

WATTS HOSPITAL

Watts Hospital, located in Durham, ranks among the foremost of its kind not only in this section but throughout the entire South, and it numbers among its patients people from many parts of the country. Established in 1885 by the late George Watts, well known philanthropist of Durham, it has since that time enjoyed a remarkable growth, and though started in a modest manner, it today embraces seven large buildings, besides a nurses' home, and represents a value of $2,000,000. It is located in close proximity to the city, on a 27-acre site, and beautiful trees make the grounds a delight to the nature lover.

In modern hospital and physical equipment, Watts Hospital can hardly be surpassed by any in the United States, and in this respect has been given the highest rating possible by experts and also by the national association of hospitals. Two hundred patients can be accommodated. Many of these come from surrounding counties, such as Person, Orange, Chatham and Granville. Others come from a much wider area on account of the excellent facilities for the care of patients.

Each year a number of girls from this section of the state enroll at Watts Hospital to become trained nurses, with 13 being for this year. There are 62 nurses on the hospital staff at the present time, and Watts has long been recognized as having a high standard of training, and graduates from this institution rank high in their profession.

Watts Hospital is under the personal supervision of Major Walter L. Simpson, formerly of Atlanta, Ga. He is an expert by training. During the World War he served in the army and rendered valuable service on account of his searchlight knowledge and experience. For more than two years he was on the General Staff, as a Major. Since the war, however, he has not broken his military contacts and is now on the Officers Reserve and giving real service to this organization.

Since coming to Durham, he has taken an active part in the life of this section. He is a Shriner in the Masonic Order, and is a member of the Durham Rotary Club. Major Simpson sees excellent things in store for the part of the country, and believes this is the best section of our progressive state. Manufacturing and farming have always gone hand in hand, he stated, and when these two factors are present, the people have no need to fear. The industries furnish the product and the consumers, while these two great and essential factors are present, the people may look forward to progress. This section abounds in both extensive agricultural and manufacturing developments, and is recognized as such throughout the country. The best tobacco in the world was raised here, and our manufacturing products are sold even at the opposite of civilization. With this as our basis of progress, we can only look forward to continued prosperity.

The removal of which he is superintendent is rendering a side and human service, the latter being evidenced by the fact that 25 per cent of the patients treated there are charity patients. An endowment of $500,000 makes such a large list possible.

Mr. George Watts, Hall, grandson of Mr. Watts, has been largely responsible for the most liberal studies of the hospital in recent years, as well as Mr. Simpson's interest.

WOODY, LONG AND MORTON

People come from a long distance to give their patronage to Woody, Long and Morton, exclusive clothing shop for the men and young men of Roxboro and Person County. For more than 20 years this store has been supplying the most exacting requirements of our masculine population, and has built up a reputation for quality of merchandise and honesty in dealings that is second to none throughout this entire section. Many of our men and young men will consider buying at no other place, for they know that the latest and best in clothing needs can be secured from this exclusive and popular establishment.

Mr. W. R. Woody, who is in charge of the business, has a background of wide experience in the mercantile world. Before entering business for himself, he kept books for the mercantile establishment of the late J. A. Long, Sr., and also in capacity of salesman. He takes great pride in the fact that he was once associated in business with one of our noblest citizens and values his presents highly. He is a great admirer of Mr. Long, and fondly cherishes his memory, and in all his relations with his fellow men, he puts into practice the principles which a distinguished Roxboro's great benefactor who did so much for our city and county.

Mr. Woody has thoroughly identified himself with our progress, and is a member of the board of directors for the Roxboro Cotton Mills, the Somerset Towel Mill, and the Peoples Bank. He is a firm believer in Roxboro, and declares this is an ideal place in which to live. "One of our greatest needs at present," he says, "is an increased payroll for the community. General living conditions here are excellent and a greater payroll in the city through the addition of new industries, would pave the way more for a better expansion of business."

Mr. H. S. Morton is also active in the expansion of the establishment which was founded by the present management. He, too, was associated with Mr. Long in his general mercantile store, and gained much of his knowledge of this line of business from this connection. A member of the Roxboro Rotary Club, he has aligned himself with every progressive movement, as has J. A. Long, also interested in this firm.

All three of these men were born and reared in this county, and their store is a distinct credit to our community. Its name is synonymous with quality, with nationally advertised and nationally known clothing being offered to its wide clientele.

J. Y. BLANKS

J. Y. Blanks, dealer in staple and fancy groceries, candy, fruits, and confectioneries, since the inception of his business in 1921, has occupied a place of eminence in the business life of Roxboro and Person County. This statement applies to both the individual and the store, for both have been allied with our past progress. Mr. Blanks is thoroughly experienced in handling the retail grocery trade, and the splendid service given by him has been equalled only by the quality of his merchandise.

Mr. Blanks carries a large and varied stock in his store, and it always measures up to the standard set by him since he opened up for business here seven years ago. Success has been possible by supplying in a very commendable way the needs of housewives through this section. Two delivery wagons are used in giving service to the people of this section.

Mr. Blanks buys much of the produce brought to this city by Person County farmers, and the friendly contacts formed in this manner has greatly increased the scope of his patronage. He enjoys much of his splendid patronage from the rural sections from farmers who bring their country produce to his store. In this way he is also able to supply the people of our city with fresh produce from the country. His trade has enjoyed a healthy growth each year, and today it occupies an enviable place in our grocery trades.

A native of Person County, Mr. Blanks has a wide acquaintance in this section, and has long held the confidence of his customers. He has also been actively connected with forward movements in our city and county, and is recently interested in future developments. A member of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club, he has at all times given of his time and efforts toward boosting Roxboro and Person County.

Mr. Blanks is well qualified to speak of our various needs, since he was born and reared in our midst. "Agriculture and manufacturing have always been interwoven in the life and progress of any community," he declares. "We have made remarkable strides in both of these lines, but much could still be added. A larger payroll through the securing of new industries would increase materially our scope of trade, and would make for our continued prosperity, and then with this supported by an intensified agricultural program, we would hold a vantage spot to be envied by any people. These two would lay a foundation that would insure a continuation of our program, and hasten materially our development."

Harris & Burns Everything To Wear

A Store with a Past, but Looking to the Future
For more than a half century this has been Roxboro's leading store; for nearly a quarter of a century under present name, ownership and management. With an enviable record for handling dependable and desirable merchandise at fair prices and for service rendered by an intelligent, honest and experienced sales force. It has long been a saying, and true, "If it comes from Harris & Burns it's a guarantee that the quality is the best, the style correct and the price reasonable."

While we are proud of this record, we are never satisfied with it. We do not expect business on account of any past record or prestige. Every season we are striving to make it a better season than any previous one. Better in every way that we may be more deserving of your patronage and confidence. We want the business of everyone but ask it not on past records or any other claim save the merits of our merchandise, service and prices.

For years this has been known as
ROXBORO'S BEST STORE
WHICH IS NOT A SLOGAN, BUT A FACT

ROXBORO LUMBER COMPANY

The Roxboro Lumber Company has been an active factor in the growth and development of our city and county, rendering a most complete service to the building trades of this section. A planing mill is operated in conjunction with the lumber business, and both of these enterprises are under the ownership and management of Preston Satterfield and D. W. Long.

Their business is modern and up-to-date in every respect, and occupies a distinct place in the life of our community. A complete line is carried in stock, and here any one can secure any kind of material wanted in the building line. With this goes a prompt and courteous service, and under this policy the Roxboro Lumber Company has enjoyed a liberal patronage from the people of this entire section.

Employment is given to a number of people, and the payroll of the men who work here is either spent or banked in our city. It is essentially a home-town industry, and one that is rendering a useful service toward the building up of our section. Everywhere one may see homes and business buildings which were erected with lumber bought from the Roxboro Lumber Company.

Mr. Satterfield and Mr. Long are both natives of Person County, well known and highly respected by our people. They have an abounding faith in the future of this section, and have long been associated with its development. Born and reared here, they have come to know the needs of our community, and have more than done their share toward our progress. Both upright and honest citizens, they have at all times made their business conform to their high personal ideals of worth and service.
