

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE HORSE'S STORY

"I have no cause for complaint," said Raven, the horse.

Raven was a very black horse. He was very handsome and his owners loved him dearly. He was the pet of the whole family.

"I have every comfort, every consideration," Raven continued. Billie Brownie was sitting perched-up in the corner of Raven's stall.

"When we go out," Raven went on, "there is a rug to put over me when I'm left standing.

"If it snows I'm protected.

"If it rains I'm kept dry. There is always a rug brought along for me just as there is one for the rest of the family throughout all the uncertain and cold weather.

"But I see other horses, Billie Brownie, and they are not treated as I am.

"They are left standing in the wet. They get drenched and chilly and then they feel so miserable.

"You see, Billie Brownie, horses don't go back home as people do and sit in front of fires and dry off.

"That is why my family see that I don't get wet or cold and that I have a lovely warm stall.

"But people themselves know what it feels like to get wet and stay wet and dry off slowly and uncomfortably.

"Why can't they think of their horses too?

"If they let their horses get wet and then were allowed in the house

"I Will Do My Very Best," Billie Brownie Said.

and sat down before the living-room fires it would be quite different.

"It's cold these days, Billie Brownie, and it often snows.

"We like to be useful but we also want to be treated fairly.

"I'm speaking now for the whole horse world.

"Billie Brownie, can't you get your messengers, the Breeze Brothers, to go around and whisper to people with horses:

"Please put a rug over your horse when you leave him standing in the cold. Put it over him when it is snowing or raining.

"Please see that he is properly shod when it is slippery. It doesn't take long to do this and it saves the poor beast from being nervous and frightened and maybe getting a bad fall.

"Please try to think a horse's thoughts once in awhile."

"Will you try to get these messages around, Billie Brownie?"

"Indeed I will do my very best," Billie Brownie said.

"Oh, I do hope they will listen to these messages," Raven sighed.

"You can imagine how it makes me feel to see these things and not be able to do anything about it.

"My family say many fine things to owners of horses who are not being kind.

"If they could only think of it all as though they were horses it seems to me it would help."

"That would help a great deal," Billie Brownie said. "And I'm going to do all I can to help."

"Oh, you make my horse heart very glad," said Raven.

Then Billie Brownie was off, and Raven went to sleep.

He had a beautiful dream that all horses were treated kindly and just as well as he was.

It was a lovely dream, and he woke up feeling as happy.

"I just hope my dream comes true," Raven laughed to himself.

Her Idea of Play

Jean Frances has been taught always to put her toys away. At grandma's she had to take them upstairs.

One day during her visit she was playing with her toys when she called to grandma: "Don't you want to play house with me?"

Of course, grandma agreed.

"Well, be my little girl," said Jean Frances.

Grandma agreed.

"Well, then, get busy and gather up those toys and take them upstairs," said the child.

Mother Wants Him

Helen Jean saw a small boy sitting on the curb in front of his home, shivering with cold.

"Why don't you go inside, if you're cold?" inquired Helen Jean, in friendly little girl fashion.

"Cause I don't know where my mamma is," was the pathetic reply.

Helen Jean started on.

"Say," the little fellow called after her. "If you see my mamma, will you tell her I'm waiting."

KEEP THE MILK CLEAN AND COOL

Raleigh, N. C., August 3.—During summer months, many dairymen lose considerable money because of milk souring so that it cannot be sold as sweet milk but must be made into butter or used in other ways.

"Milk is nature's most perfect food," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist for the State College of Agriculture, "and every person connected with its handling should be clean in his methods. There are few living germs or organisms in milk when it is freshly drawn from healthy cows and the secret of producing clean milk is to keep all dirt and bacteria from getting into it while handling and then to cool the milk immediately."

Mr. Arey states that expensive equipment is not necessary to produce clean milk. The stable should be clean and well lighted. Since most of the dirt comes from the body of the cow, she should be kept clean. So should the hands of the milkers. All containers used in handling the fluid should be of metal and the corners filled with solder so that no crevice is left for milk to lodge and sour. These containers should be first rinsed, then scrubbed with a good washing powder, after which another washing in boiling water should be given.

The milk should be cooled immediately after milking, states Mr. Arey. Inexpensive cooling apparatus may be rigged up by using the spring or well water to which ice has been added. Those dairymen who ship their milk to a wholesale market should use a felt jacket to keep the milk cool while in transit. If the jacket cannot be had, a good burlap bag soaked in water will fill the need.

"If such simple precautions as these are observed," says Mr. Arey, "there is no reason why clean milk, free from bacteria may not be produced and sold."

For every dollar invested in poultry in North Carolina there is a return of $2.25, says V. W. Lewis, livestock marketing specialist.

One-Profit Studebakers

-at even lower prices

THESE Studebaker Motor Cars, on which new prices are herewith announced, are the identical cars which have given Studebaker tremendous sales volume and thereby lowered production costs.

New prices include all equipment now on our various models, except that bumpers, extra tire, cover and motometer are no longer furnished on Big Sixes.

There is no sacrifice in materials nor in workmanship. Studebaker has brought out no new yearly models built to sell at new prices.

These are the same Studebakers on which we were able to announce new low prices on January 8th of this year.

The following table forms a striking tribute to Studebaker's one-profit production.

So Weak Couldn't Stand

"My wife's health broke down and for years she was just a physical wreck," says Mr. Thomas Glynn, of Gibson, La. "We did everything we knew, yet she seemed to get worse and worse. She was so weak till she couldn't stand, and had to be carried like a baby. It looked like nothing would save her that had been done."

CARDUI For Female Troubles

"I began looking around. I knew that Cardui was for women. I decided to try it for her, as all else had failed. She couldn't eat, she couldn't sleep, and I was desperate. After taking a few doses of Cardui, we were so glad to note that she wanted something to eat, and with each bit of nourishment, and each day's doses of Cardui, she grew stronger and got up out of bed. She is now able to cook, and stronger than in a long time."

Cardui has been in successful use for nearly 50 years in the treatment of many common female troubles.
