Suffered From Stomach Trouble and Indigestion; HERB JUICE Gave Relief After She Had Lost Fifteen Pounds.

"I am most pleased that it was my good fortune to learn of HERB JUICE in time to save me from further suffering. I never knew what it was to have a well day on account of constant pains which I suffered as a result of stomach trouble and indigestion. Such would be my condition today if it were not for HERB JUICE, said Mrs. Lucy Nicholas of 400 East Sixth Street, Charlotte, N. C., in a recent interview with the HERB JUICE demonstrator.

MRS. LUCY NICHOLAS
"In my opinion, HERB JUICE is the greatest medicine on the market today, and I am eager for all to know what a truly wonderful cure it is for stomach trouble, constipation and indigestion. I could not eat anything. In fact, not enough to give me strength to stay up and do my work. Everything I ate disagreed with me and gas would form on my stomach, which made me feel as if I was suffocating. My liver was sluggish and I felt tired and worn out all the time. I could not sleep well at nights and would awake every morning with a terrible headache. My whole system was out of order for I needed a thorough cleanser and regulator. In HERB JUICE I found what I was looking for. I regained eight pounds since taking the herbal remedy."

MODERN SAMUELPEPYS DIARY FOR CLASS RECORD

Diary Written by Miss Blanche Stewart Gives Four Year History of High School Graduates.

At their class day exercises, held during commencement, members of the graduating class of the high school heard with interest the following "Diary of a Modern Samuel Pepys" written by Miss Blanche Stewart and giving a history of the class during the past four years:

September 27, 1922
Saw a very interesting thing today of which I shall relate. Up early and strolled to a huge, rambling, red brick building. There to observe some classes of learning which were quartered there. Most interesting was a class of freshmen girls who rightly belonged at the high school. They being forced to remain there by circumstances. The circumstances being a small high school building and a masterful school board.

There I found some quaint little girls, many having shed their crowns of glory to keep up with Dame Fashion. Found a few somewhat peculiar, they having the back of their hair shingled as is a boy's. After this astonishing sight I found some consolation. Long skirts of ankle length demurely covering each knee. Very modest indeed.
Inspected the Domestic Science kitchen. Saw a girl emerging from the pantry with hands full of crackers and cheeks bulging. Upon investigation found a cracker box ravaged of its contents.

Much to be heard about organization of young Amazons called "Girls' Athletic Association." In my day the girl developed her muscles by wielding a broom stick. But now I hear much of a quaint game called basketball, wherein twelve young ladies rush wildly trying to pitch a ball into a net called a basket (fail to see the connection). The net promptly permits it to fall to the floor. Sometimes the girls roll over each other and the ball. Very astonishing.

Hied myself to the High School. There to observe the boys. I having seen the girls of '26. Heard tales of paddings administered the Freshmen boys by upper classes. Me thinks they should restrain their joy. One boy was tied in an ancient cemetery, he being forced to miss classes. Not to his regret, however. A very strange welcome to the newcomers.

December 2, 1922—Sophomore Year.
I have nothing to do cranked up my automobile which is vulgarly known as a Ford, and motored to the high school to observe progress made by the class of '26.

Was not greatly impressed by looks of the institution.
In the grimy auditorium found curio cases built in the wall which contained some forlorn stuffed birds, a harmless old market, also a great deal of dust. Could see no use of the above things but learned later. The weapons are used by some of the young gentlemen in duel practice.

Next noticed the arrangement for seating. There being two hundred chairs which sometimes folded up in a curious manner to the discomfort of the occupants. In irregular rows as if struck by a windstorm. Many in a sadly dilapidated condition. These I heard were used to seat two hundred and twenty-five students.

Saw a class huddled at rear of auditorium imperfectly shielded by two movable blackboards. A head or two always found to be peeping around them to observe the passerby.
Some enterprising person painted brown the lower panes of the glasses in the door. Some still more enterprising student has rubbed the paint away in spite. After a fishy eye appears, winks and disappears like the disembodied eye of a spirit.

At their recess time found amusement of boys to be an odd game called "peggy." For the girls promenaded the sidewalk and chewing candy.
A literary association has been organized to help the public library and incidentally to give the students an excuse for a few parties.

A very important addition to the school is that of music. Upon learning a medley of noises I investigated. Finding what is called an orchestra in the process of practicing. An orchestra is a collection of fiddles of different kinds and noises, some horns of divers shapes and sizes, and a piano. All making an alarming sound. After a short time they began observing of the laws of harmony. On the whole I found an orchestra to be pleasing.

March 15, 1925
This being the junior year of '26. Another year has rolled around. Found '26 installed in a new building. The greater part of the original class being juniors at present.
Was quite lucky to have selected this day for my visit. They having a great revival of school spirit. Two teams each trying to surpass the other in school spirit, lessons, and noise at athletic exhibitions. Am told this movement originated in the class where bugs and grasshoppers are dissected. Failed to see the connection. Great excitement prevailing. Challenges made by leaders caused great outbursts of feeling emphasized by showers of cigarettes, chewing gum and compacts. Good movement if continued.

Hark! Music floats upon the air. A fifty piece orchestra is in full swing. And a band too. '26 is composed of learned sages and talented people. They now pursue the gentle

Investment in LAKE LURE is Made Safe by

- a. Sound financing of a $6,000,000 program
- b. Direction by able men
- c. Non-duplicatable advantages

HE vision of one man, the driving force of his associates and the genius of renowned engineering talent are putting Lake Lure over as a resort of national size. They are directing a $6,000,000 program already well along. The public has declared its confidence in these men by taking $3,500,000 of the company's securities. This before an acre of its land was ever offered for sale.

LAKE LURE'S SOUND ADVANTAGES CANNOT BE MATCHED ELSEWHERE

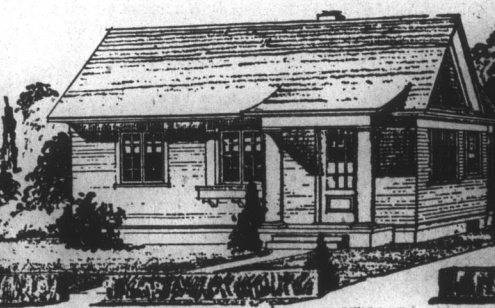

- 1. Substantial Financing—not by sale of property, but by subscriptions of money for buying the land, building the dam, clearing the lake basin, buying of the Chimney Rock scenic properties, making of highways and bridges, and erection of community buildings and hotels. All done by sale of securities before offering any of the real estate.
- 2. Integrity of Officers—The directors and officers are bankers, manufacturers and business leaders, all of highest repute. What they say they will do, is done.
- 3. Location—In the right area, the popular country, the Asheville-Hendersonville-Chimney Rock triangle, on State Highway, N. C. No. 20, mountains to seashore, already paved most of its 400-mile length, soon to be completely paved.
- 4. Self-Contained—The Lake Lure Estate is so large—12½ square miles, 8,500 acres, enveloping its own 1,500-acre lake, that it cannot be encroached upon by undesirable neighbors. Lake Lure controls its own destiny.
- 5. Demand Greater than Supply—There are plenty of golf resorts, plenty of places in the mountains to enjoy fine hotels, or ride resorts, but there is an absolute dearth of mountain-lake property—of home sites on the shores of a beautiful scenic lake where ALL sports and diversions can be found. Just one night away from 70,000 people who crave these relaxations. Lake Lure can hardly furnish home sites enough for all who will desire them.

This great resort so far along in the making is now an absorbing sight. Consult maps and descriptions in the nearest Lake Lure District office and arrange a trip to this pictureland via the Lake Lure Lines.

The one-story home is growing in popularity, as a result of the "flap" problem. To be successful, it must be well arranged, well lighted and contain all the features in the way of built-in cupboards, linen cases, etc., that go to make the modern home.
Coburn, altho not large, has more of these features than the usual small home; is well arranged, and is convenient and of good size for a small family.
The main floor contains a good-sized living room, bed-room, kitchen, bath and service-hall. In the basement there is ample room for laundry, fuel and storage. The exterior is handled in a pleasing manner. The front porch with turned-wood columns is a feature of the house and complete the design, which is suitable for city or suburb.

DRAPER
Earl E. Draper, of Charlotte, selected as the landscape engineer of Lake Lure, created the comprehensive general plan for the utilization, beautification and community and some-site development around Lake Lure, already proved practical in the creation of Luremont section and Lake Lure Business Center.

STILES
Wayne B. Stiles, of Stiles and Van Kleef of Boston, famous golf architects, creators of some of the finest courses in this country, including the famous Pasadena links at St. Petersburg, Fla., of which Walter Hagen is president and a course which has won the admiration of America's best players. Stiles is personally supervising the construction of the courses at Lake Lure. The first is almost completed.

MEES
Curtis A. Mees, of Mees and Mees, hydro-electric engineers of Charlotte, who have designed and supervised the construction of several great power developments in the super-hydro-electric zone of the Piedmont Plateau. They solved the problem of the massive Lake Lure dam and power plant. A tremendous operation rapidly nearing completion and alone worth a day's trip to see.

Settle on LAKE LURE

Great rejoicing over victory won in Greensboro by the fifty piece orchestra. Much credit due to the music master.

May 26, 1926.
Attended some play acting this night. Found in '26 such budding geniuses that Miss Pickford and Mr. Barrymore must look to their laurels. So the Seniors add acting to their literary and musical talents.

May 27, 1926
This eve '26 will receive hard-earned sheepskins. Thus the last page of this diary of '26 is written. "Tomorrow to fresh fields and pastures new."

Governor McLean to Help Dedicate Island Causeway.
Wilmington, June 4—A letter was received here today from Governor A. W. McLean, advising that he will accept the invitation to be the guest of Wilmington Thursday, June 10, at which time the causeway connecting the mainland at Wrightsville Sound with Harbor Island, Wrightsville Beach, will be formally dedicated.

This will be the extreme eastern link in North Carolina's magnificent highway number twenty, from the mountains to the ocean.
It is expected that Frank Pacy, chairman of the state highway commission, and General A. L. Bowie, of Fort Bragg, will also attend, as will Senators Overman and Simmons and Congressman Lyon and Abernethy if their duties permit.

The causeway is now completed with the traveling having been finished today.

The good work of Willie Hudlin, the youthful pitcher of the Waco Texas League team, is said to be attracting the attention of major league scouts
