ROXBORO, N. C., FEB. 23rd, 1893. CERTAINLY, WITH PLEASURE.

THE PERSON COUNTY COURIER having come to the notice of Col. Julian S. Carr, a somewhat grandiloquent proponent of special pleading, The Courier would like to ask its esteemed correspondents a few questions:

- 1. Was the article in question written by either of the editors of the COURIER? 2. Was it written by a regular editorial contributor? 3. Was it written or inspired in the office of the COURIER? 4. Was it not written in Durham? 5. Was it not written by Mr. Carr's attorney and confidential adviser? 6. Was it not written by a lawyer who has no connection with the COURIER either as editor or as publisher? 7. Was not the COURIER, in this matter, merely a cat-paw for Mr. Carr?

The young man who presides over the editorial department of the Roxboro Review is a very sharp young man, and is also a very fresh young man. But in the above article we must say he does about the poorest lot of guess work we ever saw done in the same amount of space. Time and experience may yet learn him some things about the newspaper business that will be to his advantage—at least it is to be hoped so.

As to the article referred to above we will take pleasure in answering his questions in the order they come.

- First. It was written by one of the editors. Second. Yes. Third. Yes. Fourth. No. Fifth. It was not. Sixth. It was not. Seventh. It was not.

Before our young friend attempts to propound any more questions, we would advise him to first post himself, then perhaps he will not miss his aim so badly.

Right here we will state, for the benefit of our young friend, that no one in Durham has anything to do with the editing, managing or owning of the COURIER. It is the sole property of Noell Bros., and they are responsible for everything that goes in its columns—in or out of court.

In the future, as in the past, when the COURIER knows of a gentleman who uses his means and influence for his State, his town and the Democratic party, and desires to publish his picture in its columns it will do so. If we can stand the expense we don't see why it should trouble the Review.

Mr. J. S. Carr, we believe, is a thorough gentleman, a high toned christian man, and one whom all North Carolina should feel proud to honor. Personally, we do not know him, we published his picture and endorsed him for a place in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet because we believed him to be a good Democrat and in every respect competent. We had a right to do this, and did it without reward or the hope of reward.

A MUDDLED EDITOR.

A republican editor says: "Senator Gorman gives notice to the democrats that, by the 1st of July next, they will have to increase the revenues of the government. In other words, they will have to reform the tariff by imposing additional taxes."

This is the way that quite a number of the high tariff newspapers impose on themselves and their readers. They seem to lose sight altogether of the fact that high duties decrease customs receipts. A tariff tax may be so high as to prevent importation, or it may be high enough to reduce importations of the article on which the duty is laid. On the other hand a reduction of the same tax to the revenue point will stimulate importation and consequently swell customs receipts.

The McKinleyites do not seem to perceive this simple fact, or, if they do, they persistently ignore it. In order to raise more revenue, the democrats do not need to increase the tax on any article. All that is necessary to do is to reduce the high duties, and by that means stimulate a heavy increase in imports.

It may be necessary to restore the tax on sugar, which is purely a tax for revenue only; and it certainly will be necessary if Hawaii is to be annexed, for the sugar industry in that country is large enough to increase the sugar bounty fund to ten or fifteen millions of dollars annually—an increase that will be a heavy draft on the resources of the people's treasury.

A tariff for revenue only is a much simpler affair than the McKinleyites imagine. It is sure to satisfy and please the people. The only trouble is that it will not be put in operation as promptly as the tax-ridden public desires.—Atlanta Constitution

LOOKS LIKE ANNEXATION.

The last advices from Hawaii represent the annexation sentiment as growing, and report the deposed queen as fully confident that her "envoys" to the United States would meet with a favorable reception. Lili'uokalani what she was doing when after a little kicking she yielded to the persuasive eloquence of the "revolutionists" and retired to her country residence. It was no doubt understood that she and her daughter would be amply provided for and receive a substantial quid pro quo for a surrender of their claims present or prospective. The men who put up this job managed it a great deal better for her than she could have done it for herself, for with $20,000 a year for life, in a country like Hawaii, she can live in royal style and escape the worry of trying to live well and run a government never very flush of cash. If she had done the trading herself we think she would have considered herself lucky if she had got half the price she and her daughter will get, if the treaty be ratified.—Wilmington Star.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

Bills introduced which is of interest to the State at large.

SENATE.

On Motion of Senator Leach, the bill in relation to the monument to the soldiers and sailors of the late Confederacy now in course of erection at Richmond, was called up and passed its second and third readings.

A bill in regard to rape and assault with intent to commit rape, passed its second and third readings.

Resolution providing for the adjournment of the Legislature March 4th passed its several readings.

Bill to amend section 3320 and other sections of the Code, in regard to the public printing, giving the committee power to let the public printing at a lower rate than that laid down in the Code, passed third reading.

Bill concerning certain sheriff's deeds in Stokes county passed third reading.

Bill for the support and improvement of the soldier's home, appropriating $5,000 annually, provided that it shall not be drawn unless needed; also the sum of $10,000 for the building of a hospital, not more than $5,000 of the amount to be expended annually. The bill was amended so as to make $10,000 for the hospital, $3,000 instead, $2,000 the first year, and $1,000 the next. The bill then passed third reading.

HOUSE.

House bill 366, for the relief of the clerks of the Superior Courts. The question was on the substitute offered by the committee, which permits the Clerks to be absent thirty days consecutively to attend the Columbian Exposition; they to leave their offices in charge of competent persons, who are invested with power to make probates, etc. The bill passed its several readings and was ordered to be engrossed.

Mr. Vance, of Buncombe, by consent introduced a bill for the relief of the State Alliance, to permit stockholders an opportunity to secure their investments. The bill passed the second reading, and on going to the third reading, Mr. Vance of Buncombe, demanded the previous question, and under that rule the bill passed its third reading and was ordered to be sent to the Senate without engrossment.

House bill 177, to protect prisoners in jail charged with crime—intended to prevent breaking into jail with intent to kill prisoners, passed and was ordered to be engrossed.

On motion of Mr. Vance, of Buncombe, house bill 1004, to incorporate the North Carolina State Alliance and sub-alliances under the name of the North Carolina State Farmers' Alliance was brought up.

The chief occupation of the members of the alliance should be farming. The present alliance may adopt the new act of incorporation. State and county alliances may adopt the new charter.

Under the action of the previous question the bill passed its second reading and then its third reading by a vote of ayes 53, nays 27, and was ordered to be sent to the Senate without engrossment.

Tribute of Respect.

As I entered the school room Feb. 2nd, the sad news came to me that Miss Mollie Harris died yesterday. As I thought of this, I realized more fully than ever, that Christ's Kingdom on earth has lost one of its most earnest and pious saints, but earth's loss was heaven's gain. We know she is gone! but what does it mean? It means to us that one of our best neighbors has left us; it means to her church, that it has lost a brilliant member, an excellent singer; it means to her relations, that a sister, yea, such a sister that is seldom given to make bright a home, has been waited on by the angel messengers and borne, by them, to her home on high, to give reality to religion, and to make heaven a place to be desired. Miss Mollie lived near Hurdle's Mill, and in her early years became a christian, and joined the Baptist church. As to her early life and home, I will leave that to those who knew her in her girlhood. It was my privilege to know her in her latter days, when her many graces had ripened into maturity. Surely, I can say as a christian friend I loved her dearly.

Bereaved ones, your friends and hers mourn with you, but the true sympathizer is the One who died on Calvary, and who will lead you through the gloom of your afflictions to the green pastures of Divine comfort and peace, if you will only look to Him and trust Him. God sent His messenger, and that messenger found her waiting. She has left the scene of suffering for a habitation in the skies. Not only her church has sustained a great loss, but the whole community, for surely she was one of the best of women.

Well may it be said of her that the world was made better by her having lived in it. I write this sketch with unspoken sadness. But why should we grieve for one whose life was so pure and good? She has only gone from us to her reward, and we too shall follow soon. And so let us not grieve for her, but rather rejoice because the power of sovereign grace enabled her to live so well and die so triumphantly; rejoice because it is our privilege to live in the service of the Master and to be ready for Him when He calls for us.

Be ye also ready for in an hour when ye think not the Son of man cometh. May God bless all her sorrowing relations and friends, and grant to us all a happy meeting with our departed sister. HATTIE F. AI, N. C.

The First Law of Nature.

This self-preservation is acknowledged to be, and people who adopt against the encroachments of disease a genuine medicinal safeguard accredited by experience and the sanction of physicians, afford a happy illustration of the wisdom of the saying in the health they restore and continue to enjoy. Among maladies against the growth of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters affords efficient protection, disease of the kidneys and bladder are fraught with the utmost peril and exhibit great obstinacy when opposed by ordinary means. The Bitters can and will subdue them. No testimony is stronger than this. Used at the outset and persistently, the best result may be expected. This medicine also eradicates liver complaint, constipation, dyspepsia, malaria, rheumatism and nervousness.

Acquitted of Murder.

DANVILLE, Va., Feb. 17.—The case of J. T. Clark, indicted of murder of Rev. J. R. Moffitt was concluded in the Hastings Court today after ten days trial. The jury which was brought here from Lynchburg to try the case, rendered a verdict of manslaughter fixed the punishment at five years in the penitentiary. Moffitt having been a prohibition leader it has been charged in the church and prohibition papers that his murder was the result of conspiracy. Counsel was employed by friends of the deceased to assist the prosecution. Counsel on both sides said in their speeches that nothing in the evidence showed any conspiracy and that it was merely a personal matter. It was only a fight between the two men in which one was killed.

Hood's Cures.

In saying that Hood's Sarsaparilla cures, its proprietors make no idle or extravagant claim. Statements from thousands of reliable people of what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for them, conclusively prove the fact—HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA CURES.

Hood's Pills act especially upon the liver, rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

T. W. Wood & Sons' Seeds
