Simple Country Girl Now Divine Healer.

Career of Mrs. Willie Laurel Olive, Alabama Evangelist, of Interest Here.

In its latest issue The Union Republican carries the life story of Mrs. Willie Laurel Olive, the evangelist who has just completed a meeting in Concord. The story was sent to the Union Republican by a reader and was first carried in a Dothan, Alabama, newspaper.

In telling of the early life of this woman, the Alabama paper says that "From a simple country girl whose mother ran the village hotel at Waterford to one of the country's leading woman evangelists and divine healers in a few years has been the career of Willie Dick, now Mrs. Willie Laurel Olive, former Dothan woman, who is preaching daily to crowds of between eight and ten thousand people in revivals throughout the country. About eight years ago Mrs. Olive began preaching in the Tabernacle in Dothan and in the past five years she has regained a national reputation as a divine healer to whom afflicted people are flocking in great numbers and, it is said, going away healed."

"Cripples hobble to the pulpit and with one touch of Mrs. Olive's hand, and a short prayer, throw away their crutches and dance gleefully out of the tent. Bed-ridden patients who have suffered long and at great pain are brought carefully down the aisle and after the divine healing of Mrs. Olive, like the biblical story of the man afflicted with the palsy who was lowered through a roof for Christ to heal, arise from their beds and walk. All these miracle and various others are contained in newspaper accounts of the Dothan woman's meetings."

"The Concord Times of recent date are citing two instances of divine healing which have been performed by Mrs. Olive in one of her meetings there, has to say regarding the healing powers of the evangelist:

"These two cases are merely samples of the marvelous, miraculous healings that are being done nightly at the tent just above Forest Hill on the Kannapolis road by Willie Laurel Olive, woman evangelist and healer. Or rather, as she puts it they have been healed by the Lord through her because they believe in Him and because she believes in Him."

"I do not claim to heal people," Mrs. Olive said in an interview with a Concord Times representative. "I simply have faith to pray for people when they believe in the Lord and they are healed by Him. In my five years' experience as a healer I have seen God's blessing open stone blind eyes, cure cancers, tumors and rheumatism and enable cripples to discard their crutches forever. Those are only a few of the miracles the Lord has performed in my presence and in answer to my prayers and the belief of the subject in Him."

"Thirteen years ago Willie Dick went with her parents to a revival meeting in Dale county and was converted. Prior to that she had been known as one of the best dressed girls in the community and the belle of the village but following her union with the church she affected a simpler dress and gave her time more and more to the Lord."

"Then her parents moved to Dothan where her father was engaged in the watch repair business and her mother ran a boarding house near the Atlantic Coast Line depot. She attended Dothan public schools and devoted much of her time to the church. Eight years ago she entered the ministry and began preaching at the local Tabernacle.

"Miss Dick married in Dothan, where her husband, Mr. Olive, was employed at the Atlantic & N. C. Andrews Bay railroad shops. Later the couple moved to Waycross where her husband was employed in the Atlantic Coast Line shops. The couple returned to Dothan, however, and it was then that Mrs. Olive entered the ministry."

"Describing her divine healing powers, Mrs. Olive said in her interview to The Concord Times:

"It came to me one night that He would work with me, and that if I would pray for the sick He would heal them. He gave me the faith to do it."

"She was in Pensacola, Fla., at that time and the next night she held her first healing. The Times continues: 'Many miracles were performed that night and she received strength and renewed faith. Since then she has been at work continually and many people in many states have received the benefit of her divine prayers.'

"In speaking of her work in Concord, Mrs. Olive said: 'Every night there are far more people than I am able to reach. Usually we only have two healing nights each week, Tuesday and Friday, but beginning next week I shall devote every night to it. People have come to see me from more than fifty miles away and there have been many visitors from nearby towns. They have seen the countless numbers of wonderful healings and have been convinced.'

"The healings bring the days when Jesus was on the earth back to us," said the evangelist. "If we love Him He will cure the afflicted just as He did in biblical days. The Lord has not changed, it is the people who are different. He is willing to meet us more than half way and all we need is a little faith."

Dun's Trade Review.

New York, Aug. 20.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Statistical records continue to testify to the further satisfactory progress of trade. Bank clearings for August, which measure the volume of bank statements, are unprecedented in amount, and approach closely the heavy aggregate for the early months of the year. The July foreign trade statement, both as to imports and exports reflects further expansion in the merchandise movement abroad. Manufacturers are betting their schedules and wholesale distributive trade shows signs of improvement.

Business is emerging gradually from its midsummer quasi-inactivity. Purchasing for autumn requirements already has commenced, and the present outlook is very favorable. The vacation period, which always serves to impair normal retail distribution, is almost over. Sales during the week were retarded in some parts of the country by the inclement weather. Department store business thus far this year is in excess of the record for the same period in 1925.

Weekly bank clearing $8,200,150,000.
