About seventy-five guests called during the hours of three to six o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sedberry and son, Henry Cobb, are residing at 242 North Church street.

NORMA TALMADGE NOT DIVORCING

Screen Star Taking Apartment in Paris With Fanny Brice For Needed Rest.

Paris, June 18.—Norma Talmadge has become a puzzle to the rest of the transplanted Hollywood and Broadway colonies summering in Paris, who cannot imagine a woman coming along to Paris except for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

The screen actress insists she is proud of her record of being the only woman of importance in Hollywood who has never been divorced and has lived with the same man nine years.

Joseph Schenck is quite satisfied with her. "If you find me a better husband than Mr. Schenck, I'll consider him," Norman said. "But I haven't the slightest intention of changing now."

Paris divorce lawyers, who think the terms American movie actresses and divorce are synonymous, have been trailing Miss Talmadge around, but she has led them only to the dressmakers.

With Fanny Brice. Norma intends to take an apartment with Fanny Brice, both of whom say they are tired out and need a rest. She also plans to visit Anita Loos at Carbad providing the clever young author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" guarantees her a good game of golf.

After that Miss Talmadge will return to the United States, leaving in time to attend the August racing at Saratoga Springs, after which she will begin work on her next picture, "A Woman Disputed."

Jack Pickford, who has just arrived to get a "friendly divorce" from Marilyn Miller, has been spotted by the divorce lawyers, who will offer each other keen competition to make what they consider a prize catch.

Agnes Ayres Waiting. Then there is Agnes Ayres, also of Hollywood, who needs to wait only a few days more to establish her legal residence to obtain her divorce from Manuel Reachim, Mexican millionaire. She said Reachim "cramps my style." After being freed she hopes to return to Hollywood and surpass her successful screen partner, Rudolph Valentino in "The Sheik" and "The Son of the Sheik."

Edna Ferber, wandering about the Latin Quarter, announced she intends to return to New York soon to watch rehearsals of her play, "The Royal Family," to be produced by Jed Harris, whom she referred to as "one of the theater's geniuses, the successor of Charles Froeman."

An Unfreed Minister. Charlotte Observer. Rev. Dr. Edwin Smith has been cast out of the ministry of the Evangelical Lutheran Church. He had resigned as pastor of the Lutheran Memorial Church, at Pittsburg, and had accepted pastorage of the First Unitarian Church in the same city, after the protests which had been aroused over his expressed beliefs. He had been cited before the church for his open assaults against the Virgin birth, against the miraculous blood atonement and the bodily resurrection of Christ. The verdict of guilty—he was convicted of heresy—was 233 to 0, and on sentence of expulsion it was 231 to 0. This is the first case of the kind in the history of the Lutheran Church in this country, but the Pittsburgh Synod is being praised by Doctor Knobel, president of the United Lutheran Church of America, for having "upheld the faith of the Church."

Interdenominational Prayer. A Protestant minister, a Catholic priest and a Jewish rabbi have operated in forming an interdenominational prayer acknowledging the common fatherhood of God. The authors are Rev. James Baker, pastor of the Trinity M. E. church, Rev. John O'Brien, pastor of St. John's Catholic church, and Rabbi Benjamin Frankel, all of Urbana, Ill. The prayer follows:

"Almighty God, who are members of different races and faiths, desire together Thy fatherhood and our kinship with each other. In our difference we find that many of our hopes, our fears, our aspirations are one. Thou art our Father and we are Thy children. We are heartily sorry for the misdeeds of fear, envy, hatred, suspicion and greed which have blinded our eyes and thrust us asunder. May the light that comes from Thee scatter these mists, cleanse our hearts and give health to our spirits, teach us to put away all bitterness and walk together in the ways of human friendship, open our eyes to see as nature abounds in variation, so differences in human beings make for richness in the common life. May we give honor where honor is due—regardless of race, color or circumstances. Deepen our respect for unlikeliness, and our eagerness to understand one another. Through the deeper unities of the spirit in sympathy, insight and co-operation may we transcend our differences. May we gladly share with each other our best gifts and together seek for a human world fashioned in good under Thy guidance. Amen."

Supply Pastor of New Gilead Reformed Church. Geo. A. Creitz, son of Rev. Dr. Chas. Creitz, pastor of St. Paul's Reformed Church, Reading, Pa., arrived in Concord this week to become supply pastor of the New Gilead Reformed Church in No. 3 township. He is located temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Peck on North Church street.

Mr. Creitz is sent by the Country Life Department of the Board of Home Missions to spend three months in the Gilead charge as preacher, and to make a survey of the Gilead charge, the Bear Creek charge and Albemarle.

Mr. Creitz is a theological student, having completed his first year in the Theological Seminary at Danvers, Pa. Mr. Creitz will hold his first service in New Gilead tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. After the services the officers of the church will announce the program of services for the summer months.

THE DOG

The dog is man's most faithful friend His love for him don't sverve nor head.

But lingers steadfast, fixed and true Through any luck that may ensue. He may be just a mongrel cur With trusting eyes and yellow fur. A stubby tail and limpy stride Yet be wital a prince inside.

He does not flatter with the stroke That leaves his master flabby broke Bereft of fortune, future, friends; A dog's affections don't depend On tinsel trifles of the eye Another's money well could buy. But on the man, without display Of aught to glorify his way.

He shares a home upon the road As gratefully as rich abode, And guards the vagabond's poor bed As zealously as kingly head. The dog reveals his love for man In every way a dumb brute can; He rubs his hand and licks his boot And barks affection in salute.

He tolerates his kicks and blows As sunshine tolerates the rose; And in his heart finds good excuse To exculpate him from abuse And if the man depart this sphere And seeks his grave and lays his head In sorrow on his buried dead.

His dumb devotion knows no art, So springs unbidden from the heart To bless and gladden those who jog Attended by the faithful dog. I. A. Kimble, in Hoard's Dairyman.

"Father, you have been doing business so long with all kinds of tricks and deceit that you must have realized that such a method does not get you anywhere. Let's modernize the firm. From now on let's be strictly honest."

"Now, son, with my 75 years I am not going to start any neck-breaking experiments."

TRIBUTE TO MRS. IDA R. MILLS

Death has again invaded the ranks of the Cabarrus Chapter of American War Mothers and has taken from our midst our beloved friend and co-worker, Mrs. Ida R. Mills, who after fourteen months of illness was called to her eternal home May 24th, 1927.

Mrs. Mills was a loyal member of the War Mothers and was active in church work for many years. She was a great sufferer but so patient and submissive through her extended illness that her life is a sweet example to us who are left. She had a sweet and lovable disposition and will be sadly missed by a host of friends.

Therefore, be it resolved: First: That while we are sad and deeply grieved at the passing of our dear friend, we realize our loss is her gain.

Second: That we extend to her family our sincere sympathy and pray God's richest blessings upon them.

Third: That a copy of these resolutions be placed in our minutes and a copy be sent to the family.

MRS. W. S. BINGHAM, MRS. W. J. GLASS, MRS. J. E. SMOOT, Committee.

King Lilies Egg Plant

London, (A.P.)—King Lilies shown a liking for fried egg plant which is seemingly shared by all of the Royal family. Nothing was more amusing than to see the King and Queen at the Flower Show with the Queen other day, the King remarked: "Ah, an egg plant! They are so good. Cut them up in thin slices and fry them. We always have them."

In polo the ball is made of wood and weighs not more than one and one-half ounces. The mallets made with wooden heads and handles.
