A CALL TO THE SOUTH.

To Give Out of its Abundance to the Suffering West.

The appalling disaster in the West calls for immediate help. It is difficult to estimate the suffering and sickness which will follow the wide sweep of rushing waters. Far greater, apparently, in the magnitude of the loss and immensely greater in the extent of influence is this disaster than the earthquake in San Francisco. It is apparently unparalleled in the history of this country. At a time when so large a portion of the West has been swept by rain and storm, costing thousands of lives and hundreds of millions of dollars, with losses which cannot be counted to the full extent for months to come, it behooves the South, abundantly and marvelously blessed as it has been with abounding prosperity, to give freely and with largeness of spirit, and to give quickly.

The Manufacturers Record would strongly urge that in every community throughout the South an active campaign be immediately inaugurated for raising contributions for the sufferers in the West. Humanity demands it, and gratitude to the Giver of every good and perfect gift should make the South respond quickly and largely to the call for help which has been voiced by President Wilson in his appeal to the country.

Mrs. Mary Sergeant.

Mrs. May Newell Sergeant was born Sept. 28th, 1881 and died March 29th 1913.

On April 4th 1906, she was married to W. A. Sergeant. To this union was born one child, Henry Newell Sergeant who with his father survives.

She possessed faith in Christ and joined the Methodist church when about ten years old and remained a faithful member of the church till death. For several years she had been an invalid and at times suffered greatly. She bore it patiently however and was never heard to complain at her lot. In the midst of extreme suffering she was cheerful and seemed to be happy. I have never seen a more beautiful illustration of calm resignation to the will of God than she showed throughout all her sickness. It was always an inspiration to see her. One could not be gloomy or despondent in her presence. Her life was a beautiful illustration of what God's grace can enable one to endure and suffer and still be happy. Her faith in God and His goodness enabled her to triumph through it all. Her life was one in which self was forgotten in her thought for others.

She was devoted to her home and family and made the home a home of sunshine.

She was a benediction to all who knew her and she will be missed by a host of friends and loved ones.

She was conscious of the fact that she could not live but she met the Grim monster unafraid, for she was persuaded that God was able to keep that which she had committed unto Him.

"Servant of God well done. Thy glorious warfare's past The battle's fought, the race is won And thou art crowned at last."

Cunningham and Woodburn.

The best and most practical contribution to our journalistic literature that I have read in a decade, is that of Mr. Bryant the Washington correspondent of the News and Observer in his interview with Vice President Marshall and his splendid wife. They went into their family relation and said that they had been married for 18 years and during all that time they had never been separated for one day. If Mr. Marshall had to go on a journey she always went with him. If she was called to go from home at any time he was always her companion.

Now this is surely something remarkable and greatly to be commended in married people.

If all these restless dissatisfied couples could take this splendid example of the Marshalls and try to live up to it, we would hear no more of suites for divorce but they would be unknown in our land any more. The Vice-President was offered a mission last year by President Taft to one of our South American States for a few months and because he could not secure a birth for himself and wife on the vessel he refused the position.

Our Western people are in the midst of great suffering and distress on account of the tornado which has lately devastated that fine country. Especially Nebraska, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. We ought to be very thankful North Carolina is not visited by such distinctive tempests.

The long period of rain is interfering very much with farming operations in our section and it will cause a late crop I fear in our part of the state.

I am more than glad to see that Mrs. Wilson has tabooed wine from the White House feasts for the next four years.

Following the elimination of the Inaugural Ball at the Presidents request, this is greatly pleasing to all our people.

We regret to say that Mrs. Mary Sydnor mother of Mrs. Robert Bass doesn't seem to improve, but is still confined to her room and bed, she is a very old lady.

Mrs. Nelson one of our nearest best neighbors is also at present afflicted with chills and fevers, it is hoped she will soon be up again.

Measles and whooping cough have been epidemic all through section this winter and spring.

The second quarterly Conference of Durham district for Milton charge will be held at Providence on 4th Saturday in April. Dr. Beaman the Presiding elder will preside and preach on Saturday and Sunday. The public is cordially invited.
