City Officials Certain That Grade "A" Milk Will Be Available When Law Goes Into Effect. City officials who have made a study of the question are confident that the milk ordinance, requiring all milk to be graded and marked, will work to the elimination of cheap grade milk and to the advantage of the man who puts out clean, wholesome milk.

Mrs. Alice Amelia Loggren, fifteen, posed for the first time with her son, August Jr. The girl-wife married her guardian, August Loggren, fifty-two, wealthy Plainfield, N. J., "awning king," less than a year ago.

Federal and State milk experts were in Concord recently and while here they visited numbers of dairies and farms where milk is sold to the dairies. They discussed the law with the owners of the dairies, pointing out its advantages and also showing the futility of trying to sell a low grade milk in competition with a high grade one.

"Say, for instance," the official said, "that Mr. A gets grade 'A' milk with the grade stamped on the bottle cap. His neighbor, Mr. B, looks and sees that he is getting grade 'C' or 'B' milk and is paying the same price as his neighbor. How long do you think this would continue before Mr. B made a change? He is not going to be satisfied with inferior milk for the same price as paid for superior milk."

Milk sold in the city will be tested regularly and persons who might try to sell grade 'D' or 'C' milk as grade 'B' or 'A' milk will be prosecuted. Equipment necessary to make their plants capable of turning out grade 'A' milk has been purchased by a number of dairymen in the county and it is predicted that they will be in position to sell the best of milk when the new law becomes effective.

Leslie Bell, who held the title the first few years of its existence, and Robert P. Bell, champion in 1923 and 1924.

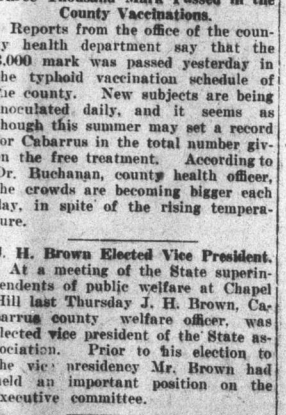

Other prominent players who will be in the fight from start to finish are: Rev. R. S. Arrowood, Ed Morrison, Livingston Eastley, Robert Dick, and Max Warlick. It is probable that some of the matches will be played on the court at the Country Club, providing it can be gotten in shape in time. With a little more work and proper care it will soon be the best tennis court Concord has had in a number of years. Other matches will be played on the court at the Y. M. C. A. Players may be seen on the courts every evening this week preparing for the tests of next. A schedule of the drawings will be printed within the next few days.
