Education And Prohibition

President Elect Hoover is going to try to make the country dryer. His proposed plan is said in part to be based on the education of the public. A splendid idea. It seems to us one of the best ways to enforce prohibition. It was this method, that of educating the public as to the evils and bad effects of alcoholic stimulants, that was making America the most sober country in the world before the adoption of the prohibitory laws. It is this method, intelligently applied, that will save the existing laws. That will diminish the disrespect for law that has, according to many, grown out of the prohibitory measures. Prohibition based on individual choice is true prohibition. Personal liberty is a precious possession. It is worth while to teach the true facts of the case against alcoholic excess in order to make persons accept the idea of prohibition of their own free-will, eliminating the atmosphere of compulsory regulation of personal habits.

"May I ask," said the interviewer, "why you paint none but nudes?" "Certainly," replied the painter. "The styles change so rapidly in clothing that a picture would be out of date before the paint is dry."

Social

Miss Sara Winstead, attractive little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Winstead, charmingly entertained some of her friends and classmates on a recent afternoon when she celebrated her birthday.
Guests were received by the hostess, and her mother. The children were given red and white Valentine caps, and directed to the living-room.
During the afternoon each child made a Valentine. Then, after finding partners by means of cut hearts the young guests searched for hidden hearts, played throwing hearts, and other games.
At the conclusion of the games refreshments were served in the dining-room, and white mints in compots were placed on the tables.
The tables were exquisitely appointed in decorations of red and white. Each was spread with a handsome white cloth. In the center of the larger table was a white birthday cake on which were white candles in red holders. At each end of the table was a red taper in an old-fashioned silver candle stick. Placed around these and around the cake were red hearts. In the center of the smaller table was a single red taper in a silver candle stick, and around it red hearts were placed. Favors, attractive Valentines, were found at each child's place.
Those present were: Cornelia and Evelyn Satterfield, Louise and Mary Lewis Dickens, Nellie Ray Dixon, Ella Mildred and Dorothy Winstead, Ruth Hester Wagstaff, Elmo Mitchell, Jack Daniel, T. C. Wagstaff Jr., Lindsey Wagstaff and the hostess.

The Review Club held one of the season's most delightful meetings with Mrs. Marvin Carver at her home on Lamar Street, Thursday evening, January 7th. On arriving the hostess, assisted by Miss Oveda Long, served delightful punch. The meeting was then called to order by the president. The members answered to roll call by naming some colonial article or place. The study for the afternoon was "The Colonial Period." Mrs. Carver and Mrs. Albert Warren presented two excellent papers, Mrs. Carver's subject being "American architecture," and Mrs. Warren's paper was "Colonial Days and Ways." The hostess then invited her guests into the dining room where she was assisted by Mrs. K. L. Street in serving a delicious salad course, consisting of Paradise pudding and angel food cake with almonds and mints. During refreshments, Mrs. Carver, in a very gracious manner read the poem, "That Old Sweetheart Of Mine."—Cor. Sec.
Mrs. M. R. Long entertained the Friday Afternoon Club at a lovely luncheon on Thursday morning. The living room was artistically decorated for the occasion, carrying out the Valentine idea. Red roses were attractive in vases and bowls. Five tables of the game of Boston Rook was enjoyed. A delicious two course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Evie Long. Dainty Valentine baskets filled with candy were given as favors.
Mrs. E. M. Davis entertained at dinner and bridge Thursday evening at her home on North Main Street in compliment to Mrs. Ruegger of Richmond, Va., the house guest of Mrs. E. V. Boatwright. Red roses and silver candles holding Valentine candies were used as centerpieces for the tables, while the place cards, tall cards and table covers further exemplified the Valentine idea. A three-course dinner was served buffet style, the hostess and Mrs. R. H. Oakley serving from each end of the table. Six tables were in place for the bridge games, and high score was won by Mrs. W. R. Woody, while the consolation fell to Mrs. Geo. W. Kane. An attractive remembrance was given the honor guest.

Top-Dressing Grain And Hay Crops
The practice of feeding the small grain crop a second helping of a balanced ration by applying a well-balanced fertilizer in the spring of the year is one that is commendable, because it increases the yields of grain and hay, if grown for hay, and reduces the pound or unit cost of growing this crop.
The custom or most common practice in fertilizing small grain in the South is to apply a small amount of fertilizer at the time the crop is seeded in the fall. Occasionally a supplement in the form of readily-soluble nitrogen is given. Where sufficient phosphoric acid and potash are applied at seeding time this will suffice. Ordinarily, however, this is not done.
For that reason, those desiring to make biggest yields of wheat, oats, sorgho or who wish to make the largest quantity of hay from the small grain to supplement the short corn crop of 1923, should by all means fertilize these crops in the spring about the time they are beginning to make rapid spring growth, or just prior to the time they begin to "boot."
For such purposes an application of 400 to 500 pounds per acre of a fertilizer carrying 8 or 10 per cent phosphoric acid, 2 to 4 per cent nitrogen, as 8 or 10 per cent phosphoric acid used. Where as much as 400 to 500 pounds of fertilizer is applied at planting time, and if this carried as much as 8 or 10 per cent phosphoric acid and 4 or 5 per cent potash, and only 2 or 3 per cent nitrogen, a top-dresser of 15 to 20 pounds of actual nitrogen will suffice and will go a long way toward increasing yields and profits in the small grain crop.
KISSES COST LIBERTY
Glen Ridge, N. J.—Four high school girls kissed a girl whom they thought had grippe, hoping for an enforced absence from school. They got more than they bargained for, as their companion had scarlet fever and all were placed in quarantine.
