All the Juniors of Brookdale Order are requested to meet at Brooklyn church promptly at one forty-five.

The public is cordially invited. —C. G. Daniel.

Entertainment.

Miss Maggie Harris delightfully entertained a number of her friends on the evening of the 8th of February, the occasion being her twentieth birthday.

After Rook had been played the girls drew hearts and it being leap year requested the young men whose hearts they drew to accompany them to the dining room. The table was beautiful, with white linen and red carnations, the color scheme being further carried out in the refreshments.

The hostess was the recipient of many handsome presents which showed the esteem in which she is held in her community.

At a late hour the guests departed wishing for Miss Harris many happy returns of the day. —J.

Sales Light this Week

Owing to the unfavorable weather this week the sales have been light, but the prices continue very satisfactory. The crop is getting low in this section and there will hardly be any more heavy sales.

Pacifists Fading Away.

Those who continue in the mistaken contention that the country is not with the President in his preparedness program are finding less ground to stand on every day. How they can reconcile the changed attitude of congress with their own unchanged views is hard to understand. The echoes from Wilson's speaking tour seems to have brought Congress solidly into line, as manifested in the votes in both branches. In the House it was 173 to 0 for the President. Not a voice was raised in opposition and this was no doubt largely due to the action of Champ Clark. The New York Times accords him all honor. It says that when Speaker Clark left his chair to begin the fight for preparedness side by side with his political opponent, the minority leader, Representative Mann, "he silenced the pacifists." But The Philadelphia Public Ledger takes note of the real significance of the attitude of the Speaker. It adverts to the fact that he had not hitherto been reckoned among the supporters of an adequate increase in the military and naval forces of the United States. Yet he took the floor to advocate these bills, and did so with an enthusiasm that left nothing to be desired. His action will have great influence upon those members of his party who look to him for leadership. One other gratifying feature of the debate was the disposition shown to treat the question as outside the domain of partisanship. As Mr. Mann said, "It is the time for all who foresee what may come to join hands in preparation." "The pacifists," says The Public Ledger, "may regain the use of their voices, but it is difficult to believe that a body which has begun so well will listen to them." —Charlotte Observer.

A VERY SAD DEATH.

The death of Mr. C. F. Harris which occurred at the Rex hospital in Raleigh last Thursday morning Feb. 3rd 1916, has cast a gloom over this entire community. Frank was about 27 years of age and one of the most promising young men of this section. He leaves a mother and three sisters, to mourn over his sad death.

He had recently entered school at Buie's Creek to prepare himself for the ministry. Also his sister was in school there, and in order to be with her children his mother had broke up housekeeping and followed them to Buie's Creek.

Everybody that knew him loved him for his pleasant smile and words, for he always had a hearty greeting for those whom he knew. Frank was a member of Clement church where he was a faithful worker in the Sunday school of which he was superintendent for a number of years. In his death the community loses one of its brightest young men who was ever ready to do anything for the building of his community and for the uplift of humanity.

I have known him since early childhood and feel that indeed I have lost a very near and dear friend.

The funeral was conducted by his beloved teacher the Rev. Mr. Campbell, who accompanied the remains to their last resting place, after which the body was laid to rest by the side of his father in the burying ground at Clement church. The Juniors of which Fraternity he was a loyal and devoted member performing the last sad ceremonies over the dead body. May the Lord comfort and sustain his mother and sisters in this the hour of their bereavement. —S. P. Jones.

The Farmer is a Business Man

HE needs a typewriter for the same reasons that every business man needs one. Because it saves time, it saves labor, it enables you to keep carbon copies of all your correspondence, it is the up-to-date business like method of writing.

And that isn't all. Every farm is a home and the farmer's typewriter is a home machine to be used by every member of the family. The school, the home, the farm all have their own writing to be done, and the typewriter provides the modern time saving way to do it. Our new is the ideal farm typewriter. Just the model, just the size, just the price. It is half the size of the standard Remingtons and half the price, but it writes with standard type on paper of standard size.

It is so simple that any one can operate it, and as for its quality, the name "Remington" is the answer. The price of the Remington Junior is $50.00.

Tear out this advertisement and send to us with your name and address and we will send you an illustrated booklet.
