If Your Children Were Orphans?

An Editorial on Golden Rule Sunday by Charles Dana Gibson, Editor of LIFE

If your children were orphans, and the Neworld's richest land, would it not, then, be the rich country of the Near East to care for your aren, to save their lives and to bring them up and educate them?

The practical application of the Golden Rule is the sole purpose of the Near East Relief, which has saved more than a million lives. Statesmen, clergymen, business men, prominent citizens in every walk of life indorse the work of this nation-wide organization.

But nation-wide approval is not enough. The Many East Relief must be supported to the same and the same area.

But nation-wide approval is not enough. The Near East Relief must have nation-wide support in its stupendous task of teaching thousands of helpless children in the chaotic Near East to-help themselves, to become factors in the help of others, and the model is chaotic Near East to-help themselves, to become factors in the help of others—and the work has just begun.

Observe Golden Rule Sunday, December 5th. Make it a day of self-sacrifice, a day of kindly thoughts toward the needy thousands across the sea. Make it an opportunity to help in this great movement of good will.

In bespeaking for the Near East Relief the interest and aid of its readers, this paper is actuated by the desire to relieve the suffering of children whenever and wherever it may exist. Neglect, starvation and disease have pretty much the same results in Asia Minor as in New York.

much the same results in Asia Minor as in New York, little children suffer as deeply from sickness, hunger and abandonment today as little children suffered in 1914. The sufferers of the slums are before our eyes; the plight of the children of France was on every front page. But the misery and want of the Near East are brought home to us only by the tireless and consecrated work of those who have been there, who have seen and who know.
