The Witty Irishman.

An Irishman wanted an empty bettle in which to mix a solution, A Little Care Will Save Many Roxtoro and went to a druggist to buy one. Selecting one that answered his purpose, he asked how much t was.

"Well," said the clerk, "if you want the empty bottle it'll be one cent, but if you have anything for it."

"Sure. that's fair enough," observed the Irishman: "put in a cork."-Exchange.

Tale of Chaparral Banking and a Near Train Holdup.

By O. HENRY.

[Copyright, 1907, by the McClure company.] In those days the cattlemen were the anointed. They were the grandees of the grass, kings of the kine, lords of the lea, barons of beef and bone. They might have ridden in golden chariots had their tastes so inclined. The cattleman was caught in a stame pede of dollars. It seemed to him that he had more money than was decent. But when he had bought a watch with precious stones set in the case so large that they hurt his ribs and a California saddle with silver nails and Angora skin suaderos and ordered everybody up to the bar for whisky-what else was there for him to spend money

Not so circumscribed in expedient for the reduction of surplus wealth were those lairds of the lariat who had women folk to their name. In the breast of the rib sprung sex the genius of purse lightening may slumber

So out of the chaparral came Long Bill Longley from the Bar Circle branch on the Frio-a wife driven man-to taste the urban joys of success. Something like half a million dollars he had, with an income steadily increasing.

Long Bill was a graduate of the camp and trail. Luck and thrift, a mavericks had raised him from cowboy to be a cowman. Then came the boom in cattle, and Fortune, stepping gingerly among the cactus thorns, came and emptied her cornucopia at to your srtisfaction. the doorstep of the ranch.

In the little frontier city of Chaparosa Longley built a costly residence. Here he became a captive, bound to the chariot of social existence. He was doomed to become a leading citizen. He struggled for a time like a mustang in his first corral, and then be hung up his quirt and spurs. Time hung heavily on his hands. He organlzed the First National bank of Chaparosa and was elected its president.

You see what a serious thing it is."

Bill Longley was leaning his lengthy, slowly moving frame back in his swivel chair. His hands were clasped behind his head, and he turned a little to look the examiner in the face. The examiner was surprised to see a smile creep about the rugged mouth of the banker and a kindly twinkle in his light blue eyes.
