COLD, CRUEL WINTER.

EXPOSED TO THE WIND, THE TEMPERATURE
FELL TO 20 DEGREES BELOW ZERO.

MERCURY FAR BELOW ZERO
A British ship, the Albatross, from Blank Bay to the Cape, on the 10th inst., reported the temperature at the Cape to be 20 degrees below zero. This is the lowest temperature recorded in the Cape region since the discovery of the Cape.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 7.—Washington experienced a heavy snow storm today with gusts of wind, reminiscent of the blizzard of 1888. This morning the thermometer registered five degrees above and there was a slight rise during the day. The weather bureau predicts a fall to five degrees below zero by tomorrow morning and that the snow will continue.

The Potomac freeze, and it is feared that the thaw will cause a flood. Fevers are also expected on the long bridge, Washington's bridge of communication with the South, will be closed again. The district commissioners will not be able to approach the bridge until the river has opened.

HIGHEST OF ALL IN LEAVENING POWER.—LATEST U. S. GOV'T REPORT

A BIG CORN CROP IN THE SOUTH IN 1895 IS ESSENTIAL.

The Manufacturers' Record wishes to invite attention to the following facts:

The total production of corn in the United States in 1894 was 1,212,000,000 bushels, a decrease of over 400,000,000 bushels as compared with 1893, and a decrease of 850,000,000 bushels as compared with 1891. Fortunately the South had a large crop last year, or otherwise it would have had to purchase its corn at a very high figure, because of this great shortage. As the average crop of the United States for some years has been about 1,700,000,000 bushels, the production of the last two years is over 500,000,000 bushels short of the average. The acreage will therefore cut upon the next crop year with a small stock of corn on hand—so small, indeed, that even should we have another 2,000,000,000 bushel crop as in 1891, it would require all of this enormous yield to make up for the deficiency of the last two years. Even should such a crop as this be produced, prices would probably still be high because of the decrease in 1894.

Another small crop following the one of last year would necessarily mean exorbitant prices for corn.

Because of these facts it becomes more imperative than ever before that the South should increase its corn acreage this year. The South's large crop last year was due more to a heavy yield per acre than to a large increase in acreage. If this section is to maintain its independence of the West so far as corn is concerned, every effort should be made to urge upon farmers the importance of planting a larger acreage this year than ever before. With a big corn crop the South is better prepared to stand low priced corn than it could in any other way.

It is to be expected every trade organization in the South and every business man individually, as well as the press, to persistently exert all possible influence to encourage an increase of acreage in corn and other food supplies.

If the vigorous work of the press is supplemented in this direction by the active personal cooperation of bankers, business men and all others who deal with farmers, it will be possible to secure an increase of 25 or more per cent. in the acreage devoted to corn and food stuffs compared with last year.

The vital interest which the entire South has in the increase of its grain production, which also means an increase in the supply of provisions, prompts the Manufacturers' Record to press this matter upon the attention of every man in the South.—Manufacturers' Record.

The Louisville Times says: "Time is money to busy people. Don't bother them. It is said that a big carpet manufacturer explained to some visitors that the reason he allowed nobody in the work-rooms was because every hand would be hindered at least five minutes and it amounted to a great deal in the aggregate. It is true of the individual as well as of a great number of hands, that little hindrances count up considerably in the long run. Visitors to the composing room of a printing office should bear this in mind."

Debs testified yesterday that his salary as president of the American Railway Union is $9,000 a year. He swore that during the strike he engaged in no violation of law and counsel, and that at all meetings he stated emphatically that under no circumstances must mail trains be interrupted.
