adopted to be worn by the class next year.

One of the most enthusiastic elections ever held by the class of '28 marked the high degree of interest manifested by its members. Ten men received nominations for the presidency, all of whom are outstanding members of the class. However, C. A. Ridenhour, better known as "Peanut, was considered by a majority to be the best fitted for the presidency of the class.

Hids on the senior blazer for next year were opened before the class by C. Z. Bailey, chairman of the blazer committee, and the contract award-watch.
