after making a trip with his father, who operates a store between Concord and Kannapolis, to the lower part of the county. Upon their return home the child told his parents he had a headache and later his condition became so much worse that a physician was called. Symptoms of hydrophobia had not developed in an acute stage at that time, it is said.

When the boy failed to rally during Wednesday and Thursday he was brought to the Concord Hospital Friday morning and physicians who examined him there diagnosed the case as rabies. His condition became critical during the afternoon and death came shortly after 8 o'clock Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Daves did not know the child had been bitten by a dog, it is said, as he told them of no such occurrence. An examination of his body disclosed no sore, it is also reported, although there was a scratch on one hand. It is the opinion of relatives that a dog suffering with rabies licked the sore, the germs thus penetrating through the child's system.

Although several dogs are kept on the Daves premises none of these have shown any symptoms of hydrophobia, it is said, and relatives are at a loss to know from what dog the child contracted the fatal malady. The death of the youngster east a pall of gloom over Kannapolis where his parents are well known. Described as an unusually bright and lovable little fellow the child had won himself into the hearts of hundreds of persons with whom he came in contact at his father's store at Midway, and many messages of sympathy have been expressed for the bereaved parents.

Funeral arrangements had not been perfected this afternoon but it was stated that the services probably will be held at the Kannapolis Baptist Church tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock.

In addition to his parents, the child is survived by six brothers and sisters. The death of the child has aroused the city and county against dogs which are not vaccinated against rabies and are allowed to roam at large. Coming as it did just when the city is in the midst of a campaign against such dogs, the untimely death of the boy is expected to incite the citizens to greater efforts in their work of ridding the city and county of worthless, dangerous curs.

Thinks Busses Do Not Speed. Tribune Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, June 5.—Very few if any of the complaints that are heard from time to time that the busses of the various bus companies travel at too fast a speed on the highways can be verified, according to R. Otis Self, secretary of the State Corporation Commission, who is in charge of the bus division. Such careful check is kept that there is little opportunity for the driver of any bus to exceed the speed limits and violate other regulations without being detected and subsequently dismissed, Mr. Self said.

Busses operating in the state are routed on the schedule of 28 miles an hour, with an extra leeway of approximately fifteen minutes for each hour on the road to allow for stops and pick-ups. The driver of any bus must explain if he arrives at any station more than ten minutes ahead of his schedule, and all such instances are reported to the commission.

NO DECISION IN THE TOBACCO CASE YET

Judge Meekins Will Not Render His Decision For Several Days. Tribune Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 5.—Although argument on the suit brought by several Virginia tobacco growers seeking a receivership for the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association has been completed, final decision in the case will not be handed down for several days, Judge Isaac M. Meekins announced at the conclusion of the argument Friday afternoon. Colonel E. P. Buford had just consumed some three and a half hours in arguing for a receivership. Judge Meekins said that he would decide the case "one way or the other" but that he wanted an opportunity to recover from the long siege of argument which has extended over a period of three days.

In his argument, Colonel Buford urged that the members of the association be relieved from the obligation to deliver tobacco for the 1926 crop and the undelivered portion of the 1925 crop, insisting that the members should have the protection of the arm of the court in the form of a receivership. He concluded his appeal by insisting that if a receiver should not be appointed, the court should at any rate name a representative to serve on the executive committee and also have an accountant from time to time investigate the condition for the association and report to the court.

Only One Death at Prison Farm.

Tribune Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, June 5.—Within a period of more than four years, there has been but one death from sickness at Caledonia prison farm, the records show.

"The population at the farm averages about 600 the year round," one of the prison officials pointed out, and called attention to the fact that very few towns or villages of the same population had such a good record for healthful conditions. It was also pointed out that in this same period of more than four years, there had been no cases of malaria. The care with which the sanitary conditions of the farm are watched and the measures taken to prevent disease-breeding conditions are largely responsible for this excellent record, it was pointed out.

Rain May Affect Vote.

Tribune Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, June 5.—A decidedly lighter vote than had been anticipated may be cast in today's primary, especially in the counties adjacent to Raleigh, as a result of the rain that visited this territory yesterday, as it is believed many of the farmers in this area will spend the day in their fields planting tobacco. Heretofore it has been so dry that only a small part of the tobacco has been set out and this is the first opportunity that has been given to set out the plants in moist ground.

Warner, superintendent of the state police.

So crowded were the city's hotels that Troy and Schenectady, cities nearest the capital, were called upon to absorb the overflow. Many of the capital's hostilities had sold out all reservations three weeks ago. At the Pensyck, Mrs. Charles F. Murphy, widow of the former Tammany Hall leader, had reserved a whole floor for herself and guests. As 11 o'clock approached, the hour for the ceremony in the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, state troopers and city police gathered before the edifice and adjacent streets to control traffic and prevent congestion with might delay the arrival of 1,500 guests.

CROP CONDITION REPORTS ARE NOT ENCOURAGING

Dry Weather For Another 30 Days Will Play Havoc With the State Crops. Tribune Raleigh Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 5.—Reports on crop conditions from various sections of the State are anything but encouraging, and many farmers say that if the dry weather continues for another 30 days, their crops will be a complete loss, according to letters being received by the Department of Agriculture, here.

Grass and pastures are already failing rapidly, writes one farmer in the northwestern section of the State, and if the dry weather continue many more days, the hay crop will be a complete failure. Tobacco plants are drying up in the beds, and where they have been transplanted, even with watering, they are rapidly dying, due to the dry weather.

Some farmers estimate that farm crops in general are 30 days behind the condition they should be in at this time of year and many take a very pessimistic attitude. Out of some 30 letters received today, 21 reported that it had been "extremely dry for two months" and that the season was unusually late, cold and dry. Several said that it was the "driest ever known in this section for this time of year." All of these reports were from the north western and north central sections of the State.

Pastures have been nearly burned up by the drought and a great many of the farmers report that they are having to feed their dairy cows, although this is the season of the year when pastures should be at their best. Early clover is also reported as doing very poorly, while small streams are drying up in many localities. Gardens have proved a failure almost everywhere, they report.

QUIET PRIMARY IN KANNAPOLIS TODAY

SENSED BY VOTING

There Was No Color or Real Issue in Campaign Which Was Closed Yesterday.

LIGHT VOTE IS ALMOST CERTAIN

Senator Overman and R. R. Reynolds Provided the Only Real Contest in the Primary.

Raleigh, June 5.—(AP)—After a primary campaign possibly unprecedented in North Carolina so quiet, colorless and in general without issues had it been, the voters of the state went to the polls today to cast their ballots in the state-wide primary election for nominees of the Democratic and Republican parties.

Barring the possible necessity of the second primaries, candidates will have been named when the polls close at sunset to represent the two parties in the general election in November. Nominations to be made today are as follows: One United States senator, ten congressmen, four supreme court justices, eleven superior court judges, twenty solicitors, a corporation commissioner, and members of the state house and senate, in addition to county officials.

As a matter of fact, however, most of the candidates are unopposed and hence will be certified to the general election. The only candidates whose names were actually presented to voters today were those where there were contests for the nomination.

Senator Lee S. Overman is opposed for re-nomination by Robert R. Reynolds; Johnson J. Hayes, Republican nominee, is without opposition. The Overman-Reynolds campaign has been comparatively quiet and generally without bitterness.

Mr. Reynolds, who has made a county to county canvass of the state, in a statement characterized as his last before the primary, asserted he would carry sixty-one counties and be nominated by 25,000 majority. Senator Overman has remained in Washington during the campaign, but has headquarters in Raleigh with Walter D. Sizemore, City, in charge.

While the latter has made no specific claims he feels confident of the re-nomination of Overman, he says. This is the only state-wide contest. There are two contests for the Democratic nomination for Congress to be decided. In the ninth district J. A. Dinnette, of Gastonia, opposed Congressman A. L. Bulwinkle, of the same city, for re-nomination. The tenth congressman, Zebulon Weaver, of Asheville, was opposed by Felix Alley, of Waynesville.

The weather today was cool throughout the state, with overcast skies and frequent showers forecast.
