A BRILLIANT RECEPTION IN GARDEN ASSEMBLY.

Given by Mrs. Media B. Hurlock in Honor of Coming Bride.

The beautiful new Garden Theatre Assembly hall was the scene of a brilliant gathering Thursday evening when Mrs. Media Bickford Hurlock, of West Main street gave a large reception and dance there in honor of her sister, Miss Anne Bickford, who will become the bride of Mr. J. A. Long, of Roxboro, North Carolina, on Saturday evening next.

The new assembly hall was aglow with light—the soft new "eye-comfort system of lighting" which is so restful to the eye and gay with the brilliant coloring of many beautiful gowns, the soft buff walls and clean, new polished floor, making a most pleasing background and bringing out on all sides the remark that Lock Haven has at last a dancing hall of which it may be proud.

The guests were received at the south end of the ball room where rugs, palms and green wicker chairs gave an additional elegance to the scene.

Mrs. Hurlock, was assisted in receiving by her mother Mrs. James A. Bickford, and her sister Miss Anne, the bride to be; Mrs. Z. V. Gwynn, of Roxboro, formerly Miss Elizabeth Bickford; Mrs. Melick Sloan; Mrs. W. F. Parker and the ladies of the wedding party: Mrs. J. A. Long, of Roxboro, mother of the prospective groom, in a charming gown of black velvet and white lace; Miss Sue Long, of Roxboro, wearing a dainty gown of pale blue charmeuse and carrying a huge bunch of American Beauty roses; Mrs. R. J. Teague, of Roxboro, in soft white silk carrying long stemmed white roses; Miss Haag, of Williamsport, in a pretty green and white frock also carrying a huge bunch of white roses; Miss Helen Hutchens, of Cambridge, Mass., in a pretty gown of pale blue carrying Killarney roses; Miss Mary Evans of Baltimore, Md., in pale pink en traine, and carrying beautiful white roses; Mrs. C. E. Page, of Malden, Mass., in a pretty white gown set off with pink roses. Mrs. Hurlock wore a most artistic gown of soft white silk with delicate trimmings and carried a huge bunch of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Bickford's gown was soft Wisteria. The bride-to-be appeared in a most becoming gown of pale blue charmeuse satin and chiffon and carried pink roses. Mrs. Gwynn's gown was white silk with touches of blue, with white roses. Mrs. Packer's gown was white embroidered and Mrs. Sloan black lace over white satin with crystal and blue ornaments. The richness of the ladies gowns in the receiving line and the gay color of the many flowers made a most artistic and charming picture for the guests to enjoy, and over one hundred guests enjoyed the privilege of Mrs. Hurlock's hospitality.

The opening overture and fine program of dance music given by Germania full orchestra of 14 pieces, was one of the delightful features of the reception and fully in keeping with every detail of the reception. The north corner of the ball room was transformed by rugs, palms, easy chairs and card tables into a cosy nook for card playing, and where many of the guests enjoyed the fine music and the brilliant scene. At 11 o'clock Caterer B. C. Achenbach & Son served an excellent supper.

Among other out of town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Bubb, of Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kiessling, of Williamsport, Miss Wynn, of Beech Creek, and the following men of the wedding party: Mr. J. A. Long, Sr., father of the groom; Mr. Matt Long, Mr. Walter Woody, Mr. Charles Long and Dr. R. J. Teague, all of Roxboro. Mr. Fred Page, of Aberdeen, N. C., and Mr. Max Bickford, home from Yale for the wedding.—Lock Haven Express.

The Youth's Companion Window Transparency and Calendar for 1913.

The publisher of The Youth's Companion will, as always at this season, present to every subscriber whose subscription ($2.00) is paid for 1913, a beautiful souvenir. This year it takes the unique form of a Window Transparency to be hung in the window or in front of a lighted lamp. Through it the light shines as through the stained glass of a cathedral window, softly illuminating the design—a figure of Ausumn laden with fruits; and all around, wreathed in purple clusters of grapes and green foliage, is the circle of the months. It is the most attractive gift ever sent to Companion readers.

BRILLIANT WEDDING SATURDAY EVENING.

James A. Long and Miss Anne Bickford Were United in Holy Matrimony.

The marriage of Miss Anne Elizabeth Bickford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bickford, of West Main St., and Mr. James Anderson Long, Jr., son of the Hon. and Mrs. James A. Long, of Roxboro, N. C., solemnized in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church Saturday evening formed the climax of a week of social gaiety in honor of the fair bride.

Long before 8 o'clock a brilliant gathering of invited guests filled the handsome church auditorium. The artistic mural decorations and rich furnishings of the church gave most distinguished setting for the ceremony, the only additional decorations being the touch of green from a mass of tall, graceful palms which screened the pulpit. The wedding party entered to the always beautiful Lohengrin chorus, played with the artistic interpretation of the accomplished organist of Trinity, Mrs. George Eadie, upon the fine organ. The four ushers, Mr. Max Bickford, brother of the bride, Mr. Walter Woody, of Roxboro, Mr. Charles Long, of Roxboro, and Mr. Fred Page, of Aberdeen, N. C., preceded the bridesmaids, Miss Mary Evans, of Baltimore, Md., Miss Sue Long of Roxboro, Miss Helen Hutchens, of Cambridge, Mass., and Miss Isabel Haag, of Williamsport, Pa. The bridesmaids' gowns were uniformly white charmeuse, cut en traine, and trimmed with garlands of dainty pink satin rosebuds. Each bridesmaid carried a huge bunch of pink and white sweet peas mingled with feathery green asparagus and bound with long pink streamers.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Z. V. Gwynn, of Roxboro, sister of the bride, was herself the most charming part of a beautiful costume of pink charmeuse and white lace, cut en traine. She carried a handsome bunch of rich pink roses, their long stems bound with flowing pink streamers.

The bride, one of Lock Haven's most beautiful daughters, was a picture of loveliness as she passed down the aisle with her father. Hidden beneath the long tulle bridal veil, held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms, the bridal robe was a dream of soft white clinging charmeuse satin with duchess and rose point lace and having ornaments and girdle of pearl trimming. She carried an exquisite shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a dainty heart-shaped brooch of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom.

The bridal party was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Matt Long, of Roxboro, his brother, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Lawrence Miller, pastor of Trinity church.

Immediately following the ceremony a large wedding reception was given at the Bickford home, where the happy young couple received the congratulations and best wishes of their friends in the west drawing room, which was artistically decorated. A tall screen of southern smilax mingled with pink and white carnations formed an artistic floral background for the attractive wedding party, while white and pink chrysanthemums in pots formed the general decorations in the various rooms, excepting the dining room where quantities of smilax and fragrant pink roses gave the festive touch to the wedding supper. Germania orchestra was heard during the reception in a fine program of classical and popular music.

Among the out-of-town guests present in addition to the wedding party, were Hon. and Mrs. James A. Long, father and mother of the groom; Joseph P. Judge, Baltimore; Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Teague, Roxboro; Mrs. C. E. Page, Walden, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Bickford, Pittsburg, Clarence Bickford, Osceola, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. John P. Haag, Clyde Herrer, Mrs. James Derr, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Derr, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kiessling, Williamsport; Mr. and Mrs. Griffith, Curwensville; Miss Martha Hoyt, Portland, Oregon; Miss Wyan, Beech Creek.

The bride is one of Lock Haven's most accomplished daughters, being a graduate of Wellesley college, and a popular social leader. Her host of friends in this city in wishing her a happy future regret that Lock Haven will lose her charming presence.

The groom is a rising young business man of the south, associated with his father in the cotton mill industry, and in congratulating him upon having won so fair a bride we wish him a life of prosperity and happiness.

After a short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Long will go to Roxboro and to Florida for the wedding trip after Christmas.—Lock Haven Express.

The Conquests Grow.

Woman suffrage is steadily advancing. It will hardly be long before the south will feel the tremor and the pressure. Virginia has already felt it, and turning down of a woman suffrage bill by the last legislature of the Old Dominion was not the end but the beginning. Ohio a short while back rejected such, but, lo and behold, four states Oregon, Michigan, Kansas and Arizona, adopted it in the election Tuesday. So the east and the south are destined to be in the throes, or embrace however, the viewpoint, ere long. It takes no seventh daughter of a seventh daughter to predict such, and it will, we are sure, find very few disbelievers; none among those who are keeping up with the trend of the times and who feels the vibrations of human emotions.

The remarkable part of the advancement of woman suffrage is the fact that the femininity is obtaining it simply by influence, because whenever they obtain suffrage, it must come by the grace of the votes of the men. In this respect it is an uneven fight; therefore the victory is so much greater. The gratifying part is that they obtain triumph, to, not by rowdyism, because the American suffragette, at least at home, has so far conducted herself in entirely different manner from her English kind.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Better Game Laws Needed.

The next legislature should amend the state game laws and make a uniform law for hunting quail. In some counties the season opened November 1, in others it will open the 15th, and in a few it is still shorter. A uniform law with open season from December 1 to February 1 for three or four years and then an automatic extension to March 1 would have a fine effect and increase the supply of birds. Shooting in November sacrifices too many squealers. Give the birds a fair chance, but the pot hunters in jail and our state will soon be a paradise for the genuine and gentlemanly sportsman.—Greensboro Record.
