PARKING LAWS.

Automobiles have brought about many changes but probably the most serious is the question of parking. Many a town, like Roxboro, in its early history had no idea that the town would ever be more than a village, but with the coming of the railroad the town took on new life and soon passed the village stage. But it was then too late to remedy the narrow streets, and thus the town has continued to grow until today we find the town badly laid out, with streets so narrow that two automobiles create a congestion. Now, what to do with the automobile is a serious question.

The town authorities have passed innumerable ordinances, most of which have been forgotten in less than a month. Only a short time since there was an ordinance that no automobile should park on Main Street between Court Street and Reams Ave., or on Depot Street between Main and Hyco warehouse, but today these streets are literally filled with them almost at all hours of the day, especially Depot Street. With cars parked on both sides of these streets it is a good driver who can manipulate a car through them without causing damage to his or the other fellow's car.

It is a knotty problem, for the merchants on Main Street feel that it is a hardship to compel them to load and unload their trucks from the rear, and when they are permitted to park their trucks the general public feels they should have the same privilege. Something will have to be done, but just what that something is we do not know. The City Dads will have to put on their thinking caps and whatever they propose, and carry out, will cause them to be roundly abused of course. But as that is part of the emoluments of the office they will not mind a little thing like that.

Soon the schools of Roxboro and the public schools of the County will open for their fall work, and there is just one thing we would like to suggest to the patrons, and that is, "provide your teachers with a good, comfortable, convenient boarding house. In Roxboro it is almost impossible for a teacher to get accommodation along this line, and we hear it is little, if any, better in the country. No teacher can do good work unless they have good living quarters, for much of the work of a successful teacher is done in their rooms.

We extend sympathy to the family of the Greensboro News in the death of Mr. Archie B. Joyner, who was the advertising manager of the News. Mr. Joyner had been connected with various departments of the paper and had made good from the bottom to the top. He was not only a splendid, well rounded newspaper man, but he was intensely interested in the affairs of his city and was prominent in every progressive enterprise.

Governor Morrison has hit below the belt again. Mr. Shipman, the latest victim of gubernatorial wrath, is now disporting himself in the mountain fastnesses around Brevard, where the festive trout holds sway. Can you know that no man will give up such soul-satisfying pleasure for the sake of a mere, everyday political argument. Taint fair.

The news of President Harding's illness came as a shock to the people of the Nation, and many have been the prayers offered that this good man may be spared. The reports this morning are encouraging and we sincerely trust his physicians are correct in reporting the crisis as having been passed.

Certainly, the investigating committee found Dr. McBrayer guilty of some minor matters, such as employing too many of his family and doing too much outside work for extra pay, but the whitewashing is complete. What a supply of whitewash the State department must keep on hand these days.

The automobilists who figured prominently in Sunday's grade crossing accidents would have saved at least four minutes if they had beat the train across. We join with the distinguished Japanese visitor in wondering what they intended doing with those four minutes.

There were at least a dozen or more debates held Sunday in various parts of the country, the contending parties being automobiles and locomotives. The question was, who can get across the railroad crossing first. The locomotives won.

How many strange faces have you seen down town today? Each one is a potential customer and will boost business just so much.

Greeley once told all us young men to go west, but he probably wasn't thinking about presidents.

FROM ALLENSVILLE.

I note with pleasure Mr. Melvin Long's letter in yesterday's News and Observer. Now, so far as Richard knows our Sheriff has never been accused of being a liar and he says he is guilty of none of the charges made against him. Now whose word are you going to take, Mr. Long's or the words of a certain class of law breakers that are doing all in their power to ruin the reputation of a man who has done more to bust up the moonshine element than all other forces combined, giving Mr. Sam Oliver and Mr. Melvin Clayton credit for being good officers and perhaps the equal of Melvin Long in running down the blockaders but have not been on the job as long and therefore have not accomplished as much. I think our Commissioners, though god men they are, have made a great mistake in asking Mr. Long to resign, admitting they had nothing in regard to the matter of his accusation. It is very hard to gain such a reputation as Mr. Long has in trying to carry out the law and rid our County of a certain element that do not fear God and regard men only when such men as Melvin Long force them to do it. Of course they are going to tell any kind of falsehood to get rid of him. We have not had a Sheriff in my recollection who made such a fearless effort to carry out the law as Mr. Long has, placing himself in all kinds of dangers for the good of the people he promised to serve. And yet it seems our Commissioners the very first opportunity they had to injure him have wished even mentioning the matter to him have published it to the world through the columns of The Courier. The Roxboro ring must have it in for him like they did in the primary for Mr. Cooper Hall. They evidently disliked Hall because he worked faithfully in the interest of the farmers of the County and they said no sir, Mr. Hall, you can't go to the legislature, Roxboro don't want you and we will not vote for you and will cause enough such farmers as do not think for themselves of the County to vote against you to defeat you. And so they did. I don't believe when it comes to a show down you will find a man in the County of any reputation or character that will come out openly and tell Mr. Long that he is guilty of the charges made against him and if you know nothing why say so much and try to pull down the very enviable character which Mr. Long has established and ruin the character forever of one of our leading young women of the County. Poor Richard.

"Much Obligated"

"We bow to the man who pays promptly. He will receive our best attention and service. His orders are doubly welcome. He keeps our going and saves us many sleepless nights."

We copied the above but it applies to our business just as aptly as to the man's who wrote the original. But for the man who pays promptly we would have to close our business in a very few months. You may think it a strange time of the year to be urging you to pay, but we have to pay our bills just as promptly in summer as we do in winter, so it is just as important that we collect. Our collector may call on you today or tomorrow with a bill or you may get it in the mail. Won't you give it prompt attention. It's a mighty good plan to pay as you go or not go. If you can't pay for one month how can you pay for two. The longer an account stands the harder it is to pay. Thanking you for payment and all other favors and always pleased to serve you.

FORD NEARING 9,000,000 MARK. BETTER TREATMENT FOR TELEPHONE OPERATORS.

Detroit, Mich., July 31.—The Ford Motor Company is now on its way toward 9,000,000 motor it became known today when it was announced that Motor No. 8,000,000 went off the assembly line at the Highland Park plant Wednesday night, July 11, establishing a new million production record.

Motor No. 7,000,000 was turned out January 17 of this year, so the company produced the last million motors in six days less than six months. Production at the start of that period was around 4,800 motors a day and on the increasing schedule in effect since has been brought up to more than 7,000. The average for the period was slightly above 6,711 a day for the 149 working days or an average of more than 166,670 a month.

Under its greatly increased manufacturing capacity the company was able to manufacture the last million motors in two months less time than the previous million. Motor No. 7,000,000 was produced eight months after the 6,000,000th motor passed off the assembly line which was on May 18, 1922, and nearly a year before that date, May 28, 1921, the 5,000,000th motor was turned out.

It was in 1915 when Ford Motor No. 1,000,000 was produced and under the steadily growing demand for Ford Cars and Trucks production has been mounting yearly and maintaining an annual output approximately that of all other automobile manufacturers combined.

Editor Courier:

Sir:—Are telephone operators human? A gentleman privileged to be discourteous to a woman just because she happens to be the woman that is making a telephone connection for him, and because he is unable to see who she is?

This question was asked of a representative a few days ago. "I wonder," said the inquirer, "if they do not think the operators have feelings just the same as other girls, and if they would like for some gruff old business man to talk as insulting to his daughter if she should ever happen to be employed at the telephone switchboard? I do not believe it is possible to receive better service in any city in the United States than it is possible to receive over my phone at any time of day or night, and the answer is simple: "Treat them as you would like to be treated yourself and if they were your own daughter or sister." They find it a pleasure to give you the best service possible if they know you appreciate it, and it will cost you nothing at all to let them know you do appreciate getting a call through quickly. Remember that they have to answer hundreds of calls every day, and more than ninety per cent of them are calls made by very impatient people, people who care not whether they hurt one's feelings or not just so they get their calls through on time.
