"Thunderbolt" at Kerr Street Baptist Revival Sunday.

Sunday was a red letter day at the Kerr Street Baptist Church. The Sunday School was larger than it had been in three months, and the congregations were the largest they have been during the meeting. The Spirit of God was present and manifested Himself before the preaching ever preached. God's people praised God in the old time way. The singing was filled with the Spirit, and everyone was carried heavenward. Mr. Clark, leading the singing, and Miss Avia Sears at the piano, were at their best.

Mr. Hearne, the evangelist, preached soul-stirring sermons Saturday night, Sunday morning and Sunday night. "Thunderbolt Tom" is doing some fine preaching. You should hear him if you have not been coming.

The evangelist used for a subject Saturday night, "God Speaking to Men." He said that we listen when man speaks, when the law speaks; but we fail to listen to God when He speaks. Sunday morning his subject was: "The Light of God's Word;" and Sunday night, "When the Judges Rule." Before the preaching ever preached. God's people praised God in the old time way. The singing was filled with the Spirit, and everyone was carried heavenward. Mr. Clark, leading the singing, and Miss Avia Sears at the piano, were at their best.

This family of four lived up in Bethlehem of Judea and we are told that there was a famine in that land. The Judges ruled. Did you ever see a church where the judges ruled that there was not a famine of spirituality in that church? When the judges rule the church is ruined. The judges of the church can judge every song, every prayer, every one that says, every one that shouts, and they are the judges of the sermons. They know just when the preacher has preached just right.

Well, this family of four said, we will just go down into Moab and the famine or we will just leave the church and get away from the bosses. What they should have done was to kicked the judges out and stuck to the church. Listen! You can quit the church, but the singing will go on just the same. The preaching will go on just the same, and the pastor will get his pay just the same. God takes care of His church and his men. This man went down into Moab and stayed ten years. But listen, he paid for every day he stayed. You can turn your back on the church, but God will get His pay. Things don't go out of date with God. Service tonight at 7:45. Mr. Hearne's subject will be "Getting Married." Come. PASTOR.

News and Views of Women

Producer Picks College Beauty. Wichita, Kans.—Even the colleges seem impressed by motion picture standards. The University of Wichita asked Cecil B. DeMille, motion picture producer, to be final arbiter in a beauty contest conducted among the co-eds, by "Parnassus," the college annual.

Local artists chose seven girls and DeMille picked Catherine Wallace, a junior, who has won other beauty contests too.

Women Invest Ably Says Finance Expert. New York—Women's new freedom and economic independence are causing Wall Street bankers to revise their notions on the suitability of investments for the weaker sex, according to Merryle Stanley Ruker, of Columbia University, writer on finance and economics and author of "The Common Sense of Money and Investments."

The new appreciation of the capacity of women to discriminate in financial matters, says Ruker, "results in part from the recent success of women in banking. Before the war, several large Eastern banks had a flat rule against employing women as stenographers. Today women hold every position in banks, from runner to president. The number of American bank women is 40,000 of which 2,100 hold executive posts."

"One of the large Eastern insurance companies recently made a survey of how women beneficiaries invest insurance funds and to its surprise, found that the women were not suckers, but on the whole showed skill in safeguarding their funds by able investments."

Lost College Place But Won the Vote. London—Miss Dorothy Woodman, secretary of the "Young Suffragists," lost her place in college because of her activity in the suffragist movement, but she does not regret this now, that the struggle to get votes for British women under 30 years is successfully over.

Miss Woodman was "sent down" for spending too much time talking at street corner meetings and in the provinces. "We asked Mr. Baldwin to be a hare, not a tortoise," she once said. For several weeks the society sent daily letters to the prime minister in order to obtain his support.

Paris Dressmakers Pay Saleswomen Well. Paris—Head saleswomen of large dressmaking houses probably receive the highest pay of any class of women in France. A recent procession for theft of models by one dressmaker, disclosed the fact that the head saleswoman was paid $6,000 a year in commissions and salary.

A French cabinet minister receives less than half that amount annually. Sewing women receive low pay, however. Beginners start as low as three dollars a week.

A PROTEST

Mr. Editor: May I, through your columns, call to the notice of the proper authorities, if any, what has gotten to be a serious nuisance and a dangerous practice. That which I refer to is the use of the street by the buses for a station. It is a decided nuisance because it often happens that they cannot get up to the curb and stop out in the middle of the street, often taking up two-thirds of the drive-way, for a considerable length of time, making it impossible for even a single car to pass in either direction. Then the soundbuss practice the dangerous, (if not unlawful) habit of driving across to the wrong side to get up to the curb which they are seldom able to do and stop with the car standing almost completely across the street, then to get away they again drive in an unlawful way across the street, endangering lives and other peoples' property and the drivers and attendants are never any too considerate of others; it is get out of the way or be crushed. The drivers invariably break the speed laws every time they enter the town often forcing other drivers to take to the sidewalks for their lives. I saw this happen just yesterday. As the buses only have exit doors on the right side, (which would be very bad if one ever turned over on the right side and caught fire, which sometimes happens) when the south-bound ones unload they are compelled the dump their passengers, old ladies and all out into the middle of the street and busy automobile traffic which I think is the limit in consideration; the attendants never offering to add those that need it. It is nothing short of a miracle that there has not been a number of serious accidents for this unreasonable abuse of privileges and the streets. Someone with or without proper authority has reserved a considerable portion of the best, busiest street for them to load and unload, but they are not satisfied with that, they often keep cars parked in this exclusive area for hours, besides using the sidewalk for a baggage room again endangering passers by trunks being removed from the top of buses. Why is the city so very considerate of this outside concern from whom they do not get a nickel in revenue? Why drive home taxpayers off the street to accommodate this privately owned money-making company? They should be, (and will in time) forced to get a place where they can drive in off the streets to load and unload. The railroad would not be permitted to use the public property for private business and they are much more of an asset to a community than any bus line. Their schedules are not over-taken by a little snow. In other words and the language of the streets the buses are making a sucker of the city. Some time ago I made quite an extensive trip in California, in buses, and in every town no matter how small, they had to drive in off the streets to load. At this time there are numerous convenient places the buses can secure for a station and it is high time they were forced to give back the street to the citizens and legitimate uses. Yours very truly, CITIZEN.

"Our Own Home". The family that can fondly refer to "our own home" has something to be proud of. And they wouldn't go back to "living in rent,"—just ask them. You can come into home ownership on the "installment plan" and you have this advantage over most installment plans. The home is usually worth more when it is all paid for than it was in the beginning. Few other investments have this big advantage, and no other investment yields quite such dividends in family happiness. New Series will open Saturday MAY SEVENTH, Nineteen Twenty-Seven. START NOW.
