

Horror Of Earthquake In Japan Last Monday Grows With More Data

Death List Now Ranges From Official Estimate of 2,275 to Newspaper Figures as High as 5,000.

MINEYAMA LOSS MAY BE 2,000

Several Towns Were Practically Wiped Out While in Others Many Houses Were Totally Wrecked.

Tokio, March 9.—(AP)—The horror of Monday's earthquake in central Japan continues to grow as more complete reports arrive.

The death list now ranges from an official estimate of 2,275 to newspaper figures as high as 5,000. The number of injured cannot be reliably estimated at present, but it will run into the thousands. The home office this afternoon said it had listed 3,441 injured. Houses destroyed by fire, the home office said, totaled 3,000, and by the earthquake 3,113. Partly burned houses total 158, and houses damaged by the quake 16,087.

The home minister, interpellated in the diet today, gave the official figure of 1,000 deaths, but this was before the latest report was received, and he said it excluded the towns of Miyama and Mineyama, from which reliable information could not be obtained owing to wrecked communications.

Mineyama is understood to have been hit the hardest, and one unofficial estimate is that fully 2,000 persons lost their lives there, either killed by falling buildings or caught in the fire that followed.

The Tokyo Asahi Shimbun (a newspaper) estimates the dead in the entire earthquake region at more than 3,000, while the Tokyo Nichi Nichi Shimbun gives 5,000, with from 50,000 to 75,000 homeless.

An Asahi correspondent says that the town of Amio of 4,000 population was nearly destroyed with the number of dead and injured unestimated. More than 200 were killed and 500 injured in the collapse and burning of a theatre. Troops are digging bodies from the ruins. The refugees, many of them injured, present a pitiful spectacle, their misery accentuated by the snow and cold, and their terror continuing owing to continued earth rumblings.

The snow, together with fissures opened in the earth by the convulsions, have greatly retarded attempts to get relief to sufferers by automobile, and food is being carried by coolies.

President Coolidge nominated Tilson to the judgeship during the last session of Congress, following a previous recess appointment. Opposition developed to the nomination in the Senate, led by the two Georgia senators, and the President withdrew the nomination.

$30,000 Fire at Pilot Mountain

Winston-Salem, March 9.—(AP)—Fire originated in the cafe of Claude Swanson, about 12 o'clock Tuesday night resulted in about $30,000 damage to buildings and stocks of goods in Pilot Mountain's main business section.

Pilot Mountain has no water system, and citizens fought the flames as best they could by carrying water by buckets from the wells in the town. The Mt. Airy fire department used chemicals.

Immediately following the banquet the body will adjourn to Sherrill Hall, where "Athletic Night" will be observed. At that time special speakers will be present, and awards will be made of football, basketball, and wrestling letters, as well as "C. C." numerals to the freshmen. The winner of the Norris Trophy will be announced and the loving cup formally presented. The silver football offered by the Schiffner Jewelry Company, of Greensboro, to the championship football team, will also be awarded to the title-holders.

The home minister, interpellated in the diet today, gave the official figure of 1,000 deaths, but this was before the latest report was received, and he said it excluded the towns of Miyama and Mineyama, from which reliable information could not be obtained owing to wrecked communications.

READY MONEY MUCH IN DEMAND WHEN 3 BANKS ARE CLOSED

Man in the Street in Florida Uneasy as Result of Closing of Three Banks in West Palm Beach.

VISITORS READY TO AID BANKERS

Wealthy Men From Other Parts of Country Trying to Aid—Bank Examiners Will Decide Banks' Fates

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Ready money—an incident heretofore in this resort for the wealthy—was of prime concern today.

The man in the street regarded apprehensively an abrupt suspension of three banks. Millionaire winter visitors attracted to their sports and dances, paused to offer financial assistance to two banks that had the burden of keeping the dollar in circulation.

The Citizens Bank and the Farmers Bank & Trust Company, "as solid as Gibraltar," officials said, awaited additional funds from Jacksonville, with which to augment a special commitment of $2,000,000 that yesterday enabled them to meet withdrawals and remain open until 2 o'clock, the regular closing time.

Then after the rejection of the 27 judicial districts plan, the committee on courts and judicial districts, with Representative Willis Smith of Wake, as chairman, brought out two bills—one, to provide for four additional judicial districts, and two permanent emergency judges, another bill to submit a constitutional amendment that would permit the general assembly to increase the number of superior court judges or solicitors independently.

As the constitution now stands, there must be the same number of solicitors as judges.

And this latter bill is the only one that has passed—and now the people must vote on it, before it can become a law.

OFFICIALS OF STATE DISCUSS LEGISLATION

Officials More or Less Pleased With the Work of the Session.

Raleigh, March 9.—(AP)—State officials today expressed themselves more or less pleased with 1927 legislation. All net measures of the state high court were passed into law.

Frank Page, chairman, reviewed pointing to the $30,000,000 state highway bond issue, bringing the total to $115,000,000, and the Smith Hargett law designed to prevent duplication of the Newton decision which prohibits any individual from bringing suit against the commission. Mr. Page said the Commission had advocated for the state constabulary measure defeated, but had not fought for it after Governor McLean and others considered it inadvisable at this time.

The Board of Charities and Public Welfare appropriation was increased from $30,000 to $33,000, but the Rockefeller Foundation annual $10,000 contribution is scheduled to cease June 30th.

Mrs. Johnson, welfare worker, had success in enactment of the farm colony for mature delinquent women. The club women's minimum school attendance law bill, the marriage ban bill, Australian ballot and other welfare bills were killed.

The Corporation Commission was gratified on the bank liquidation law revision of the blue sky law, while Stacy Wade, insurance commissioner, had all his bills passed including revisions of the insurance law, provisions for building and inspection, but the hospital and theatre fire prevention bill was killed.

The State board of health saw the bill to increase its membership killed.

The State department of public instruction, failing in the eight months school proposal, saw the Woltz $3,250,000 equalization fund secured.

Baxter Durham, state auditor, deplored cuts in appropriations for printing.

THE COTTON MARKET

Opened Steady at Decline of 1 to 5 Points, October Going to 14.57.

New York, March 9.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady today at decline of 1 to 3 points in response to easier Liverpool cables, March easing off to 14.22 and October to 14.57. Offerings were light, however, and the market steadied after opening on covering and trade buying. Liverpool rallied after the local market opened, and there was probably buying here inspired by the absence of any material increase of offerings from the South. May sold up to 14.20 and October to 14.60 by the end of the first half hour, or about 1 to 3 points net higher.

The market seemed to meet a little more selling around 14.20 for May and prices eased off under liquidation. Offerings were comparatively light, but the market was narrow. May easing off to 14.22 and active months showing net declines of 2 to 4 points at midday.

Cotton futures opened steady, March 14.12; May 14.22; July 14.40; Oct. 14.57; Dec. 14.72.

More than 25,000,000 persons paid to see the football games played last fall by the 448 leading colleges of the country, points out Hugh Fullerton in an article in this week's Liberty.

Washington and Lee University will be host to the annual South Atlantic intercollegiate basketball tournament March 3-5.

Emergency Judges Approved By Action of the State Legislature

Tribune Bureau.

Raleigh, March 9.—For another two years emergency judges will be all that will be available to relieve the congestion in the Superior courts of the state, with the twenty judicial districts remaining as now constituted as a result of the enactment of the bill providing for four permanent emergency judges to be appointed by the Governor, with the privilege to appoint two more if conditions necessitate it.

Thus on the closing day of the 1927 session, the plan advocated the opening week of the session 60 days before, and then laughed at, has been adopted as the only way out of the judicial congestion in the state. First, the senate discarded the permanent emergency judges plan, substituting in its stead a bill calling for the creation of seven additional judicial districts, and passed it, thus taking care of all the most insistent demands for new districts.

But the house would have none of it, the "back country" rising as a man, under the leadership of Representative Melan of Beaufort, Folger of Surry, and Boyd of Haywood, thus putting an end to the dream of the bigger counties, for a plan of courts where the lawyers could sue and sue and sue, and get their cases heard within a reasonable length of time.

Then after the rejection of the 27 judicial districts plan, the committee on courts and judicial districts, with Representative Willis Smith of Wake, as chairman, brought out two bills—one, to provide for four additional judicial districts, and two permanent emergency judges, another bill to submit a constitutional amendment that would permit the general assembly to increase the number of superior court judges or solicitors independently.

As the constitution now stands, there must be the same number of solicitors as judges.

And this latter bill is the only one that has passed—and now the people must vote on it, before it can become a law.

AMERICAN-BORN DUKE WAS A GREAT SCIENTIST

Duke de Loubat Aided Many Individuals and Institutions in America.

New York, March 9.—Many Americans and American institutions have cause to remember with gratitude the Duke de Loubat, whose death, reported from Paris, the study of which he termed "Americanism" was the life-long hobby of the Duke. In pursuit of this study himself and to encourage it in others he donated vast sums of money. Time and again he traveled over Mexico and Central and South America in search of relics of the early civilization of these regions and to collect manuscripts left by the early Spanish conquerors and clergy. Copies of these manuscripts he had reproduced at his own expense and distributed them among the libraries and museums in America.

He presented to the National Historical Museum in this city a wonderful collection of casts of Mexican and Maya antiquities. To Columbia University he made a donation of more than $1,000,000 and enriched its library with a gift of rare books and manuscripts. In 1890 he founded a professorship in the University of Berlin for Americans, at a cost of $75,000. He was the founder of the Loubat prizes of $1,000 and $400, which are awarded by Columbia University every five years for the best work written in the English language upon the history, geography, archaeology, ethnology, philology or numismatics of the State.

The Duke de Loubat, though it may seem an anomaly, lived and died an American citizen. He was born in this city in 1831 and was the son of a very wealthy New Yorker. He first came into prominence in 1867, after the close of the civil war. At that time the United States sent an embassy to Russia to thank the Emperor and the Czarina for their sympathy and help during the civil war. Mr. Joseph F. Loubat, as he was then known, was the secretary to that embassy.

An early incident which made him best known to the general public concerned his troubles with the Union Music of the city. Mr. Loubat had a dispute with another member, which led to talk of a duel and then to his expulsion from the club. He thereupon brought suit for reinstatement and was completely successful after prolonged litigation. After this episode he went to Paris, where he continued to reside during the remainder of his life.

In Paris he became very much interested in archaeology, and in history of all sorts. He made extensive research and studies and spent a considerable fortune on old manuscripts and original documents. At the same time he made extensive gifts to the Roman Catholic Church, both in Europe and in America. His donations became so very prominent that they merited the attention of the pope. At first the Pope conferred upon him the title of count, and then that of duke. That is how he gained his title.

In the early '80s the Duke wrote and published his "Medieval History of the United States." This consisted of two large volumes of etched reproductions of every medal ever given by Congress, with the full history of each occasion. The etchings were done by one of the most famous etchers in the world. The whole production cost forty or fifty thousand dollars. It is said that Mr. Loubat

IMPROVEMENT SEEN NOW IN CONDITION OF BASEBALL STAR

Johnny Mostil, Who Tried to Take Life in Louisiana Training Camp, Has Chance to Recover.

SAYS NOTHING ABOUT ACTION

He Is Now Conscious But He Offers No Explanation.—Ill Health May Have Been the Cause.

Shreveport, La., March 9.—(AP)—The condition of Johnnie Mostil, outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, who attempted to take his life here last night in the bath room of a hotel where the Sox are quartered, was somewhat improved this morning. Mostil was said to have had a fairly good night and was conscious. He slashed himself four times, using a knife and a razor blade.

So far, he has made no statement concerning the attempt to kill himself.

Mostil's attempt came as a blow to Manager Ray Schalk, and other members of the club, who showed much concern over the matter.

Mostil has been a member of the Chicago White Sox for six years. He began his baseball career on Chicago sand lots. In 1918 he was given a trial with the White Sox, and was later sent to Milwaukee, playing with that team two years, at second base, and in the outfield. He returned to the Chicago club where he remained, playing in the outfield. His home is in Whiting, Indiana, near Chicago. He is unmarried.

Physicians said later that although still in a grave condition, Mostil was much improved and had a good chance to recover.

HINES AGAIN CONFERS WITH MANUFACTURERS

Head of Textile Institute Meets With Textile Men in Charlotte.

Charlotte, March 8.—General Walker D. Hines, president of the American Cotton Textile Institute, and about 150 cotton manufacturers of the Piedmont section of the State, conferred here today on plans to make the textile industry more efficient.

These plans include more efficient operation of the business and manufacturing plants and General Hines advised that rather than building of more mills.

Unity and co-operation were approved the efforts to popularize the wearing of cotton goods and one of the aims of the textile institute will be to find new uses for cotton products.

Cost accounting, collection and dissemination of reports and accurate information regarding orders, stocks on hand and production schedules were stressed as important.

General Hines went from here to Spartanburg, where Wednesday he will hold another meeting.

SOLOMON'S POOLS FILLED.

Ancient Water Supply System to Be Used Again in Palestine.

Jerusalem, March 9.—Salomon's pools, one of the most ancient water supply systems of the world, were filled for the first time in many centuries.

The pools were repaired by the Palestine Government and will be used again, as in the time of ancient Judea, to supply water temporarily for the needs of Jerusalem's population. The pools contain 40,000 gallons of water.

A public festival in honor of the occasion was held by the Municipality of Jerusalem. High Commissioner Lord Plumer, in addressing the gathering, urged that reliance should not be placed in the pools but that a safe modern supply system should be installed.

Borah May Speak in State.

Wilmington, March 9.—(INS)—Senator Borah of Idaho has tentatively accepted an invitation to address the North Carolina Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution commissioners March 29-30, according to an announcement here.

The Idaho Senator, it was said, has an engagement in New York on March 29, and will make an effort to get to North Carolina within the following two days, it was said by officials of the society.

Among other speakers who have been obtained to address the conference are Governor McLean and General Albert Cox, of Raleigh. It was also announced that J. A. M. director of the United States Flag Association, and Walter Murphy, of Salisbury, also have been invited to speak before the convention.

Spring Rest Is Coming.

Greensboro, March 9.—North Carolina college students in this city, more than 1,000 of them, at this date have a little more than three weeks of work in front of them before spring vacation.

According to the college calendar, students and members of the faculty will be relieved from duties from Friday, April 1, to Thursday, April 7, inclusive. After the latter date the only break in the schedule before commencement comes upon the celebration by students of Field day, which has at times heretofore been a holiday.

STATE FAIR IS ASSURED AS RESULT OF MEASURE

There is Still Some Doubt About Fair Being Held This Year.

Tribune Bureau.

Raleigh, March 9.—North Carolina will again have a State Fair. This is assured when the measure providing 200 acres of State land passed the Senate yesterday on its turbulent journey through the General Assembly. But whether it will be possible to hold one this fall is still doubtful.

The measure provides that 200 acres of land within five miles of the State Capitol shall be set aside for the purpose of holding a State Fair, provided that the city of Raleigh and the State Agricultural Society raise $200,000 for the purpose of erecting suitable permanent buildings. The Agricultural Society has an equity in the $150,000 now belonging to the State Fair by virtue of the sale of the old fair grounds. The city of Raleigh also has an equity in this money and nothing will be done towards establishing the fair until the people of Raleigh by vote release their equity in the fund and the city agrees by the sale of bonds or by private subscription the sum of $50,000. When this additional money is in hand, the State Fair will begin to become a reality.

The new fair will be a state institution. The land is to be selected by the Governor and the Council of State, and unless they feel disposed to trade land, part of the State Prison farm will likely be used for the purpose or possibly some State College farm land.

A state fair properly conducted is a blackboard on which may be written the agricultural progress of North Carolina those who favor it say. It is an educational institution to which farmers and homemakers throughout North Carolina may bring their choicest products and through their exhibition encourage others to do equally as well. Farmers who travel to the State Fair come in contact with new ideas by mingling with one another. They see new equipment, new ideas in home conveniences, new plants, improved animals and crops and they learn that some of the old methods are wasteful and obsolete.

In addition to the facts that farmers and housewives learn from each other and from the exhibits brought from the farms, they also get much desirable information from the exhibits of commercial concerns and the educational displays of State College and other institutions. The late facts about improved agriculture which in many cases are not yet adopted generally by farmers are shown at the Fair and when these exhibits are properly housed with sufficient space to make them tell the story effectively, they are of untold value in improving farming practices.

If the new State Fair is properly equipped with spacious buildings and is properly managed to encourage the crop farmers, livestock growers and others to bring their choicest products, it should prove to be one of the finest educational agencies available to the agriculture of North Carolina. The General Assembly has very wisely given the farmer this much consideration, at least, and it is to be hoped that the State Agricultural Society and the City of Raleigh fulfill expectations by giving farmers a state-wide fair worthy of North Carolina.

Dr. Patton is in a hospital at Murphy and Wiggins is in a hospital at Bryson City. The physician is 63 years old and Wiggins 40.

CANTONESE TROOPS STILL ADVANCING; WUHU IS OCCUPIED

Troops Followed Occupation of City by Cantonese and Customs House There Was Looted by Mob.

RECENT MOVES AID INVADERS

Governor of Wuhwei Province Goes Over to Cantonese, and Invaders Are Making Progress.

Shanghai, March 9.—(AP)—Attention centered today on Wuhwei, 200 miles west of here, because of its occupation by the advancing Cantonese and riots in which the customs house was looted by a mob.

The foreign women and children at Wuhwei evacuated the city today and left by steamer for Shanghai. No casualties were reported. Anti-riot measures were described as "lukewarm."

Latest military events seem strongly in favor of the Cantonese, who are moving in increasing strength in the direction of Nanking from as far west as Hankow.

The new situation, brought about by the action of the governor of Wuhwei province, Chen Tiao-Yung in affiliating himself with the Cantonese, and the occupation of Wuhwei has placed General Chang, defender of Shanghai, in a precarious position. He still holds the northeastern section of the province, but has been forced to bring up reinforcements to protect his lines. At the present time, Chang is said to have 7,000 white Russians with his army in the vicinity of Nanking.

Nationalist soldiers at Wuseh, below Hankow, rushed and captured a British steamer on Monday starting down the river with a British destroyer later intercepted the steamer and recaptured it. An armed guard was placed aboard.

BLUE LAW FIGHT TO STATE SUPREME COURT

Governor Richards Wants Highest Court To Pass Judgment on Old Law.

Asheville, March 9.—(INS)—South Carolina's blue law controversy will be carried to the Supreme Court.

Governor Richards has temporarily averted a threatened clash between the executive and judicial branches of the state government by ordering his constables to make no arrests at Aiken at present for violation of the state's blue laws.

The order was issued by the Governor after Judge Haynes F. Rice issued a restraining order on the constabulary preventing them from molesting Sunday golfers at the resort town.

Governor Richards recalled his officers back to the state capital after Judge Rice threatened to place officers in jail if they violated his order, but declared that he would make an attempt to have the Supreme Court act on the point at once.

In a statement issued here, the Governor declared that he felt Judge Rice had no authority to restrain officers from enforcing the law, but that his respect for the courts was such that he "would rather go to an extreme than to carry a point by force."
