60 STRIKERS AND LEADERS TO FACE COURT THURSDAY

No Legal Moves To Release Any Of Prisoners Held Reported By Police

BEAL STILL IN CUSTODY

Gastonia, June 10.—More than 60 strikers and strike leaders, members of the National Textile Workers Union, will face preliminary hearings Thursday in connection with the death of Police Chief O. L. Adderholt and in the wounding of three other officers in a battle last Friday night between police and armed guards at a tent colony of striking employees of the Loray mills here.

Today the situation was quiet. Police headquarters reported no legal moves had been made to release any of the persons under arrest. It was stated, however, that a number of the strikers held probably would be released if it was shown they had no actual connection with the shooting, during which Chief Adderholt was shot, and which it is alleged was done by armed guards around the tent colony.

The whereabouts of Fred Edwin Beal, organizer for the National Textile Union and leader of the Loray mill strike, was ascertained tonight. Gastonia police would only say that he was held in a county jail somewhere.

He was arrested in Spartanburg, S. C., Saturday night. George W. Carter and Louis McLaughlin, strike guards, were known to be in the Asheville jail but where other leaders were secreted was not known. Carter was quoted, in Asheville today as denying that he fired the shot which killed Chief Adderholt, which had been alleged in some reports. Other prisoners here would say nothing in regard to the shooting.

City council today ordered the tented colony taken down due to the cost of maintaining a guard at the spot. City and special police have been on duty at the scene since the shooting as it was feared that the place would be demolished if it was left unguarded.

City counsel also voted today to employ five additional police officers.

An Ordinance That Means Safety First

An Ohio town is strong for safety first, having an ordinance which provides as follows: "When two cars come to a crossing both shall stop and neither shall start until the other is gone." If this is carefully observed there will not be many collisions, though there might be some slight traffic congestion.

OVERMAN WAS HERO OF SHOUSE DINNER

Overman Declares Himself For Peace And Harmony, But Unity With Courage

PROBLEM NOW IN STATE

Washington, June 11.—Senator Overman was the hero of the Democratic dinner last night. He was the first speaker who dared to speak boldly in his support of Governor Smith in the last campaign. He brought an evening of harmony to a happy ending.

Speaker after speaker discussed prospects of Democratic success, referred to Democratic principles and described the need for their application. Always though the speakers stopped short of mentioning the Democratic standard bearer in the last campaign.

The nearest any got to mentioning his name was Representative Byrns, chairman of the Democratic Congressional committee who referred to "our leader" in the last campaign. This brought to their feet many of the diners, who feared that they would not have an opportunity to cheer his name.

Lifts The Lid.

Then Senator Overman was escorted to the speakers platform at the suggestion of Col. Robert Harper, who presided at the dinner.

"No cold chills run down my back at the mention of Governor Smith's name," declared the Junior North Carolina Senator. The lid was off. No more need for "suppressed whispers." The diners could cheer without fear of starting a riot. The colleague of Senator Simmons had spoken Smith's name without fear. There were cheers and waving of handkerchiefs, many of them standing up.

GIFT OF $100,000 MADE TO UNIVERSITY NORTH CAROLINA

Money From Carnegie Corporation To Be Used In Establishment Of Library

SPREAD OVER FIVE YEARS

Chapel Hill, June 10.—Announcement of a gift of $100,000 by the Carnegie corporation of New York to be used for the establishment of a library school for the training of librarians in connection with the opening of the University of North Carolina's new $675,000 library, was made known here today by President Harry W. Chase at the commencement meeting of the board of trustees.

The trustees voted unanimously to accept the gift which is to be spread out over a period of five years. At the expiration of that time, Dr. Chase pointed out, the university will be under moral obligations to continue the library school, the maintenance of which then would be about $16,000 a year.

Dr. Chase in presenting the Carnegie offer, pointed out that there are now in the south few facilities for the training of librarians. The only other school, he said, is the Carnegie Library school of Atlanta, which normally is affiliated with Emory university.

Dr. Chase said the faculty was heartily in favor of accepting the offer. He said that 70,000 of the $100,000 would be used to cover the cost of instruction.

Compromise Farm Relief Bill Is Killed In Senate; Hoover Denounces Action

$40,000,000 Loss By Oil Flame

Los Angeles, June 11.—Fire which broke out yesterday in the center of the Santa Fe Springs oil field 12 miles south of here, burned uncontrolled today in the two flowing wells. Ten derricks had been raised by the fire which caused damage estimated at $40,000,000. Officials of the Rio Grande Petroleum company were taking a roll call of employees to check rumors that a workman had perished. A force of 400 fire fighters checked the conflagration.

MORRISON WILLING TO FORSAKE RASKOB

But Provided Anti-Smith Democrats Will Get Rid Of Senator Simmons

ANXIOUS FOR HARMONY

Raleigh, June 11.—University visitors hobnobbing with former Governor Cameron Morrison today on the Chapel Hill campus, found his former excellency perfectly willing to forego Chairman John J. Raskob, of the national Democratic executive committee, if the violent anti-Smiths will get rid of Senator Simmons.

There is no likelihood that Mr. Morrison will open fire on Mr. Simmons who has shot Mr. Morrison up a time or two; but Mr. Morrison is very anxious to see the Democrats get together. He hardly sees the fairness in asking Raskob and Smith to leave the controversy the while Senator Simmons, most violent of them all, is in the way of harmony.

The Morrison declaration for Owen D. Young was talked a great deal at Chapel Hill. His appeal to the business element of the country excels that of any other Democrat, it was observed. And Mr. Young voted for Governor Smith. The Republicans pay his the perfect tribute. On him Mr. Morrison believes it possible to unite the Democracy.

How well Senator Simmons will take to any proposal, if such is made, that he remove himself from the party controversy, is not to be easily guessed. Mr. Simmons generally has wished for right much at the hands of the Democratic party and never for more than Morrison has been willing to work and give. It seems to be a grand prospect for harmony in the party.

"Worldliness consists in these three: attachment to the outward—attachment to the transitory—attachment to the unreal; in opposition to love for the inward, the external, the true; and the one of these affections is necessarily expelled by the other.

HOUSE REPUBLICANS DECIDE MEASURE IS TO BE RECONSIDERED

President Declares Senate Action May Gravely Jeopardize Legislation

SOME SENATORS SHIFT

Washington, June 11.—Overriding President Hoover's farm relief views for a second time today, the senate sent back to the house without approval the agriculture measure from which the export debenture provision had been eliminated on administration demand and thereby drew from the President a stiffly worded statement of condemnation.

The outcome of the legislation tonight was in doubt. The senate voted 46 to 43 against the compromise farm measure drafted by conferees of the senate and house after listening to a violent attack from both sides of the chamber on the presidential views.

Mr. Hoover retaliated a few hours later in a public statement denouncing again the export debenture provision as bound to bring "further disparity to agriculture." He declared the senate vote "adds further delay to farm relief and may gravely jeopardize the enactment of legislation."

Hastily gathering to survey the situation, Republican leaders in the house decided tonight to reconsider the farm measure Thursday under rules which will permit a direct vote on the export debenture, a course which the house previously had flatly refused to take.

Senate Democratic leaders who headed the successful advocacy of export debentures with the western Republican independents replied that their fight was to force a house vote on the debenture. They gave assurance that they would abide by the decision of the house if it would take the vote.

It was a day of bristling exchanges. The senate debate was as vitriolic and spirited as has been heard in years. Senator Brookhart of Iowa, who campaigned through the agricultural middle west for Mr. Hoover, closed the debate with an appeal for rejection of "this wassail bill" and for the election of a "progressive president by the farmers."
