A FORGOTTEN COUNTERSIGN.

"War with raw recruits in the beginning is apt to lead to many amusing experiences," said the old army officer who saw service in Cuba. "Now, you couldn't ask for better soldiers than we had in Cuba, but a large number of them were raw to the business and had much to learn and, much to their credit, it can be said that they soon learned it.

"I had occasion to leave our lines one night soon after we arrived in Cuba, and upon my return it suddenly struck me that I had forgotten the countersign. I puzzled over it for some time, but for the life of me I couldn't recall the word that had been given out. While I was thinking it over I heard the command:

"Halt! Who comes there?"

"Friend," I answered, thinking that the countersign would come to me in a moment.

"Advance, friend, and give the countersign," said the sentry.

"As the countersign had slipped from me completely I walked up to him and said sharply:

"Call the corporal of the guard!"

"Gosh!" answered the sentry. "I knew it was something like that, but I'm deened if I hadn't forgotten it! Mosey on!"

"I 'mosied' but I took the trouble to look up the corporal of the guard and have him give the sentry further instructions regarding the duties of a sentry."

More than He Bargained For.

One evening when a travelling circus was on its way to a large town the proprietor resolved to make a halt for a few hours at a village two or three miles from the town. So an agent was sent on in advance to the village to secure a favorable field for the rest by the wayside.

Noticing a large and suitable field he sought out the owner and told him he would like to turn something out in the field for an hour or so before going on to the town and concluded by asking how much he required for the use of the field.

"Well," said the farmer, "I suppose half a crown won't hurt you."
"That," was the ready reply, "will do very well. But perhaps you don't mind taking a crown," an offer the somewhat astonished yeoman was only too glad to accept.

Fancy his surprise when, a few hours afterward, a herd of elephants and a dozen dromedaries and about 200 horses and ponies had not only been turned out into the field, but were fairly wiping the herbage out of existence.

"That the farmer was furious goes without saying, but the circus proprietor pointed out that he had received twice as much as he had asked for something to be turned out for an hour or two.

"But," roared the farmer, more irate than ever, "do you think I bargained for Noah's ark?"
