

Sea And Land Give No Answer To Efforts To Find Missing Airmen

No Definite Word Yet Received From French Airmen Who Failed in Attempt to Cross Atlantic.

VESSLS WATCH FOR AVIATORS
Every Possible Effort Made to Learn of French Heroes' Fate But Nothing Has Been Heard.

(By the Associated Press)
The sea and land gave no answer today to the incessant calls for word of the missing airmen, Captains Nungesser and Gollé.

The White Bird was forty-four anxious hours overdue at New York at 11 o'clock this morning on her flight from Paris, and was last seen heading northwest off Kilrush, Ireland, Sunday morning.

Naval vessels are searching the sea of New England and the Nova Scotia waters, while the French government has a fleet of destroyers heading westward in a search for the French ace.

Paris was steeped in gloom and despondency today. The bitterness expressed by some against Americans because of the reports that the United States might have been notified of the whereabouts of the missing airmen.

The purpose of the new step is not to create more credit necessarily but to apply a more efficient administration to the existing machinery.

The aviators had a food supply calculated to last them a little over ten days, largely caviar and bananas.

Captain St. Roman and Commander Monneyres, two other French flyers, have been missing since last Thursday when they hopped off from St. Louis, Senegal, for Pernambuco, Brazil.

DEATH LIST FROM TORNADES STILL MOUNTING UPWARD

It Is Known That 228 Were Killed in Several States Visited by Tornadoes the First of Week.

RESCUE CREWS FINDING MORE
Removal of the Debris in Arkansas and Missouri Leads to Finding of More Dead Bodies.

Kansas City, Mo., May 11.—(AP)—Prospects of a steadily increasing death list in the huge checkerboard scooped out of the middle west by a series of tornadoes and storms in which at least 228 persons perished and more than 900 were injured, today added to the trial of relief workers.

While casualty lists in Texas, Illinois, Kansas and Louisiana showed little change, debris of razed communities in Missouri and Arkansas yielded more bodies last night, and several injured died in hospitals.

Physicians reported that more than a score of injured in Missouri and Arkansas had little chance to live. This, coupled with failure to establish communication with several villages since the tornadoes struck on Monday, caused relief agencies to estimate that the dead would total approximately 250.

Casualty reports for the three-day western storm period corrected to date showed:
Missouri, 95 dead, 400 injured.
Arkansas, 68 dead, 350 injured.
Texas, 35 dead, 100 injured.
Illinois, 13 dead, 35 injured.
Kansas, 10 dead, 49 injured.
Louisiana, three dead.
Wyoming, three dead.
Iowa, one dead.
Totals: 225 dead, 925 injured.

Relief was placed on an emergency basis at Poplar Bluff, Mo., where 80 of the 95 killed in Missouri met death. As few restaurants remained it was necessary to supply food as well as to solve hospital and salvage problems.

Weather observers found little to connect the series of freak storms that started in Kansas Saturday, swooped down on northern Texas early Monday morning and then skipped through Arkansas and Missouri and finally appeared in Illinois.

WANTS EVERY PAROLED MAN TO HAVE A JOB
State Has a Duty to the Men Paroled as Well as to Society.

Edwin W. Bridges, newly appointed commissioner of pardons and paroles, is of the decided opinion that this is the case, and has already set about the task of assisting released and paroled prisoners after they have been released from prison.

Paroled men have been commissioner of pardons and paroles, I am already firmly of the opinion that it is an injustice for the State to parole a prisoner, or even to release him from prison, unless assurance is given that the prisoner when released can make an adequate living for himself and his family.

Further Breaks Along Louisiana Levees Are Expected Hourly Now

The Fight Against Water Has Not Been Given Up However, and Levees Are Being Strengthened

CANE LAND IS NOW AT STAKE
If Levees at Bayou Des Glaisses Give Way Richest Cane Land in Country Will Be Flooded.

NEW ORLEANS, May 11.—(AP)—The levees at the Bayou des Glaisses, eight miles north of New Orleans, were expected to collapse at any time today, allowing a rush of muddy water across thousands of acres of the most fertile soil in the state, flooding many sugar houses, and driving additional thousands from their homes to relief camps.

A rescue fleet already has been mobilized in the zone, danger of loss of life has been reduced, and in all probability a toll similar to that taken in Arkansas and Mississippi would be averted.

With Vidalia, La., inundated from a break in the protection levee which held back the backwaters from the four breaks in lower Concorville, northeastern Louisiana was under water.

All precautions have been taken at Vidalia and loss of property will be great. Many citizens moved their household goods to high ground more than two weeks ago.

The crests of two floods were moving toward Old River today, one formed from waters in breaks in the Arkansas levees, and the other of the torrents pouring through the Teche and Winter Quarters crevasses in northeastern Louisiana.
