No Love Like a Mother's.

VOL. 7.

Girls, do you know there is no such benefactor in the universe this side of God and Jesus, as a mother. She far outstrips the father in dis interestedness, in self sacrifice, and often in pain willingly taken and willingly borne. The father has his share in his way; and it is much for the chill; but who lies awake at nights? Who defers all pleasure and all business for the child? Who, when the child is sick, laps it and arms it and is as sick and suffering as the child, and more? Who at every step in earlier years, makes herself go l dess and priestess, only bowing down to her little worshipers? Who when sorrow comes, is the temple into which she runs? Who is the haven and the harbor when shipwreck thunders on the outside that pens to receive the child? And, when the child is dying-has diedwhile the father sheds tears, and goes away to wear out grief in nececssary occupations, does the bell cease to sound in the ear of the mother the child's name? And her grief for the child-is there anything that can repay that? Not here. Not on earth. Only in heaven. So then be kind and gentle and affectionate to mother. A kiss of devotion is to her like a smile from heaven. You can't imagine how it will brighten her dear face. Besides you owe her a kiss or two. Away back when you were a little girl she tempted by your fever-tainted breath and swellen face. You were not attractive then as you are new. An thaough all those years of childish squalities and shallows she was alrealy-to care, by the magic of a and ler's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured in those first skirmishes with the world And then the milnight kiss with winch she routed so many dreams, as she leaned at ove your restless piliow, have all been on interest these long years. Of course she is not so pretty and kissable as you are but if you had done your share of work during the last ten years the contrast would be so marked up. Remarkable Statement of Personal Danger and Providential Escape.

The following story-which is racting wide attention from the press is so remarkable that we cannot excuse ourselves if we do not lay it before our readers, entire.

To the Editor Rochester (N. Y.) Dem-

Sir-On the first day of June, 1881 I lay at my residence in this city surrounded by my friends and waiting for death. Heaven only knows the agony I then endured, for words an never describe it. And yet, if a few years previous, any one had told me that I was to be brought so low, and by so terrible a disease. I should have scoffed at the idea. I had always been uncommonly strong and healthy, and weighed over 200 pounds and hardly knew in my own experience, what pain or sickness were. Very many people who will read this statement realize at times that they are unusually tired, and cannot account for it. They feel dull pains in various parts of the body, and do not understand why. Or they are execedingly hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. This was just the way I felt when the relentless malaly which had fastened tself upon me first began. Still I thought nothing of it; that probsoon pass away. Shortly after this, I noticed a heavy, and at times neu ralic, pain in one side of my head ut as it would come one day and be gone the next. I paid little attention to it. Then my stomach would get out of order and my food often failed to digest, causing great inconvenienee. Yet, even as a physician, dil not think that these things meant anything serious. I fancied I was suffering from malaria and doctored myself accordingly. But got no betier. I next noticed a seculiar color and olor about the luids I was passing—also that there was large quantities one day and very little the next, and that a persistent froth and scum appeared on the surface, and a sediment settled, And yet I did not realize my danger, for, indead, seeing those symptoms continually, I finally became aconstomed to them, and my suspicion was wholly disarmed by the fact that n the land, I visited all the famed mineral springs in America, and travelled from Maine to California Still I grew worse. No two physicians agreed as to my malady. One said I was troubled with spinal irri tation; another, general debility; and so on through a list of common diseases, the symptoms of which I really had. In this way several years passed, during which time I was rapidiy growing worse. My condition had really become pitiable. The The girl of sixteen who will slight symptoms I had first expe neither sew nor do housework has no rienced were developed into terrible business to be decked out in finery and constant disorders. I continued to take it; the sickening sensation departed and I was finally able to retain food upon my stomach. In a few days I noticed a decided change for the better as also did my wife and friends-My biccoughs ceased, and I experienced less pain than formerly. I was so rejoiced that at this improved condition that, upon what I had believed but a few days before to be my dying bed, I vowed, in the presence of my family and friends, should I recover, I would both publicly and privately make known this remedy for the good of humanity, wherever and whenever I had an opportunity, and this letter is in fulfilment of that vow. My improvement was constant from that time, and in less than three months I had gained 25 pounds inflesh, became entirely free from pain, and I believe I owe my life and present condition wholly to Warner's Safe Cure, the remedy which I used. Since my recovery I have thoroughly re-investigated the subject of kidney difficulties and Bright's disease, and the truths devoloped are astounding. I therefore state, deliberately and as a physician, that which occur in America are caused by Bright's disease of the kidneys. This may sound like a rash statement, but I am prepared to fully verify it. Bright's disease has no distinctive ably I had taken a cold which would features of its own, (indeed, it often develops without any pain whatever are authorized by a physician's cer-Disease," "Apoplexy," "Paralysis," "Spinal Complaint," "Rheumatism," "Pneumonia," and other common complaints, when in reality it is from Bright's disease of the kilneys. Breaking Down.

Some men are invincible by nature. No failure can break them down But there are thousands of men of superior intellect who are deficient in this glorious gift. Which of us cannot call to mind some individual of his class, who, after battling man fully against preverse circumstances for a time, at last gave up; acknownedges himself beat, and tacitly admits that his life was a miserable failure. Many a man has thus broken down, when one more vigorous essay would have tided him over his difficulties, brought him, into smooth water, and enables him to snap his fingers triumphantly at a worl which scarcely bestowed a pitying look on him as he threw up his arms and ceased to struggle. Certain dismal moralists tell us that we should never try to cheat ourselves; that it is unwise to view the world through a rose colored glass; that our surroundings are "alla fleeting show for man's illusion given." But we mantain that it is always best to look at the bright side of things, if they have one; and if they have not, to believe that they will have, if we persistently try to light them up. This is the creed in which every boy should be educated. Let the young I belive more than one-half the deaths be taught to trust in Providence and themselves, and to fight adverse cir. cumstances to the last gasp.
