LIST-TAKERS AND ASSESSORS READY FOR THEIR WORK

Public Today.

assess the value in all parts of the city."

The list-takers began their duties this morning, Mr., Miller said, and they must have their work completed by June first.

Mr. Miller explained that property owners are expected to make their returns as usual this year. "The law says that the assessors shall place a value on all property," he explained, "but just the same we want ail property owners to put a value on their property when they make their return. Such a plan will give the assessors something to work ou, and also will give the assessors an idea of how property is now valued, as we presume the owners will put the same value on their property this year as they have in the past, except in cases where improvements and changes have been made."

The returns submitted by the property of the Bank at Midland, who was charged with setting the bank building.

erty owners will be turned over to the assessors, it was explained, and they will check over them before the ther will check over them before the final valuation is made. The assessors in most instances will decide what the value of the property will be but Mr. Miller predicts that the assessors' valuation in many instances will cor-respond with the valuation given by the property owners, where the own-ers have been paying anything like an equitable tax in the past.

in the State prison.

Sentence will be passed on Mr.

Blakeney Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'lock by Judge Michael Schenck, of leudersonville, presiding. Mr. Blakeney is at liberty under $10,000 te galled for trial Wednesday. The State introduced several witnesses who testifued that the fire was noticed early in the morning of April S and that the entire inside of the building was iffame a few minutes after the fire was first noticed. It was brought out that the floor of the bank had been nearly oiled with turnentine and cylinder oil a few days prior to the tire and that an oil can was noticed in the ruins of the bank building. The State introduced an auditor who testified that the bank showed a deficit of approximately $1,300 and a shortage of approximately $2,300. The State contended that the bank was fired in an effort to cover the shortage.

was fired in an effort to cover the shortage.
Several witnesses were introduced by the State who testified that after Blakeney was taken to his home they made an examination of his head but did not feel a hump or knot on it where le said there was one.

The defense, contended that the defendent was in the bank at work and heard noises but when he investigated he found no one. The defendent on the stand testified that after making a search and not finding anyone he resumed his work, and said that he then became unconscious, his next sensation was one of feeling heat and he recognized a man in the car in which he was being taken home.
