ROXBORO, ROUTE THREE

The protracted services started at Leas Chapel the second Sunday in July. Rev. Sanford, of Hickory, N. C. came Tuesday. We had a fine meeting, seventeen being received in the church. Several were converted and are to join other churches.

Protracted services started at Concord the third Sunday in July. Rev. Mr. Shaver, of Roxboro, came Tuesday. Mr. Haywood came Sunday to lead the singing. Fourteen were received in the church. Others will be received later.

Friends and relatives of Mr. Jack Winstead were sorry to learn of his death.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Brewer gave an ice cream supper last Saturday night. Some of his neighbors were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bradner and children spent Saturday with Mrs. Bradner's sister, Mrs. J. M. Brewer.

Miss Beth Brewer is visiting her grandfather, uncles and aunts near Yanceyville.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. E. J. Loftis is going to Durham to join the National Guard.

Mr. C. W. Loftis is still on the sick list.

CHEMIN-DES-DAMES IS A CLOSED ROAD TO CROWN PRINCE.

GERMAN OFFENSIVE IS FAILURE

Effort One of the Biggest Movements of Artillery Since Verdun; French Guns Answer Shot for Shot

Grand Headquarters of the French Army in France, July 22, midnight—The watchword of the troops at Verdun—"They shall not pass"—has applied equally to the Champagne and the French showed the Crown Prince's army that the Chemin-des-Dames was a closed road to them.

On Sunday morning the Germans made in great force their fortieth attempt since the French captured Craonne on May 4 to secure possession of the famous road. This effort was one of the biggest offensives they have made since Verdun so far as artillery was concerned, and proved an undoubted failure.

Four o'clock was striking when a terrific bombardment was opened along the front extending from just west of Cerny to Berry-au-Bac. The front lines and rear positions and all the roads leading thereto were deluged with shells, both great and small, as well as asphyxiating projectiles.

At five o'clock the German infantry started from their trenches. The greatest concentrations advanced between Hurtbise and Casemates Plateau and between Casemates and California plateau.

It was known that the Prussian guards and several other divisions faced the French positions, while other fresh troops were hurrying across the Ailette Valley from the north. The French guns answered shot for shot, and when the German reinforcements were observed approaching they poured a hurricane of projectiles directly into them creating great confusion and causing heavy losses.

Rifle and machine gun fire began crackling while the trench mortars hurled torpedoes, and the rifle grenades opened a wicked barrage fire as soon as the Germans began to leave their jumping-off parallels.

German shock units as usual led the way followed by waves of ordinary infantry. In the sector from Hurtbise to Casemates Plateau the attacking forces soon melted to a thin line under the withering fire, and those still able retreated hurriedly to their own line, which meanwhile came under an inferno of French shellfire.

In the same period, from Casemates to California plateau, other German troops were suffering heavily under similar conditions.

Where their line bent momentarily the French troops organized immediate counter attacks and reconquered nearly everything temporarily taken from them. A French captain, who fell wounded and was captured was later rescued by his own men when the Germans were forced back. He affirmed that German soldiers among whom he lay declared that several waves of German troops when ordered to go over the top, refused to venture into the terrific fire which swept away everything in the open.

Aviators were busy throughout the day and it was a bad day for an infantry attack because the clearness of the air made every movement visible to the airmen and the observers in kite balloons.

The gain of a few hundred yards of a front line trench, which is all that remains in German hands, appears small compensation for the fierce fighting in the forty attacks of the last ten weeks, during which conservative estimates place the German losses in the vicinity of the Chemin-des-Dames alone at six figures.

SOME FISHING!

On Monday morning Messrs. Jno. T. Wade, J. W. and R. T. Brooks left here for eastern Virginia where they spent the week fishing, and if half the tales they tell are facts, they sure caught some fish. The largest reported is fourteen pounds, while the greatest catch from one hole was two three-bushel sacks full to the overflowing. If everything a fisherman tells you is to be believed, there certainly are not as many fish down that way as when they went there. But these boys are all born fishermen, and as it is some distance from here to the fishing grounds visited you will have to make some allowances for time and distance.

COMMITTEEMEN FOR SCHOOLS APPOINTED

Below the names of the committeemen of Person county are given:

Most of them have been serving and have been reappointed. Not a large number of new men have been appointed. All have been chosen by the Board of Education to do this great work because of the confidence in these gentlemen, confidence in their ability and willingness to look after the growth of their school.

In so doing the Board has bestowed a great honor as well as great responsibilities upon each committeeman and are looking for greater things this year:

Allensville Township:

1. Ab. Gentry, Z. T. Gentry, Joe. Montague and B. G. Crumpton.
2. C. A. Whitfield, J. W. Yancey, T. H. Yancey.
3. W. T. Caltoun, B. P. Early.
4. John Wilbourn, J. T. Day.
5. John Sherman, D. C. Moore, Hu.

Bushy Fork Township:

1. E. R. Bradsher, R. S. Baynes, W. E. Phelps.
2. Walter Bradsher, E. F. Hester, Howard Hester.
3. R. R. Whitfield, Daniel Long, J. T. Blalock.
4. Charlie Lawson, W. R. Moore, Nat Harris.
5. Geo. Allen, W. H. Smith, E. R. Whitfield.

Cunningham Township:

1. Thomas Barnett, C. H. Winstead, C. T. Brooks.
2. Judson Green, W. G. Franklin, R. E. Pulliam.
3. G. E. McSherry, Jas. Lockhart, Ed Hinton.

Flat River Township:

1. S. G. Hamlin, J. T. Blalock, W. F. Moore.
2. Thomas Gray, J. L. Timberlake, W. A. Berry.
3. Lowell Blalock, J. M. Burton, Graham Bowles.
4. J. M. James, C. S. Day, N. Clayton.
5. Tobe Satterfield, James Moors.

Holloways Township:

1. W. R. Day, S. S. Crutchfield, Henry Fontaine.
2. R. D. Bailey, H. F. Link, E. M. Wrenn.
3. Elbert Gillis, I. Gentry, S. W. Melton.
4. J. W. Martin, W. E. Coleman, Jim Stuart.

Mt. Tirzah Township:

1. John Holsombach, C. C. Harris, B. J. Bowen.
2. J. T. Newton, L. Mangum, R. L. Day.
3. J. E. Dean, J. L. Humphries, J. W. Harris.
4. W. A. Moore, L. T. Dameron, D. E. Clayton.
5. J. R. Welch, Clark Pixley, Luther Oakley.

Olive Hill Township:

1. T. G. Tatum, Wm. Pleasant, Bob Newton.
2. Alex Newton, Geo. Harris, R. W. Crumpton.
3. I. G. Stevens, A. L. Boyd, J. H. Hester.
4. W. T. Dixon, Sam Fletcher, Nash Winstead.

Roxboro Township:

1. Carter Daniel, D. L. Davis, A. G. Riley.
3. H. J. Whitt, W. D. Yarboro, J. D. Perkins.
4. Albert Warren, J. A. Clayton, Flem Clayton.
5. Jasper Harris, Ira Glenn, D. S. Long.

Woodsdale Township:

1. Green Williams, J. D. Long, J. C. Bray.
2. Giles Crowder, Jack Clayton, Marion Carver.
3. R. P. Brooks, E. J. Robertson, Isaac Owen.
4. W. H. Hall, Geo. Masten, Ellis Munn.

During the past week we have been over quite a large section of the County and beyond dispute there are the finest prospects we have ever seen. Both tobacco and corn are looking in the pink of condition, and if something does not happen for bad before it is housed there will be money and bread a-plenty in these parts. Truly, the farmer can smile even if labor is scarce and high.

COMPLETE REVISION OF TRAINING CAMP PLANS

Under the New Arrangements There Will Be Nine Camps Instead of Eight

Washington, July 22.—A complete revision in the plans for location of the second officers training camp to open August 27 has been decided on by the war department as a result of a reinspection of the sites previously chosen.

Under the new arrangements there will be nine camps instead of eight. Fort McPherson, Ga., Fort Logan H. Roots Arkansas, and Fort Riley, Kans., being dropped from the list and Plattsburg Barracks, N. Y., Fort Niagara, N. Y., Fort Shelling, Minn., and Fort Sheridan, Ill. added. The Fort Myer Va., Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Fort Benj. Harrison, Ind, Presido, San Francisco, and Leon Springs, Tex., designations remain unchanged, but a reassignment of state personnel among the various camps has been ordered.

"Some of the locations originally ordered are objectionable for various reasons," said a report on the subject transmitted to Secretary Baker by Adjutant General McCain. "Fort McPherson is already over-crowded and has poor facilities for training camp work. Fort Logan H. Roots is decidedly unsuitable and Fort Riley, Kans. is objectionable because of the scattering of the buildings; furthermore, it is to become a large cantonment.

"The elimination of these three points necessitates a change in the original plan. The plan recommended above is better suited to existing structures. No new construction is required. Men in training camps will be much less crowded than at present.

The assignment of state quotas under the new plan include:

At Fort Myer—New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia, and Virginia.

At Fort Oglethorpe—North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

Best Varieties of Wheat for State

During the past ten years the Division of Agronomy has studied more than twenty varieties of wheat grown in different sections of the State. Among these varieties are those most commonly grown in the State and other varieties which have given good results in adjoining states. At the Mountain station near Asheville, Leaps Prolific, Dietz-Mediterranean, Purple Straw and Fultz have yielded best. The Piedmont Branch Station at Statesville is located in the main wheat section of the State. At this station Purple Straw, Fulz, Leaps Prolific, and Stoner Miracle have yielded best. At the Station Farm, near Raleigh, Purple Straw, Fulz, and Leaps Prolific have given the highest yields.

It is best to beware of the highly advertised varieties which are said to produce large yields from plantings of one peck to an acre. Under present conditions it will be best to stick to tried varieties, seed of which have been grown in our own State.

NOTICE

There will be preaching at Hurdle Mills Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Our protracted services for Allensville will begin Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. We will have only one sermon on Monday, and this will be in the afternoon at three. But we will have two sermons each day fater Monday, one in the morning at 11 a. m. and one in the afternoon at two o'clock. Hope every member of the church will make preparation to give this week wholly in service to the Lord.

SCIENTIFIC CARE WILL RAISE STANDARD OF PRODUCTION

(By G. E. Conkey.)

A recent trip through Indiana was extremely impressive as revealing the surprisingly large number of farmers and town dwellers who are raising poultry. The quality and size of the flocks was also very gratifying, showing a general interest and determination to contribute Indiana's share in meeting the nation's call for 100,000,000 more pounds of poultry for meat shortage.

And so all over the country with prospects of greater crops, poultry raisers are not worrying over the high cost of feed, but are greatly interested in the results they hope to obtain through more knowledge and better care of their stock. Up-to-date methods are being employed more freely than ever and this is sure to have a beneficial effect on the general results.

"Poultry that formerly was left to shift for whatever the fowls were able to find, is now given the same attention as live stock. The old method of feeding a little corn once or twice a day and depending on the hens finding other materials to complete the ration and enable them to produce eggs, has become a thing of the past. The farmer can not get proper results from corn or any other kind grain alone. As far as feeding value goes, corn is possibly the king of all feeds, but on corn alone the hens would have to consume enough to produce the yolk of at least five eggs in order to obtain the substance for the white of a single egg. The same feature holds good in the developing of young stock. Only where stock has range so that the birds get plenty of bugs, worms and other insects, combined with green food, can get proper results from one kind of grain alone. When stock is confined, or when it is out of the natural season for obtaining these foods, the poultry raiser must supply these elements.

Sour Milk Valuable

Animal food, or meat, in some form is essential to growth and the production of eggs. Sour milk and buttermilk while not meat are considered in this class and they make one of the best feeds that can be given to poultry. Soured milk may be given to either chicks or fowls in almost unlimited quantity without harm. The lactic acid contained in sour milk aids digestion and is a wonderful help in maintaining good health in the flock. Milk is usually given as a drink but I have found it a very good plan to use it for moistening the mash say once a day, feeding the mixture in a crumbly state. When used as a drink soured milk should not be allowed to stand in tin or metal pans or to become rancid. Cocks or wooden troughs make good receptacles. It is now possible to buy buttermilk reduced to a dry powdered form and this concentrated product loses none of its good qualities through the evaporation process. It is the equal in every way to the natural milk but an article which is far less easily handled.

In the market form, the dry buttermilk is mixed with proper quantity of various ground grains making a complete and economical food.

Always remember that it is not how much a fowl eats, but what it can digest and assimilate that makes growth and eggs. The question of producing strong, vigorous, red-blooded and more productive stock has become an important factor with the increased cost of feed and the demand for fresh eggs and poultry which will increase tremendously in the near future. Every pound of grain should count. Every possible advantage in the way of housing and feeding should be given the most careful consideration.

By careful research it has been shown that the average production of the hen left to shift for her living with no special care in the feeding or breeding will average only eighty eggs per year, and these are almost all laid when eggs are at the very lowest prices.

With the spread of more advanced methods in the raising of poultry, and better attention, in the way of proper housing, feeding and the selection of the most fit to breed, the average standard of production has been raised to 150 eggs per year, with many of these produced during cold weather when prices are frequently more than double those paid for summer eggs.

Not only has the 200-egg hen become common, as shown in our recent egg laying contests, but the 300-egg hen has become an actual fact. The hen's greatest achievements are yet to be known.
