R. A. Wilder, a farmer of Wake County, has found his reeling machine a valuable investment. Since he bought it early in the spring he has not only reelected his own cotton seed but also several thousand bushels for his neighbors. Some men brought their seed twelve miles to have them cleaned. It has resulted in better stands of cotton in that vicinity, reports County Agent J. C. Anderson.

Do You Need a Tonic?

Durham, N. Car. - "About fifteen years ago two of my children had whooping cough so badly that afterward their lungs and bronchial tubes were affected from the strenuous coughing. They kept getting weaker and I believe would have had serious pulmonary affection had it not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I gave them several bottles until they were entirely out of danger and well and strong. I would never hesitate in recommending Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a tonic after any prostrating illness, because it brings permanent strength." - Mrs. Josephine Arthur, 409 Toby St.

Obtain Dr. Pierce's "Discovery" now from your druggist, in liquid or tablet form. It can safely be given to little folks as it contains no harmful ingredient. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. for free medical advice.

Miller & Rhoads

She took the morning train to Richmond

IT ARRIVED promptly at 9:45. Richmond! The name thrilled Helen to the heart. She almost ran down the car steps to the station platform and up the easy incline to the great marble concourse of Broad Street Station! It was not her first visit, but Helen loved Richmond. She loved its beauty, its historical traditions and, most of all, its shops.

With impulsive disregard for her conscience, Helen chose a taxi rather than the convenient street car that stopped directly in front of the station. "Miller & Rhoads," she told the driver, with the air of one who knows exactly where to go in Richmond.

In a moment Helen found herself at the entrance to the South's greatest department store. She did not go in directly, but walked completely around the store, for she loved to "window shop." It was the first time she had seen the windows in the new store, and they were perfectly beautiful with their displays of fashion's newest creations.

Inside the store, her first step was to check her traveling bag. Then to a comfortable rest-room to telephone Louise to meet her on the fifth floor for luncheon.

That done, Helen sought the elevators, and found them, centrally located, six in a row, each with its neatly uniformed and courteous attendant.

Getting off at the second floor, she found herself right in the midst of the loveliest display of dresses she had ever laid eyes on. These dresses were the kind she could not buy anywhere outside of Richmond, except, of course, in New York and places like that. There were satins and satin crepes, crepe de chins and novelty silks. Some were trimmed in laces in the newest ways, and there were the gayest summer colors too. Helen could hardly decide whether she liked the Peggy Paige frock of rose-gray crepe satin or the lovely girdled frock of green silk crepe. She knew they were all the very latest word in style, for she had learned by experience that Miller & Rhoads are not only Fashion Right, but Fashion First. She finally selected two dresses, one for afternoon and one for sport wear.

With a feeling of perfect satisfaction in her purchase, Helen looked at her watch. It was twelve-thirty, and she had promised to meet Louise at twelve for lunch!

(Helen is just one of the thousands of women, many of them from your own community, who do their shopping at Miller & Rhoads when in Richmond.)
