N. C. Cranford, Stanly's alleged whipping boss.

J. K. Martin, at present an inmate of the county jail, writes to a local paper that he must protest against the manner in which the jails of the county and city are being lambasted. He avers that he has been in a good many jils, and that he knows what he is talking about. Touching upon the Cranford case, he writes:

"We have all read about Capt. N. C. Cranford, of Stanly county, who has killed all the men and whipped and kicked and done everything else bad, and we haven' heard the good part. I was raised in Stanly county, and I know when the chain gang started. I have known N. C. Cranford for 20 years, and I have lived to know some of the men on the roads, and they were the scraping of the earth.

"Mr. Cranford was a good Christian man, I am glid to say, and he taken have anything about him but the largest number of representatives.
