AUGUST BUSY MONTH FOR TUBERCULOSIS NURSE

Miss Ford kept busy with calls and clinic in Kannapolis, Under Dr. S. E. Lee.

Making a total of 100 calls during the month as well as assisting Dr. S. E. Lee, of the State Sanatorium, in conducting the tuberculosis clinic held in Kannapolis August 2nd to 14th.

Miss Margaret D. Ford, tuberculosis nurse of Cabarrus county, was kept exceedingly busy in August. Her report for the month follows:

Total number of calls made on patients during the month—one hundred.

Beginning August 2nd to 14th a tuberculosis clinic was held in Kannapolis by Dr. S. E. Lee, of the State Sanatorium.

Total number of patients examined—one hundred and fourteen. Positive cases, twelve. Probable cases, twenty. Doubtful cases, six. Negative cases, seventy-six. Seven patients advised sanatorium treatment. Twenty-three patients advised X-ray and further examination. Three patients advised to keep temperature and weight record. Five patients advised to have tonsils removed. Six patients referred to their family physician for special treatment.

Two patients admitted to the Sanatorium during the month for treatment. One patient's expenses paid by the King's Daughters in Kannapolis and the other patient's expenses paid by the Tuberculosis Association.

This makes a total of ten cases at the State Sanatorium from Cabarrus county. The Tuberculosis Association furnishes from one to two quarts of milk daily to patients who are unable to purchase milk.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The weekly movie program will be shown tonight on the lawn. Several new "Our Gang" comedies have been secured to be shown on the program with the customary Aesop's Fables. Pictures will begin just as early as darkness will permit.

The building was closed all day Thursday in order that the gymnasium and office floors might receive a new coat of paint.

More than half a hundred parents and children enjoyed the "family" swim in the pool Thursday night. Since their inauguration several weeks ago these swims have become so popular that they will, in all probability, be made a regular feature of "Y" activities.

The members of the Concord Kiwanis Club, their families and friends will be the guests of the "Y" at a swimming party to be held at the pool next Tuesday night.

The swimming classes have been exceptionally well-filled lately in all departments. They will continue until the coming of cold weather.

The board of directors held their regular monthly meeting in the directors' room at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Routine business was transacted and the summer reports of all the departments were read and approved. Nothing out of the ordinary came before the meeting and they adjourned to meet again in October.

GROUP OF EUROPEAN TOURISTS TO LAND

Party Under Direction of Mrs. Pickard Will Reach New York Tomorrow.

One group of European tourists from Concord and other cities in this and other states, under the direction of Mrs. Gales Pickard of this city, will land in New York tomorrow.

This fact became known Thursday afternoon when Francis Pickard received a radiogram from his mother, in which she stated their boat would reach New York Saturday and Concord persons with the party would en-train at once for Concord. They expect to reach this city Monday morning.

The other group of the Concord Y tours is scheduled to reach New York Monday on the Leviathan. This group is under the direction of H. W. Blanks. Although badly hurt in a recent accident in Amsterdam, Mr. Blanks recovered sufficiently to direct the group on its return home.

It is expected that a majority of those in this group will leave New York Monday afternoon for their homes. The Concord party should reach here Tuesday.

Special Sermon For Young People. Rev. L. A. Thomas, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church, will preach a special sermon Sunday for young people who will go soon to various schools and colleges for the winter. A special invitation is extended to young people of all churches to hear Mr. Thomas' sermon at 11 o'clock.

To Cost $1,000 to Guard Rum Cargo. Raleigh, Sept. 2.—(P)—Marshall R. W. Ward estimated here today that it is going to cost the United States government around $1,000 to guard the cargo of the rum ship "Elma" pending disposition by the federal court this fall.

Two guards are now on duty, Marshall Ward said, and are costing about $20 a day. They are expected to be retained until October 4th, the return date of the seizure warrant.

Only one guard was stationed over the rum ship before Marshall Ward took charge last week, but then he decided to keep a watch over it both night and day and put on two men.

The cargo and vessel are said to be valued at about $500,000. The seizure was made off the North Carolina coast last May.

GRAHAM SPEAKER AT PICNIC IN COUNTY

State Commissioner of Agriculture Spoke at Annual Picnic at Poplar Grove.

W. A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture for North Carolina, was the principal speaker at the annual picnic held Thursday at Poplar Grove in No. 3 township.

Hundreds of persons from Cabarrus and nearby counties were present and the day proved one of much interest and pleasure. In addition to other speakers while music was furnished throughout the day by an excellent orchestra.

The popular Grove picnic annually is one of the biggest features of rural life in the county. The grove in which it is held is one naturally suited for such an event and hundreds of persons always attend the picnics.

Mr. Graham attended the picnic when an invitation was extended to him some time ago. He had been in Lincoln county and motored over for the day.

In his address Mr. Graham praised the purposes of such picnics as a means of bringing the people and their communities. He discussed briefly the agricultural situation in the state and explained at some length the manner in which his department is operated.

Morrison H. Caldwell and G. Ed. Kestler, of Concord, were among the other speakers. Mr. Caldwell spoke along educational lines, pointing out some progress in education that has been made in the county.

Mr. Kestler spoke of the early history of Cabarrus county and pointed out the need for a comprehensive history of the county. Cabarrus people should know more of the early life of their county, he said, and he expressed the hope that this history could be offered in book form within the next several years.

A dinner served in picnic style was one of the most delightful events of the splendid program arranged for the day.

COURT CASES

One Case Ordered Removed to Cleveland County—Archibald Wins His Case.

When Cabarrus Superior Court recessed Thursday afternoon for the day no verdict had been returned in the case of Federal Finance and Credit Co. vs. S. C. Pate.

Several other cases were disposed of during the day. The case of N. A. Archibald vs. N. L. Swearingen and D. L. Barnhardt was completed, the jury awarding the plaintiff $1,300. The jury also awarded the defendant $195 on a counter claim entered in the answer to the suit.

A non-suit was taken in the case of Hastic Sign Co. vs. O. B. Hoffman.

Judge P. A. McElroy, presiding, ordered the case of J. H. Blackwell vs. the Park Yarn Mills Co. and Dr. J. G. Hood removed to Cleveland county for trial. It was pointed out to the court that all parties to the suit reside in Cleveland county. Hon. Clyde R. Hoey, of the Shelby bar, was here on business connected with the case.

The case of Carl Wadsworth Co. vs. L. O. Laffer and George Untz was continued, and the same action was taken in the case of G. M. Green vs. J. C. Gourley.

At Hotel Concord Thursday. Out-of-town guests registered at Hotel Concord Thursday were: W. M. Cooper, Graham, N. C.; J. B. Eagles, Walstonburg, N. C.; R. F. Speight, Walstonburg, N. C.; A. A. Vaughan, Sparta, N. C.; G. H. Bass, Detroit, Mich.; A. G. Noell, Roanoke, Va.; C. J. Barrock, Greensboro, N. C.; F. V. Atlee, Jno. S. Woods, Richmond, Va.; F. P. Hunter, Bowling Green, Ky.; W. L. Walton, High Point; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Shaw, Newport, Fla.; Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Thomas, Titusville, Fla.; Elvis Vickery, Greenville, S. C.; E. M. Bates and wife, Wilmington.

SNAPSHOTS

(This article is the seventh in a weekly series which will be written for publication in The Tribune by a patient in a North Carolina hospital.—Editor.)

NO. SEVEN—"CUTIE"

Her real name is Margaret Jane, her nickname at home Dolly, "because I look so much like a doll," but we always called her "Cutie," and when I tell you that she is six feet tall and weighs two hundred pounds I'm sure you can easily see the reason for thus naming her.

She was one of the nurses here last summer and fall, and although she knew very little about nursing she was good natured, and willing to learn. She came to us directly from a hospital for highly nervous people where she had been a nurse, and some of her accounts of things that had happened while she was there were thrilling, to say the least. And once, in telling of the things she had to eat while there she said "I used to drink cream every time I had to fix any for one of the patients, and I certainly did love it. But it made me gain so that I got to weighing 205 pounds, and I began to feel kind of uncomfortable, so I had to stop drinking it. I feel lots better now that I'm down to two hundred again!"

She came originally from high up in the mountains, a day's journey from here, and she is filled with old superstitions and beliefs. She used to tell us of the most awful things that would make us well, if we were to take them, but her favorite remedy was kerosene! and she was horrified when she found two of us drinking ginger ale. "Honey, don't you know that will eat up your lungs, sure?"

And I'm sure that even now she thinks that we have hopelessly ruined our chances of getting well by the continued imbibing of such strong drink!

She also thought that we rest entirely too much, and she was constantly urging us to get out in the sunshine and walk around. "What you need is to get out in the fresh air and stir around some. You never will get well again 'un here in this bed all the time!"

Well, goodness, knows, I was perfectly willing to "git out in the air and stir around," but my doctor did not seem so anxious to have me do it—not that his opinion mattered to "Cutie" however!

"These doctors don't know nothin' and I believe all of ye would be a sight better off if ye didn't have none. They just come in to see ye twice a week, look at ye, and go right out again. Now you know that ain't a doin' ye no good!"

But I'm glad she had very few converts to her beliefs, for somehow we seemed to prefer taking a chance on the twice-a-week once-over, rather than on the kerosene cure.

She has two orphan nieces that she is helping to support, and how she loves to talk of them. What good children they are, and how they love their "Aunt Dolly!" And I love her, for she is a most lovable person, even when she isn't one's aunt. She used to often send boxes of clothes and food to these children, who live with their grandmother far up in the mountains, and at Christmas time she fairly reveled in the Five and Ten Cent Stores, for there she could buy gifts for them to her heart's content, and without having to worry about finances. And I know that her pleasure and excitement were as nothing compared to that of the little girls when the package from "down to Asheville" was opened! To them "Aunt Dolly" must seem much more than just a well-loved aunt—I'm sure they must think of her as their own Fairy Godmother.

When "Cutie" had been here about five months she suddenly decided that she would like to nurse a private patient, in spite of the fact that the only training she had ever received was at the insane asylum, and judging from her remarks I am inclined to think that the principal thing needed there was strength rather than medical knowledge!

But there was one patient here who was willing to take a chance on her nursing, so "Cutie" became a special nurse—and never have I seen a prouder woman than she was when she realized that she was no longer just a hall nurse but had suddenly risen to the eminence of a special! She fairly beamed on all and sundry, and caused quite a bit of comment! One day when she remarked to the other nurses, many of them graduates, "I know as much as you do now—the only difference between us is that you wear cleaner dresses than I do!"

Mr. Wooley Remains Critically Ill. Messages have been received here by relatives, stating that the condition of Calvin Wooley, of Wagram, who is critically ill, shows little improvement.

Little Girl Improving. Louise Brown Beaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Beaver, is improving after a serious illness of several weeks. She sat up for a short time Thursday.
