Fishing License No Permit to Trespass

Monroe Enquirer. One day last week a farmer asked me if a man taking out license to fish or hunt could go on another's land without permission to fish or kill birds?

Not professing to know much law I told the farmer no one had any right to trespass upon his property no matter how many state or county licenses he might have on his person. In other words, "a man's home is his castle" and that domain extends to his real estate holdings.

Right now many farmers are "posting" their lands against trespassers. The State of North Carolina considers every man's land to be inviolate, and no one has the right to overgun another's property for any purpose whatsoever.

Corner-Stone of Presbyterian Church To Be Laid This Afternoon

Appropriate exercises for the laying of the corner-stone of the new First Presbyterian Church will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The corner-stone of the old Church Building on West Depot Street will be opened this afternoon at four o'clock, it has been announced.

The Washburn Club of Ypsilanti will be host to this year's tournament for the Michigan amateur golf championship. The dates fixed for the event are July 7 to 30.

CONRAD-ROBERTS

Miss Roberts Wed to Lexington Man in Beautiful Home Ceremony. A marriage characterized by beautiful simplicity, and of interest to a wide circle of friends and relatives was that of Miss Dorothy Roberts and Alton Bruce Conrad, of Lexington, which was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberts.

The ceremony of the Lutheran Church was used, it being performed by Rev. M. L. Kester, pastor of the bride. Only relatives and a few close friends witnessed the ceremony.

In the living room, where the vows were spoken, an altar was erected, beautiful ferns and daisies forming the background. In graduated baskets daisies were used as decorations throughout the room. Silver candelabra holding burning white tapers were used back of the altar and cast a soft glow over the lovely scene.

Miss Mary Ridehour was the first to enter the room. She presided at the piano and rendered beautiful and appropriate pre-nuptial music. She wore a lovely blue georgette dress made with Venetian lace, with a large picture hat to match. She wore a shoulder corsage of sweet peas and valley lilies. Next to enter the room was Samuel Sox, of Hickory, who sang "I Love You Truly." Miss Virginia Moser then sang "Until" and "O Promise Me." Miss Moser was gowned in an exquisite pink of the noon frock fashioned on straight lines and she wore a large picture of black and white. Her corsage was of lavender sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was used as a processional and that of Mendelssohn was used for recessional. During the ceremony MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was rendered.

The bride and groom entered the room together. Miss Roberts was never more lovely than in her wedding gown of pink chiffon with side draperies of oriental lace made period style. With this she wore a large picture hat to match. Her slippers were of satin with rhinestone buckles. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses showered with valley lilies. Mrs. Roberts, mother of the bride, wore a charming dress of soft blue chiffon with taffeta trimmings.

After the ceremony, an informal reception was held in the hall. Mrs. Chalmers Hutchins, of Lexington, presided over the punch bowl, which was placed here.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad left for a motor trip to Western North Carolina. The bride's going away suit was a dark blue georgette with tan accessories.

Mrs. Conrad is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberts, of this city. She is one of Concord's prettiest and most attractive girls. She is an accomplished young woman, having received her education at Lenoir-Rhyne College, Hickory. For some time she has held a responsible position with the Reid Motor Company. Mr. Conrad, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Conrad, of Lexington. He is a young man of strong business ability, holding a position with the Dixie Furniture Co., of Lexington. He received his education at Oak Ridge Institute, Lenoir-Rhyne College and the University of North Carolina. After their wedding trip they will make their home in Lexington.

The out-of-town guests here for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Conrad, Miss Virginia Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Hutchins, Mrs. Cora Hedrick, of Lexington, Samuel Sox, of Hickory, Miss Leona Broome, Lenoir-Rhyne College, Hickory. Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Godfrey, and Miss Mildred Godfrey, of Spencer, and Frank Lipe of Landis, and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bostian.

The following announcements have been issued: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberts announce the marriage of their daughter Dorothy Arlene to Mr. Alton Bruce Conrad on Tuesday afternoon, June the twenty-first.

It was decided to change the time for the regular weekly meeting from Sunday afternoon to Friday night. Miss Ada Gardner will have charge of the first meeting, which will be held Friday, June 24.

After the business, the members enjoyed a social feature in the basement of the Church, where several ladies of the Church had prepared delicious refreshments. REPORTER.

ARMFIELD CROSS EXAMINES THOMASON

Concord Lawyer Fails Some Pertinent Questions to P. & N. Managers. In its report of the P. & N. hearing at Charlotte, the Observer gives the following account of the examination of General Manager Thomason by Attorney Frank Armfield, of Concord.

The witness was about to leave the witness stand, the attorneys for the opposing railroads having completed their cross-examination, when Frank Armfield, counsel for the city of Concord and Cabarrus county, halted him. Here Mr. Armfield let it be known that Concord is not at all satisfied with the route selected from Charlotte to Winston-Salem because it does not touch Concord. It also was indicated that Concord and Cabarrus, which intervened in behalf of the Piedmont and Northern, have not given up hope of ultimately getting the road to come by Concord.

Mr. Armfield asked Mr. Thomason if railroad builders did not, as a rule, try to build as nearly in a straight line as possible. This was replied to in the affirmative. Mr. Thomason said, in reply to a question, that the Gastonia-Charlotte line diverged two or three miles from the straight line, and that the contemplated line from Gastonia to Spartanburg would show a divergence.

"I ask you personally if you do not think the public convenience for the present and future would be best served should your road diverge between Kannapolis and Concord and go by Concord?" Mr. Armfield asked. The reply was in the negative. "If we should show later that 50 per cent of the mills in Concord can not have practical sidetrack facilities because the Southern Railway is considered a public convenience and necessity to build by Concord?" was the next question.

Mr. Thomason answered "No." Mr. Thomason added that if it had been "our personal views to go by Concord, after the exhaustive study we have made of the situation, we would have gone that way."

After further questioning Mr. Thomason said that the company "would go anywhere the Interstate Commerce Commission says go, and be glad to do it."

In reply to a question from Examiner Davis, the witness said that very little through freight traffic would go into the cities along the line, but would be handled around the cities. The witness explained, in reply to a question from Mr. Potter, that the street railways would be used to pick up freight in the cities and deliver to the nearest point touched by the through line.

"Better Homes House" to Be Opened June 28th. The Better Homes house being prepared for demonstration will be open to the public Tuesday, June 28th, at 3 o'clock and remain open each afternoon and evening thereafter through July 2nd.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.

When Freedom, from her mountain height, Unfurled her standard to the air, She tore the azure robe of night, And set the stars of glory there; She mingled with its gorgeous dyes The milky baldric of the skies, And striped its pure celestial white With streakings of the morning light; Then, from his mansion in the sun, She called her eagle heaver down, And gave into his mighty hand The symbol of her chosen land.

Majestic monarch of the cloud, Who rear'st aloft thy regal form, To hear the trumpet-trumpings loud, And see the lightning lances driven, When strive the warriors of the storm, And rolls the thunder-drum of heaven, Child of the sun! to thee 'tis given To guard the banner of the free, To hover in the sulphur smoke, To ward away the battle stroke, And bid its blendings shine afar, Like rainbows on the cloud of war, The harbingers of victory.

Flag of the brave! thy folds shall fly, The sign of hope and triumph, high, When speaks the signal trumpet tone, And the long line comes gleaming on; Ere yet the life-blood, warm and wet, Has dimmed the glistening bayonet, Each soldier eye shall brightly turn To whither thy sky-born glories burn, And, as thy springing steps advance, Catch word and vengeance from the glance.

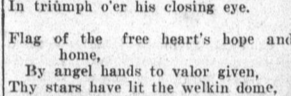

And when the cannon-mouthings loud Heave in wild wreaths the battle-shroud, And gory sabers rise and fall, Like shoots of flame on midnight's pall,— Then shall thy meteor glances glow, And covering foes shall sing beneath Each gallant arm that strikes below That lovely messenger of doom.

Flag of the seas! on ocean wave Thy stars shall glitter o'er the brave; When death, careering on the gale, Sweeps darkly round the belted sail, And frightened waves rush wildly back before the broadside's reeling rack, Each dying wanderer of the sea, Shall look at once to heaven and thee, And smile to see thy splendors fly In triumph o'er his closing eye.

Flag of the free heart's hope and home, By angel hands to valor given, Thy stars have lit the welkin dome, And all thy hues were born in heaven. Forever float that standard-sheet! Where breathes the foe but falls before us, With Freedom's soil beneath our feet, And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us? —Joseph Rodman Drake.

MRS. MISSOURI FISHER BROWN

A Tribute. In the death of Mrs. Missouri Fisher Brown this community is forcibly reminded how true is the old familiar saying: "He that would have friends must show himself friendly." Mrs. Brown probably had more friends than any other woman in the county, and was the best known. With the passing of this rare spirit, something has gone from us that can never be replaced. Her friendly smile and hearty greeting will be missed by many of us, and doubtless we shall often think: "O, for the touch of a vanished hand, and the sound of a voice that is still."

In every movement in this town and county for many years, her thought and her voice have been in behalf of better things. The Cabarrus chapter of American War Mothers again mourns the loss of another member—a faithful and devoted worker—one who was always ready and willing to do what she could for "the boys."

She has lived her life and she leaves hundreds to mourn her passing. Her going is to a better country, where the joys of this earth seem small in comparison with the abundant glory and brightness of that beautiful city whose builder and maker is God. R. M. C.
