THE THRIFTY LEGHORN FOWL.

Are Lively, Active and the Best of Foragers.

The Leghorn fowl holds the same place among poultry that the Jersey holds among cattle. The question of profit in poultry has decided in favor of egg-producing breeds. Leghorns are lively, active, and of a restless disposition, the best of foragers, and will pick up a good part of their living during the year. They are light eaters, and the cost of raising them to maturity is about one-half that of the Asiatic varieties. They mature early, feather quickly, the pullets often begin laying when 4 months old, and cockerels show at the same age. They are the best layers, averaging between 150 and 200 eggs per year. Their eggs are pure white in color, and weigh about 10 to the pound. As table fowls they are fairly good. By many they are considered excellent. The only thing that can be said against them is that they are small in size. Altogether, they are one of the most profitable breeds of poultry that can be kept upon the farm, and the cheapness of their keeping will allow the raising of two Leghorns for the cost of one Asiatic. They must be warmly housed in winter to lay well and to protect their pendulous wattles from frostbite.

Gray African Geese.

Gray African geese are by many raisers considered the most profitable of all geese to keep. They grow the heaviest in the shortest space of time, and are ready for market in ten weeks, weighing at that age between 8 and 10 pounds. They are very much like the Pekin duck in this respect, and as compared with other geese give the most satisfactory returns for the least labor and time spent in growing them. They are, according to standard weights, as heavy as the Toulouse and Embden, but specimens are not uncommon that exceed these weights by several pounds. They are first-class layers and average about 40 eggs in a season. This is considered as a low estimate for their egg production. For table purposes they are esteemed very highly, their flesh being fine and nicely flavored.

FOWL FINDINGS.

Do not discard a variety as useless or unprofitable with only one trial.

Give the hens all the skimmed milk and buttermilk they will drink.

Feed young chickens often if you would keep them growing readily.

The food should always be sufficiently varied to keep the fowls with a good appetite.

When eggs are desired do not gorge the fowls with food which makes fat.

The explorer who is visiting the sheik in the Soudan is much impressed with his magnificent grove of trees.

"You have a splendid collection of trees," he says politely. "It must have taken much time and money to bring them together and plant them in such an orderly manner."

"Really," says the sheik, "they cost me nothing."

"You don't say?"

"It's a fact. You see, our insurance companies remember their patrons with a tree the first of each year."

"How odd! At home our insurance companies give us calendars."

"Which amounts to the same thing. These are date trees."—Judge.

A Question of Title.

"Yes," said the young nobleman, "I am to be married to Miss Boodlington."

"That demonstrates my theory," said the embittered author. "I have always said that a catchy title would sell almost anything."—Washington Star.

Getting Rid of Proofs.

"Mrs. Flutterby doesn't show her age, does she?"

"Well, no; but much as she did before she saw those grown-up children of her own."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Felice—The diamond in this engagement ring is awfully small.

Henri—I told the jeweler it was for the smallest hand in all Paris.—Journal Amusant.

MAN'S STRATEGY.

Palmer's new suit fitted beautifully, but he was short $16 of the price. He needed the suit badly, but his tailor was decidedly disinclined to part with it till it was paid for. After lying awake all night revolving in his mind various schemes, old and new, to get possession of the coveted attire, Palmer evolved a brilliant idea. He put on a high collar two sizes too large for him, went to his tailor and tried on the coat again. Of course it did not fit around the collar, and would have to be let out. The next day he put on a collar a half size too small and tried on the coat again. The collar of the coat bulged out in the back as if it had been constructed for the neck of a pugilist.

"I can't wear that thing," declared Palmer. "It does not fit at all."

"No, it does not seem to," admitted the tailor.

"You've tinkered with it now till you have ruined it. I guess I don't want it."

"Well, I'll tell you what I'll do," proposed the tailor, who did not want a misfit left on his hands. "I'll knock off $5 on the price."

"Don't want a suit that doesn't fit," declared Palmer.

"Well, I'll make it $10."

"Make it $12.50 and I'll take it."

"All right, but I lose money on it at that."

Palmer paid another tailor $1 to have the collar altered, paid for his suit and had $1.50 with which to take his girl to a baseball game.—New York Press.

VERY ROUGH.

"Was Jessie offended when you let your beard grow?"

"Yes; she said she felt it very much."

Queer Sex.

"Women are certainly queer," remarked the old bachelor.

"What's the answer?" queried the inquisitive person.

"The majority of them," replied the old bachelor, "would rather become pitted wives than remain envious spinsters."

Vengeful.

Harris—"I suppose that Foster was pretty well wrought up when he found that somebody had stolen his watch?"

Barlow—"I should say he was! He was wild with rage. He said the watch was five minutes slow, and he hoped it would make the thief lose a train or be too late for an appointment, or some such vexatious thing as that."—Boston Transcript.

After First Prize.

Silas—"My! But that Jerry Bilson has a lot of different patches on his trousers."

Cyrus—"Yes, an' he'll have to stay in the house all of next week."

Silas—"What for?"

Cyrus—"His mother is going to send his pants to the county fair as a crazy quilt."

The Real Thing.

"Are the members of your amateur dramatic club very enthusiastic?"

"Are they! Why, when we presented 'Hamlet' in the next village last week half the company walked all the way home on the railroad track just to give it a professional favor."—Puck.

GOOD NEWS FOR ROXBORO.

Science at Last Discovers a Real Cure For Rheumatism.

After years of experiment a new scientific remedy has been found that not only relieves, but absolutely cures Rheumatism and kindred diseases, to stay cured. Rheumatism is caused by an excess of poisonous acids in the blood. The new discovery RHEUMACIDE, though purely vegetable, and acting through nature's channels, neutralizes these acids and sweeps all poisons and harmful germs out of the blood. At the same time it tones up the stomach and regulates the liver and kidneys.

Rheumacide therefore, cures the disease permanently, because it removes the cause. It has cured hundreds of cases after the most noted doctors and hospitals have failed. RHEUMACIDE cured James Wilkes, of Dillon, S. C., after he had been held in bed by rheumatism for three years and his feet were drawn up almost to his back. This is only one of the many marvelous cures RHEUMACIDE has already performed. RHEUMACIDE is curing many cases of Rheumatism, Sciatica, lumbago, gout, kidney trouble, indigestion and constipation right in this community today.

Because it has cured so many others we believe it will cure you. All the leading druggists in this place sell and recommend RHEUMACIDE.

ANOTHER CHILD CURED

Ahoskie, N. C. Jan 15, 1904.

Mrs. Joe Person. Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the wonderful cure your Remedy made on my little baby girl. Some eight years ago she was afflicted with some blood impurity, which resulted in some raw sores and scabs on her face and feet, which troubled her severely for 12 years, more or less. After trying different medicines and four physicians without any permanent relief, by chance I saw one of your papers and read some of your testimonials I decided to try your Remedy. After using it a short while she began to improve, when she had taken two bottles of it the sores were entirely healed and now seems entirely well. I consider your remedies one of the best blood purifiers on the market; also one of the best medicines for teething children. Yours very truly, Mrs. A. G. Bazemore.

The same request to the other tracers who may wish to take a part. It is my purpose to make these meetings instructive, stimulating, enthusiastic, and interesting. A cordial invitation extended to the public. Your attendance will encourage our teachers and show to them you are interested in these meetings. Don't stop away thinking you will not hear an educational address, and the meeting will not be interesting but turn on and hear the teachers discuss these subjects, and the able essays they will read. This will amply repay you for attending.
