Street Parent Teacher Meeting.

The parent-teacher association met at the parent-teacher school Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance. Reports were given for February and it was found that the work of the association had progressed. The treasurer reported a seventy dollar surplus from the George Washington association. The grade books have all been brought up to date and above. Each grade has had three sets of supplementary work. Several sets of reference books, too, have been bought and paid for. The grounds have been improved with fountain, shrubbery, trees and play ground apparatus. The chief feature of the afternoon's program was a paper read by Mrs. J. C. Jones, the title of the paper being "Children People." It was written by a twelve year old girl and was very interesting.

One stone is harder than the most brilliant white diamond, is the diamond, which is so hard that it cannot be polished.

WANT FRANCIS NASH MEMORIAL FOR STATE

Formation of Association Will Be Recommended to D. A. R. At State Conference.

New Bern, March 12.—A Francis Nash Memorial association, for North Carolinians, their descendants and friends will be recommended and perhaps started at the approaching state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution to be held March 23, 30 and 31 in Wilmington.

The association will have two main present objects: first, the procuring of a bronze tablet on a rough granite boulder to the memory of General Francis Nash, North Carolina Revolutionary leader, in front of the Menonite cemetery in Montgomery county, Pennsylvania, 32 miles from Philadelphia, where he was buried; and second, the placing of a similar memorial on the house where Nash died October 7, 1777, following mortal wound received in the battle of Germantown.

As a further objective, the association would probably endeavor to purchase the Markley farmhouse where the North Carolinian died. It is hoped that the first memorial may be erected and unveiled by the sesquicentennial anniversary of his death next fall. The year, 1922, when the nation will celebrate the anniversary of Washington's birth, has been selected for the completion of the association program. Jacob S. Allen, prominent citizen of Philadelphia, former president of the North Carolina Society of Pennsylvania, will present these plans at the D. A. R. conference. Resolutions will be offered and very likely passed, sponsoring the project and asking for the cooperation of other state patriotic organizations.

Cooperation with any plans that may be worked on for the erection of memorials to this Revolutionary leader at this grave and at the scene of his death in Pennsylvania has already been promised by officials of the North Carolina Society of Pennsylvania. Governor A. W. McLean and other leaders have also endorsed the project.

North Carolinians have never honored Nash's memory in Pennsylvania. Citizens of Germantown and Morristown have placed a monument over his grave. A monument to him, voted by Congress, was unveiled on July 4, 1906, at Gullford battle ground. In a notable address on the occasion, A. M. Waddell spoke in part as follows of Nash:

"His career was a brief, but brilliant, one and ended on the field of glory, when he was only thirty-five years old. It is unquestionably true, and therefore just, to say that there was no officer of the American Revolution who acquired in the same period a more solid reputation for soldierly qualities, or who died more universally regretted than he."

Mrs. J. P. Caldwell.

Charlotte News.

Mrs. J. P. Caldwell, whose labors are ended in a community in which she was born and reared and in which she moved with majestic force and influence through many years, was a woman of many inherently strong capacities, and of talents conspicuous for their versatility and notable for the manner in which she invested them.

She was, first of all, born to the newspaper enterprise.

The gathering up of the news from the folks and from the streets for the daily papers and the weaving it together into readable articles for the people was instinctive with her. There was nothing forced or compulsory either in her work or in the method with which she went about it. She loved it and it was, therefore, easy, free and natural and always well done.

In diverse positions on the newspapers of Charlotte she had labored through the years and in all of them she was always sprightly and dynamic and thoroughly capable.

Through the quarter of a century that we have either been immediately in association with her or had intimate knowledge of her journalistic activities, the experience leads to the assertion, that is not a mere post-mortem tribute, but which has repeatedly been made during her life, that she has never had an equal in Charlotte's newspaper field as a reporting genius.

She could get more news than tribes of others because she had that energy which is primarily necessary to such an attainment; then she had the daring and courage that make up a second essential, and finally, she had the friends upon whom she could depend to assist in her energetic labors. She was unapproached in this department of newspaper-making.

News and Views of Women

Souvenir Sabots Find American Use.

Portland, Ore.—Eureven's hunters will no longer have to leave the country in order to obtain the wooden shoes they used to collect in Switzerland. A Swiss woman, Mrs. Lena Koehlin, living in Portland, working on a lunch that the sabots would be popular here both for decorative and practical purposes, imported 1,500 pairs which she sold within two weeks.

She is sending to Switzerland for her father to start a factory in the lumber region in the west.

The shoes are made of ordinary weight water-proof leather on cherry or walnut soles and are intended for wet or cold weather.

Song After Dinner Will Be French Fad.

Paris—A new combination of wine, woman and song that has a beneficial influence instead of the traditional harmful one, has been advocated by Mme. Beatrix Dussane, one of the stars of the Comedie-Francaise.

Mme. Dussane suggests that women revive the old-fashioned French custom of after dinner singing around the table, make it their newest fad and let it take the place of smoking. She considers that combined with the drinking of wine, this will be an aid to digestion and good cheer. Mme. Dussane, although in most things very fashionable still has unboxed golden hair and never smokes.

Voters May Hide Age and Use Maiden Name.

Jackson, Miss.—An ancient feminine right, for Mississippi says, women voters may maintain secrecy concerning their ages.

The attorney general gave his opinion that a statement of being "21 plus" was sufficient. Married women may use either their own or the names of their husbands in registering, the prefix "Mrs." being required in case of the former. An unusually large number of women has registered for the democratic state primary in August.

Women Resort Owners of Wisconsin Organize.

Flambeau, Wis.—Wisconsin women who own and operate summer resorts have organized with Mrs. Janet Cole, proprietor of a camp near here, as president. There are about 100 of them, exclusive of those interested with their husbands. The latter group was admitted and the association made regional at a meeting of sports-women in Chicago in May during the women's world fair at which the association will be represented.

N. C. C. W. Alumni Meeting.

Miss Clara Byrd, Alumnae Secretary of N. C. C. W., was in Concord Wednesday. She met with a committee of former students, Mrs. Ben Craven, Miss Elizabeth Black, Miss Janie Klutz, Mrs. J. W. Pitt and Miss Virginia Smoot. Plans were made for the great home coming June 3-8.

The following letter will be of interest to all former students:

To the Chairmen of N. C. C. W. Local Alumnae Association:

Of course you know about the great honor Doctor Foust has conferred on us in giving us the privilege of dedicating the new auditorium at commencement, on Saturday, June 4th. You doubtless know something of the program that is being worked out for commencement, and that this program is being planned largely with us in mind. One of the greatest orators in the United States, Rabbi Wise, of New York, will deliver the dedication address. The Greensboro Choral Society, under the direction of Doctor Brown, is going to give Mendelssohn's great oratorio "Elijah"; the "Playlikers" under the direction of Mr. Taylor, will present one of Barrie's plays—all for our special benefit. We will be guests for luncheon on Saturday in the college dining halls. In the afternoon the alumnae will have a meeting—"Just Us Ourselves," in which representative alumnae will be heard from. There will be class reunions for everybody; and other interesting things. The most spectacular feature will be the procession to the auditorium, the success of which largely depends on the number of alumnae present.

We feel that this homecoming of college women will be one of the great events in the history of our state. The new auditorium will seat nearly three thousand people and President Foust says it would give him great joy to see it filled with the alumnae of the college on Dedication Day. Let's not disappoint him.

Loyalty yours,
MRS. B. O. PARKER, Chrm.

ARREST ALLEGED HEAD OF NARCOTIC DEALERS

Two Men Are Arrested and Eleven Automobiles and Much Ammunition Seized.

New Orleans, La., March 17.—The head of a huge narcotic octopus whose arms federal agents believe had extended well into the southern states was thought to have been reached here today with the arrest of August Scotrino, alleged head of the ring.

Along with Scotrino they held Angelo Pinez, an alleged undesirable alien, and Daniel Gold, charged with serving as Scotrino's go-between in dealing with prospective narcotic purchasers.

A fleet of 11 automobiles in which officers believe Scotrino made deliveries and three automatic revolvers with 25,000 rounds of ammunition with which they think the cargoes were protected also were in the hands of officers.

Dr. and Mrs. Spencer Entertain at Salisbury Post.

Dinner.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Spencer entertained last evening at an elaborate and wonderfully beautiful dinner at their home on South Fulton street in compliment to Miss Lulia Belle Paris and Robert Heindel Scott and their bridal attendants. The home which lends itself perfectly to lavish entertaining, was adorned on this occasion with immense vases of pink blossoms, bridal wreath, jonquils, tulips and other spring flowers.

Mrs. Spencer wore a handsome gown of white satin embroidered with moonstone beads and carried a fan of Spanish red ostrich. Miss Paris was charming in sunset taffeta with full skirt trimmed with cabochons of taffeta ruchings. The neck was outlined in the back with a broad band which hung loose in front and extended to the bottom of the dress. Gold kid slippers completed the costume. She wore a sapphire and diamond bracelet, the gift of the bridegroom.

The guests who numbered about sixty and included members of the bridal party and additional friends and relatives were seated at dinner in both the dining room and the coffee room adjoining it. The bride's table was an exquisite arrangement in pink and yellow, and it was lighted, as was the entire room, entirely with yellow and pink candles. Leotards of pink and yellow tulle hung from the chandeliers to the table corners where they were attached with bows to silver candlesticks.

The bride's chair was tied with a huge tulle bow and an artistic bouquet of sweet peas, orange blossoms and rosebuds. A lace cloth covered the table and the flowers were combined with pink, flowering amaranth and narcissus. Oblong pink baskets filled with salted nuts and silver compotes of bon bons were placed for each guest. The tables in the coffee room were similarly appointed and adorned. A delicious dinner was served.

Later the guests went to the drawing room where a program of dances and music was given. Little Miss Canille, daughter of Charlotte, Miss Elizabeth Miller, Leotards of Lucille Urbansky charmed everyone with their dancing, while Mrs. Lillian Rozelle was warmly applauded for her singing. Mrs. Frederick Spencer graciously gave two delightful readings and Mrs. John L. Readleman was prevailed on to sing in a duet from "Maytime" with Mrs. Rozelle.

The bride-elect, who has a most appealing soprano voice, sang a group of charming songs which pleased everyone. Miss Julia West of Marion, Mrs. Robert M. Burd and Mrs. William Urbansky played accompaniments.

At nine o'clock the bridal party went to the First Methodist Church to rehearse for the wedding which is to take place at seven o'clock this evening and will be followed immediately by a brilliant reception at the home of the bride's parents on South Main street.
