SEEN ABOUT New York

New York—Spectators at murder trials, it develops, include theatrical producers and other stage people, looking for dramatic ideas, and society folk, presumably looking for something to break their routine.

Also the metropolitan newspapers, like the vanguard stage, enlist "big names" for special assignments. A prominent preacher, a philosopher, a novelist and other widely known writers were hired to report the most recent proceedings of public interest.

Prudent remark heard on a side street during a well advertised murder trial: "Sure, I know him well. Didn't I lay brick on his hide?"

No sooner had he said it, however, when a plate broke into inflammable pieces. The crowd laughed, but he was equal to the occasion, shouting: "You see, that is what happens when ordinary stuff falls."

Hundreds of Giant "fans" haven't missed a home game for years, and yet they have never passed through the turnstiles at the Polo Grounds.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By EDSON H. WAITE

J. S. Parks, president of the Fort Smith, Arkansas, Times-Record Company, says:

That the best story I have read in a long time on the subject of thinking was the bulletin issued a few years ago by the American Educational Association of Philadelphia. As I recall it, it was about as follows:

Smith was a track-walker. He inspected the roadbed. He had to think about ties, rails, joints, nuts, bolts and frogs. If he did not think about his work something would go wrong.

Now if Jim, the track-walker, had stopped thinking about his work the thinking of the general manager could not have prevented an accident. If Williams, the general manager, had stopped thinking about his work the thinking of the track-walker could not have provided the payroll.

So it is in any business. Each part of an organization depends upon the thinking of all departments. Everybody has to think.

Summarized, it means that the think-tank is as important as the water-tank.

SECOND LIBERTY LOAN BONDS TO BE PAID-OR EXCHANGED

Mellon Calls Second Liberty Loan Bonds For Payment November 15, 1927.

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Secretary Mellon has called for payment on November 15, 1927, all outstanding Second Liberty Loan bonds interest on these bonds will cease on November 15, 1927. Approximately $1,700,000,000 of these bonds are now outstanding.

While the bonds will be paid on November 15, 1927, it is quite probable that during the next six months the Treasury will extend to the holders of the Second Liberty Loan bonds an opportunity to exchange them for other Government securities.

No announcement has as yet been made as to the type of security to be offered in exchange, or the date on which the exchange offer may be expected. The Treasury explains that the terms of the bonds require that a notice be given to the public six months in advance of the redemption date. The Secretary's announcement, therefore, does not mean that the bonds will be paid at the present time, but merely places the holders on notice that their bonds will be redeemed on November 15, and will cease to bear interest on that date.

If holders of Second Liberties desire to have their bonds redeemed, they should present them for payment on November 15, 1927, but if they desire other Government obligations in place of their Second, they should watch for further announcement and notify their bank to keep them informed of any change of offering, that may later be made by the Treasury.

To provide instruction in modern methods of agriculture in Salvador, which embraces some of the richest agricultural lands in Central America, agricultural schools will be established by executive decree, throughout the Republic.

They will be operated in connection with the public schools, and are to have sufficient land for practical instruction and demonstration. Courses include the use of modern machinery, cattle raising, vegetable cultivation, tree culture, use of fertilizers, and crop rotation.

State participation in the cost of public education varies from 76.1 per cent in Delaware to 1.6 per cent in Kansas, as shown by Bulletin No. 22, 1926, published by the Bureau of Education, Interior Department. For the United States as a whole approximately three-fourths of the total cost is borne by local school units.
